JAIL COHEN CHAUFFEUR IN ACCIDENT

Lawyer's Driver Accused of Failing to Render Aid After Hitting Pedestrian

Vincent B. Fitzgerald, chauffeur for Attorney Milton Cohen, was arrested last night on suspicion of failing to stop and render aid after he is asserted to have struck and injured A. B. Leavitt of 6802 South Coronado Drive, as the latter was standing in the safety zone at Western and Melrose avenues.

Leavitt was taken to the Hollywood Hospital and, according to the police report, was suffering from contusions and possible internal injuries.

According to police records, Fitzgerald was on his way to the Biltmore to take Mr. Cohen home when the accident occurred. Witnesses say Fitzgerald sped on without stopping, pursued by another autoist. Fitzgerald attempted to turn into Maplewood street, according to the police, while going at high speed. The large limousine struck the curb, ripped off a fire hydrant and fell on its side.

Fitzgerald was held by pursuing motorists until the arrival of the police.

BERLIN NOTE ON SECURITY PRESENTED

Germany, It is Understood, Asks Parley to Settle Arms Question

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, July 20. — Germany's security note, delivered to the British and French governments today, is understood to propose a conference of the powers to attempt to reach an agreement for permanent solution of the disarmament question and for security of the frontiers of Western Europe.

If this conference is successful, the note is understood to suggest that the military strength permitted Germany under the Treaty of Versailles be more exactly defined and that the conditions of the Rhineland occupation be made easier for Germany.

The note was handed to Foreign Minister Briand this afternoon. It will be published Wednesday.

Youth Shot by Patrolman in Escape Effort

When Mike Timko, 21 years, of age, residing at 940 South Freeman street, failed to halt at the command of Charles Clensey, a night watchman, at Sixth street and Maple avenue, Clensey opened fire, a bullet hitting Timko in the thigh. Timko was prowling around an automobile parked near Sixth street and Maple avenue and, according to Clensey, was endeavoring to strip it of accessories.

The wounded man was taken to the Receiving Hospital, where Police Surgeon Dorn stated his injuries were not serious. Timko is being held on suspicion of robbery.

Volokoff, and Lieut. France, were severely wounded.

BRYAN, DARROW IN CLASH OVER BIBLE STORIES

BY PHILIP KINSLEY
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DAYTON (Tenn.) July 20.—Moving out of the overburdened courtroom to the open lawn upon a platform shaded by two spreading maple trees, and before a great crowd that spread in a semicircle, the Scopes trial this afternoon developed into a debate between William Jennings Bryan and Clarence Darrow upon the literal acceptance of such Bible stories as the creation, Jonah and the whale, Adam and Eve and their temptation and the fall.

Mr. Bryan willingly submitted to questions along this line for the first time in two years he has been leading the fundamentalist movement. His attitude toward the entire series of questions was typified by his sharp answer to the problem of how there could have been "morning and evening" in the newly created earth before God made the sun. "I believe it," he snapped.

SAME ATTITUDE

In every one of these trick questions that his opponents have been aching to ask him, he took the same attitude. He accepts the Bible absolutely as it stands. If the sun stood still as Joshua commanded it, he said, he was not afraid that the world would come to an end, but said "God would take care of us."

He could easily believe that the God who made the earth and the universe could make a fish big enough to swallow Jonah, and overcome all natural laws. What he could not understand he accepted with simple and childlike faith, not pretending to understand all that was in the minds of those who wrote the Bible, but taking it from cover to cover as the word of God and the "revealed religion." The old covenanter stood up before Darrow at times and defied him to do his worst.

"I am trying to protect the word of God against the greatest agnostic in the United States and I am not afraid to get on the stand and let him do his worst," he shouted once when the pent-up emotions of weeks mastered him and he forgot that he was a witness in a court of law. All semblance of legal procedure in the case was swept away.

CROWD HOWLS

Court was adjourned in a tumult as Bryan and Darrow faced each other in the tremendous scene with the crowd howling in delight, in whose favor it would be hard to say.

Darrow was asking about the snake that had been condemned to crawl on its belly and wanted to know if the snake had walked on its tail before this.

"I'll answer it," cried Bryan, his face aflame, his voice ringing over the square. "I want the world to know that this man, who does not believe in God—"

Darrow interrupted him. Coatless, in his blue shirt, his face scowling, he edged up close to the fiery figure of the crusader and cried:

"I am willing to stand against you and your fool ideas that not an intelligent Christian in the world believes in."

This was too much for Judge John T. Raulston, who had permitted this examination only because Mr. Bryan had expressed a willingness to be a witness, and he adjourned court until morning.

Bryan took the witness stand with the statement that he intended to put Mr. Darrow, Dudley Field Malone and Arthur Garfield Hays on the stand for his side. Whether this will go on is a question.

STEWART CHAGRINED

Atty.-Gen Tom Stewart fought hard to stop the proceedings today, and was perhaps the most chagrined man in Tennessee to see his "law" case degenerate into this camp meeting.

Mr. Bryan referred once to the famous debate between Huxley and Gladstone on evolution and wanted to range himself with Gladstone. But this debate never touched scientific questions, because the witness is not a scientist. He admitted that he had read little or noth-

APOLOGY TO COURT MADE BY DARROW

Scopes Defense Attorney Backs Down When Cited for Contempt by Judge

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DAYTON (Tenn.) July 20. — Judge John T. Raulston today cited Clarence Darrow, defense attorney in the Scopes evolution trial, for contempt of his court, and directed that the Chicago attorney appear tomorrow morning to show why contempt proceedings should not be instituted.

The judge named as grounds for the citation remarks of Mr. Darrow to the court Friday, when the court excluded the testimony of scientific experts from the jury.

The Chicago lawyer was directed to make $5000 bond for his appearance to answer the citation tomorrow.

However, at the opening of the afternoon session Mr. Darrow gained the floor and extended an apology for his remarks. The overture from the visiting attorney was accepted and jurge and lawyer shook hands.

At the opening of the court this morning Judge Raulston began reading a prepared statement in which he said there were two things a court shold always endeavor to avoid, the doing of anything that would excite the passions of the jury and thereby prejudice the rights of either party, and the writing of passion in his own decrees.

"On last Friday," said the judge, "contempt and insult were expressed in this court for the court and its orders and decrees." Judge Raulston then read from the record an exchange of remarks between the court and Clarence Darrow, defense attorney, ending by a statement of Judge Rauston, "I hope you do not mean to reflect upon the court," and Mr. Darrow's reply, "Well, Your Honor has the right to hope."

"The court has withheld any action until passion had time to subside and it could be arranged that

ADVERTISERS GAIN SEATTLE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SEATTLE, July 20.—Fifty-five members of the Los Angeles Advertising Club arrived today on the steamship H. F. Alexander and by train to attend the convention of the Pacific Coast Advertising Clubs Association, which opened here today.

Approximately 400 delegates were here when the convention opened. Mayor E. J. Brown turned the keys of the city over to the delegates and told them to go as far as they liked. Extending a welcome from the State of Washington, Gov. Roland H. Hartley gave them the same privilege over a wider territory. Dr. Henry Suzzallo, president of the University of Washington, gave the keynote address of the convention, speaking on "The Inspiration of Advertising." Dr. Suzzallo emphasized the appeal to the esthetic emotions as well as the intellectual in effective advertising. He took issue with those who insist that truth is all there is to advertising. Even the truth, poorly presented, said Dr. Suzzallo, loses its effect.

SLATE MADE UP

In a three-minute speech competition at noon today on "The Value of an Advertising Club to a Community," the first prize, a silver loving cup, was awarded to Miss Alice Hankinson of Spokane. Clinton Reynolds, Tacoma, won second place, and Clare McCord of Long Beach, third.

Miss Loah Chantler, 8 years of age, daughter of Fred C. Chantler, San Diego, made a hit when she led the San Diego Club in a booster song at a complimentary luncheon to the delegates at the Olympic Hotel today.

Caucuses held by different delegations before the opening of the convention today resulted in the making of a slate that includes the election of Donald Gilman of San Francisco as president to succeed Floyd Spencer of Seattle, and the selection of San Francisco as the 1926 convention city, Portland having fallen into line after receiving the promise of the 1927 meeting.

MUCH ENTHUSIASM

Throughout the convention departmental meetings will be held in which the policies and problems of newspaper, department store, financial, educational and community advertising will be discussed. The departmental meetings will be held at the Olympic Hotel. All general sessions will be at the Metropolitan Theater.

The business sessions will continue for three days. The fourth day, Thursday, will be devoted to sightseeing and entertainment.

Lloyd Spencer, president of the Pacific Coast Association of Advertising Clubs, is presiding over the general sessions.

"This is going to be one of the best conventions in the history of the association," said Mr. Spencer today. "Everybody is here full of the spirit of the occasion, and indications are that the meeting will mark a great forward step in the progress of the Pacific Coast Advertising Clubs.

DELEGATES PUT DOWN AND OUT BY GALE AT SEA

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SEATTLE, July 20.—Somewhat disfigured but still full of pep and vigor, delegates from Los Angeles to the Pacific Coast convention of the advertising clubs arrived here shortly after noon today, more than two hours late, on the H. F. Alexander. The delay was due to the fact that Saturday night out of San Francisco the ship ran into the worst nor'wester in a year, and was forced to slacken speed to sixteen knots from her usual twenty-five.

Of the thirty-five Angelenos in the party, those who did not succumb to seasickness could be

SAVE FIREMEN FROM DEATH IN BURNING PLANT

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, July 20.—Fire originating in the basement of the Pasadena Biscuit Company, 490 South Fair Oaks avenue, shortly after 9 o'clock this evening, completely destroyed the three-story building and its equipment, the total being valued at $200,000. Twelve fire companies battled the flames for hours with no apparent results and at 11 o'clock the roof of the brick structure caved in. Two firemen, J. R. Adler and Harry Haywood, overcome with smoke, fell face down on the basement floor. Water pouring into the building from all sides nearly drowned the pair. Their condition was reported serious at the Emergency Hospital.

The fire was the most serious and spectacular that Pasadena has experienced for many years.

Pasadena's fire department, winner of many trophies for efficiency, worked against impossible odds from the start. Due to the blinding smoke firemen were unable to get to the seat of the blaze until the entire main floor was enveloped. Fire Chief Ernest Coop donned a gas mask and walked into the burning building alone to rescue one of his firemen.

J. A. Donovan, head of the company, was on the scene shortly after the alarm was given. He admitted that the plant was practically a total loss.

The inside of the building, one of the largest in the commercial zone, was like a great fuming furnace. The intensity of the heat was greatly increased when several tanks of gasoline and oil used to operate the bread-mixing machines, exploded.

Sparks flew several hundred feet into the sky and fell on the roof of a store-house two blocks away, igniting the roof. The blaze was extinguished by volunteer workers.

Street-car traffic in Pasadena was tied up, since the main line to Los Angeles runs directly past the biscuit company. As the trolley wires began to get hot, Pacific Electric officials called an emergency crew to cut the copper wires before they fell on the heads of thousands of spectators.

The building was partially covered by insurance, it was reported.

PLEA MADE FOR PACIFIC DEFENSES

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SWAMPSCOTT (Mass.) July 20. The imperative necessity of remedying the weakness of the American system of naval defenses in the Pacific was urged upon President Coolidge today by Senator Hale of Maine, chairman of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs.

The major recommendations submitted by Senator Hale, as the result of observations on a tour of Hawaiian and Pacific Coast naval establishments from which he has just returned, were:

(1.) That a naval base of the first rank be established at Alameda in San Francisco Bay, there being now no base on the Pacific Coast capable of supplying and repairing the fleet in time of war or accommodating the entire fleet even in time of peace.

(2.) That Pearl Harbor in the Hawaiian Islands be developed into an adequate naval base by the deepening of the entrance channel sufficiently to allow ingress of our largest battleships, the dredging of the inner anchorages and the construction of a new drydock capable of accommodating warships of the greatest draft.

COOLIDGE STUDIES PLANS

The President assured the Senator that he would give the recommendations the most serious consideration, remarking that he had been studying the question of our Pacific defenses for some time.

"The fact is," said Senator Hale after his call at White Court, "we have only the beginning of a naval base in the Hawaiian Islands and in my talk with the President, I emphasized the steps that should be taken at the earliest possible moment to remedy the situation.

"What is the value of a naval base harbor which our battleships cannot get into? The present entrance channel of Pearl Harbor is too shallow for our battleships which it was necessary to anchor outside in the open sea after the recent maneuvers in the Hawaiian Islands.

"For the dredging of this channel, $5,000,000 has been authorized but not appropriated yet and that appropriation should be made at the next session of Congress. To

BOXER DEBT OF CHINESE WIPED OUT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, July 20.—China's debt of $6,137,853, the final installment of its indemnity for the Boxer outbreaks, was wiped off the slate today by the United States.

The money will be used for educational purposes under direction of a board made up of American and Chinese citizens.

President Coolidge, in remitting the debt at this time to the troubled nation, acted under authority granted by Congress more than a year ago. The Chinese Legation, taking note of the action today, declared it would go far toward further cementing the friendship of the two nations.

China's indemnity to the United States originally was fixed at $24,000,000, but Congress in 1908 ordered a large part of it eliminated.

MEXICO GIVES DEBT FIGURES

Necessity of Revising Lamont Agreement Indicated; Establishment of Issue Bank Planned

BY JACK STARR-HUNT
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, July 20.—Mexico's entire public debt up to June 30, including both domestic and foreign obligations, amounted to 1,166,771,776 pesos, according to figures made public today by the Finance Ministry. The debt is divided into two sections, including the 997,416,362 pesos of the Lamont agreement signed in 1922 and the 169,353,414 pesos not included in the agreement.

To this total, according to the comment of the newspapers, should be added approximately 800,000,000 pesos estimated to be necessary to cover the obligations the government will contract in settling revolutionary claims and in putting into effect the agrarian laws, and which brings the grand total to approximately two billion pesos. This brings the per capita debt to 140 pesos.

Comment in the newspapers here states that the government, feels that it will be impossible to carry out the terms of these obligations, which would necessitate a revision of the Lamont agreement. The proposed revision would throw out of the agreement such obligations as were not contracted by the Federal government, including the sum expended by the Mexico City government for building a sewerage system in 1898 and obligations contracted by the National Railways of Mexico and "Caja De Prestamos," which was a government loan bank which is now in liquidation. The government argues that the officials of Mexico City should endeavor to meet their own obligations and that National Railways should by readjustment, be placed on a paying basis so that it can care for itself. The non-Federal obligations amount to 266,826,241 pesos, a sum which would leave the national obligation at 899,945,535 if deducted from the total. From this lesser total should be deducted 2,169,875 pesos, the amount which was deposited with the International Committee of Bankers in New York as part payment under the Lamont agreement.

Immediate financial plans of the government include first of all, the establishment probably before the end of the year of a sole bank of issue capitalized at 100,000,000 pesos, of which 51 per cent will be supplied by the government in order that it will be governmentally controlled, and the remainder offered for public subscription.

Bryan Thunders Vituperation at Darrow in Battle Over Bible

CRUSADER BRANDS FOE AS AGNOSTIC DURING CLASH

Commoner Admits Days Mentioned in Genesis May be Construed to Mean Ages in Length

ing of the scientific reports on the age of the earth, the story of the prehistoric man, the study of lost civilizations. And he said he did not intend to begin now, as he was more interested in the science of living and in the present-day acceptance of Jesus Christ.

His testimony at times had a deeply emotional religious appeal that struck the hearts of many of those who sat in front of him.

But Darrow was enjoyed. There was no hissing. They laughed with him at times, but today's performance puts the defense of this case where Mr. Bryan has tried to maneuver it—into the field of opposition to the Bible, among the scientific agnosticism that follows Darrow.

ONE ADMISSION

In one thing, only, did Mr. Bryan depart from the most literal interpretation of Genesis. He admitted that the six days of creation might be six periods, and that these periods might be millions of years.

As to the age of the earth and the time when men lived before the various glacial epochs, he had no notion that he was willing to express. It was in the testimony of the day's record that the oldest rocks on earth are right here in the Appalachian Mountains that run through Tennessee, putting them back 25,000 years.

Mr. Bryan prefers to accept Bishop Usher's chronology figured on the Bible basis of the age of the descendants of Adam. He has learned nothing to contradict that positively, he says.

His answers consistently put Mr. Darrow in the light of one seeking an excuse to discredit the Bible and the Christian religion. The counsel for the defense sought to offset this, with little result.

Mr. Malone said he was a Christian and thought he was as good a one as Mr. Bryan, but he could not find in evolution any menace to his religious beliefs, rather a strengthening process, but this seemed to fall in deaf ears.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

The crowd saw nothing in it but a straight-out battle between the two chief figures. The other developments of the day were forgotten.

These were as follows:

The citation of Mr. Darrow for contempt of court by Judge Raulston at the morning session, based upon Mr. Darrow's insults in addressing the court last Friday.

The reading of the testimony of many of the expert scientists and theological witnesses who believe in God and Jesus Christ and evolution at the same time.

The apology of Mr. Darrow in open court in the afternoon and the Christian-like act of the judge in extending his arm over the sinner and forgiving him.

The danger of the old courtroom falling under the burden of the huge crowd and the decision to move outside.

The crowd that came today was greater than on any other day of the trial.

JURY OUT AGAIN

The poor neglected jury, summoned twice today and then banished again, as something interesting came up in the way of arguments and information, was not even permitted to mingle in the crowd that sat under the maples to hear and see a court trial that never, by any method of comparison, has been matched in American history. Day by day it grows more impossible.

"I couldn't have believed it," was the comment of many who walked away from the afternoon session.

EFFORT OF SCIENCE

The morning had been given over to the scientific story, the effort to show that the story of the rocks, the book of human and animal life written there in bones and imprint, leads to a better knowledge of the work of ages, the religious faith.

This went in over the strenuous objections of the State, which seemed to be afraid that it would contaminate the air of Tennessee, to have such doctrine spread from this forum. They wanted it read in secret to the stenographers. But Judge Raulston, after venting his wrath upon Mr. Darrow, seemed to be veering a little in the direction of the defense, and he permitted it to go into the record and to be read by Mr. Hays in open court.

There were many rumors that the floors of the building, which is thirty years old, were weak and the great strain was making the plaster fall in the ceilings under the courtroom.

There was a little fire scare also, when an electric light wire, burdened with the power for fans to keep the court cool, began to smoke. So an examination was conducted at noon and in the afternoon, the court adjourned to the platform where Mr. Bryan had stood in his Bible talks and where the antievolutionist preachers have held forth to the people in the evenings.

JUDGE READS PAPER

Tables were moved out here. The judge could hardly be told from the rest of the spectators and at times he lost all interest in the proceedings and absorbed himself in reading newspaper accounts. The lawyers were all huddled together in a narrow space ,but it was out of doors and cooler.

It was a good place to bring these passions of religion. The trains and automobiles combined with the voices of the lawyers at times. Children playing on the lawn called for the stern injunctions of the police who still attempted to assure the people that this was a trial and not a show.

The first controversy of the afternoon came over the sign on a banner on the Courthouse wall, back of the place intended for the jury. It said:

"Read Your Bible" in letters fourteen inches high.

Mr. Darrow objected to this.

"Why object?" asked Judge McKenzie. "You don't deny the Bible."

But Mr. Darrow said that Mr. Bryan had made the Bible the issue and he did object.

READS TESTIMONY

He read the testimony of scientists, including Dr. Charles M. Judd of the University of Chicago and Luther Burbank. Mr. Burbank, in answer to the Bryan argument that species never change, told of several new plant species that he had created. One was the crossing of the wild Siberian raspberry with the native California blackberry. Another was the plumcot, made from the American apricot and the Japanese plum. The Shasta daisy is a new species. Mr. Burbank said, he was writing in the interest of truth and sent several pictures to support his testimony.

Mr. Bryan fanned himself and said nothing. After this was over and the crowd had settled back to hear jury arguments, and the jury had been sent for, Mr. Hays sprung the surprise of calling Mr. Bryan as a witness.

The theory on which he asked this was that Mr. Bryan was an expert biblical student. What he wanted to get him to admit was the various interpretations that might be made upon the Bible.

Mr. Bryan did not take long to get into the chair. Evidently he had heard rumors of this. Court and Attorney-General sprang to his rescue, but he took his seat blandly. He said he had been a student of the Bible for fifty years and accepted everything in the Bible as it is given. Except, he added, when there is such a passage as "salt of the earth."

"I do not suppose that it means that the persons referred to are made of salt," he said.

STARTS QUESTIONS

"Do you think everything in the Bible should have literal interpretation?" asked Darrow when Bryan took the stand.

"I believe everything should be accepted as it is found there."

"But when you read that the whale swallowed Jonah, do you believe it?" Darrow asked.

"When I read that a big fish swallowed Jonah, I believe it and I believe that God could make a fish big enough to swallow a man."

"Do you believe that whale was made especially to swallow Jonah?"

"I'm not prepared to say. But I am privileged to guess. Evolution is this guess."

"And you believe that God made the whale big enough or Jonah small enough?"

"I believe what the Bible says and it doesn't say anything about what happened afterward," said Bryan. "One miracle is just as easy to believe as another."

"We have some facts and you have nothing," said Darrow.

"Do you believe that Joshua commanded the sun to stand still so that he could complete a battle?"

"I believe what the Bible says. I accept the Bible absolutely."

"Do you believe that at that time that the sun went around the earth?"

"No."

"Do you believe in the book of Joshua?"

"I believe it was inspired."

"Is it your opinion that the passage was subject to construction?"

PUTS NO LIMIT

"Anybody can construe it, but I don't know whether the construction would be true. I know I can keep a glass of water from falling to the ground by the force of my hand and I don't put any limits on the power of the hand of God to stop the sun."

"Now, Mr. Bryan, have you ever pondered what would happen if the world stood still?"

"No, the God I believe in would have taken care of that."

"No."

"You believe the story of the flood to have been literally interpreted, don't you?"

"Yes."

"When was that flood?"

"O don't pretend to know the date," said Bryan.

"When was the flood?" asked Darrow.

"It has been estimated at 2500 years."

Bryan agreed to be examined.

"I want him to have all the latitude because I want all the latitude possible when I examine Mr. Darrow," he said.

"He can have it," said Darrow.

"You can have latitude and longitude," Bryan added.

Stewart repeated his objection against the examination.

"He is insulting the witness," he said. But Bryan repeated his willingness to continue.

"I am here to protect revealed religion," said Bryan. The audience applauded.

"Applause from the bleachers," commented Darrow.

"The people you call yokels," answered Bryan.

"I have never called them that," Darrow protested.

"And you say the same thing about all the scientists and everyone who doesn't believe in your fool religion."

Darrow then questioned Bryan as to the date of the flood.

Bryan said he believed the figures in the Bible.

"Then you say that in your opinion there is no civilization that can be traced back 5000 years?" asked Darrow.

STICKS TO BIBLE

"I am not satisfied that I have seen what would justify me in accepting the word of archeologists against the inspired word of God."

"You believe that every civilization and every living thing except fish and the people on the ark were wiped out at that time?"

"Yes."

"And you believe that all these people and animals have come on the earth since the flood, 4265 years ago? Do you know any scientific man on earth who believes any such thing?"

"I don't think I've ever asked one," answered Bryan.

"It's quite important, isn't it?" asked Darrow.

"I think many things are more important than the age of the world," answered Bryan. "I have never had a great deal of interest in investigations that dispute the Bible."

"Mr. Bryan, are you the only man on earth who understands the Bible?"

A prosecution objection was sustained.

"Have you never had enough interest in these things to inquire how old these civilizations are?"

"No."

"Don't you know that the civilizations of China date back 6000 years?"

"I've never studied it," answered Bryan. "I don't think you know, either," he added.

"Just wait till I get on the stand and then ask me," said Darrow.

"Do you know of any record in the world except the Bible that confirms the story of the flood?"

OTHER RECORDS

"I think they have found records reciting the story of the flood, but I'm not an authority on the subject."

"Do you know of any record of the kind?"

"My memory is not distinct enough to be specific, but I recall general archeological records about it."

"Did you never read about any other religion?"

"No."

"And you don't know that other religions have this same story of the flood?"

"No, I have never read much about religion outside the Bible."

Bryan wanted to give his views of other religions. Darrow objected, but Raulston overruled him.

Bryan then made a statement to the judge saying he had made a study of Confucius and that he had found contrasts between Jesus and Confucius.

"Reciprocity was the basis of the religion of Confucius. A grasping, selfish basis," said Bryan. "That was not the basis of Christianity."

"No."

"No."

"Don't you know that they are both older than the Christian religion?"

"I'm not interested in the calculations of those whose interest is against the Christian religion."

"Do you know how many people were on earth 5000 years ago?"

"No, do you?"

SOME REPARTEE

"Wait till you get to me," advised Darrow.

"Do you know how many people were in Egypt 3500 years ago or in China 5000 years ago?"

"No, you're the first man I ever met who was interested in it."

"Am I the first man you ever heard of who ever was interested in man's social origins?"

"I have not been interested."

"Where have you lived all your life?" asked Darrow.

"Not near you."

"No, nor near any one with education."

"Don't assume you know it all," said Bryan. "I have all the information in the world I want on religion."

"And you're not interested in the ages of the races?"

"I'm not so much interested in questions of that kind as with those of religion."

"When was that?" asked Darrow.

"Give us the Bible," said Bryan, reaching for the book. "That was about 100 years before the flood," he answered.

"Yes."

"You believe that until then there was only one language?"

"Yes."

"Do you know how many languages there are now?"

"I know that the Bible has been translated into 500 languages."

"And you believe that all the tongues of men now used arose since that incident of the tower of Babel?"

"Yes."

"Is there any scientist that you think much of?" asked Darrow.

"Yes, the bulk of them."

"George McReady Price, a geologist."

"Where does he teach?"

"At Lodi, California, I think."

"How big a college is that?"

"Well, that I don't know."

"You would rather find out whether he corresponded with your views or prejudices before you estimated him, wouldn't you?"

"Yes."

Stewart entered an objection to the questioning but the judge permitted the duel to go on.

"He has quoted a man every scientist of repute considers a mountebank," said Darrow, referring to Price.

Bryan and Darrow then engaged in a colloquy over the estimates of scientists concerning the age of man on the earth.

Bryan spoke of one who put man's tenacy of the earth as beginning after the last glacial age.

"When was the last glacial age?" asked Darrow.

"I wouldn't want to fix it."

"Was it before or after the tower of Babel?"

"I think before."

NO IDEA ON AGE

"Have you any idea how old the earth is?"

"No."

"Do you think it is only 4004 years old as the Bible says?"

"No, I think it is much older."

Stewart broke in with another objection asking what the purpose of the examination was.

"It is to show what fundamentalism is," said Darrow.

"The purpose of it is to ridicule every Christian who believes in the Bible," said Bryan. "I'm simply trying to protect the Word of God against the greatest atheist—I mean agnostic—in the world."

There was great applause from the crowd.

"We have the purpose of preventing the bigots and ignoramuses from controlling education in the United States," said Darrow.

"I am perfectly willing to sit here and defend the right of the people of Tennessee to protect their children's education," said Bryan vehemently, amid more applause.

"DAYS" COME UP

Bryan said there was no necessity for construing the word "day" in Genesis as twenty-four hours.

"You don't think they were literal days?" asked Darrow.

"No, but I don't think it matters. I think they were periods."

"Do you think the sun was made on the fourth day?"

"Yes."

"And that there was morning and evening on the second day?"

"Yes, I believe the Bible."

"And you believe that Eve tempted Adam with the apple?"

"I do."

"Do you believe snakes have to go on their bellies because of that, too?" asked Darrow.

"Yes, sir, I believe in the Bible as it was written."

Then the great Commoner rose indignantly and began to denounce Darrow as an unbeliever, who slurred the written word because they were of a different belief. In a maelstrom of objections Judge Raulston adjourned court until tomorrow morning.

BLACK PHASE TO EVOLUTION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DAYTON (Tenn.) July 20.—Atty.-Gen. Stewart was early on the scene for the resumption of the Scopes trial today, the first of either counsel. He told a story of a negro waiter at the Hotel Aqua, where many of those concerned in the trial are guests. A child was born to the man and his wife during the progress of the legal fight here last week. The waiter has announced that he will name the infant "Evolution," and call him Lucian for short.

BRYAN DEFENDS JOSHUA AS MODERN SUN GLARES

Prickly Heat Ravages Crusader in Open When Courthouse Rocks to Weight of Agnosticism

BY W. O. McGEEHAN
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DAYTON (Tenn.) July 20.—William Jennings Bryan made his declaration of faith today. He made it out in the open air under the hackleberry tree, the Rhea County Courthouse having been declared unsafe.

Called to the witness stand by Mr. Clarence Darrow, he proclaimed his faith in Jonah and in Jonah's whale, also he insisted that Joshua had made the sun stand still.

The current sun, in the meantime, was beating down upon the great realty man's head and on the heads of his auditors.

All of this took place in the open air. The Rhea County Courthouse began to tremble at the morning session under the weight of agnosticism. The judge felt it and it was whispered to him that the weight of the unbelievers might eventually bring the courthouse down about his ears in a shower of bricks.

ASKS FOR BRYAN

After a morning of truculence, Mr. Darrow, tightly fingering his galluses, asked that Mr. Bryan be placed on the stand. Mr. Darrow wanted to make the point that the Bible was not taken literally by fundamentalists. Mr. Bryan gave it to be understood he was testifying under difficulties.

Fingering his agnostic suspenders, Clarence Darrow demanded of the great real estate man if he believed in the story of Jonah and the whale.

Mr. Bryan, smoothing out his little black tie, declared that he did.

"It was a big fish," Mr. Bryan declared.

"You are sure it was not a whale?" Mr. Darrow insisted, putting the crusader under the withering fire of cross-examination.

"Don't know whether it was a big fish;" said Mr. Bryan, "but I know that God could make a man or a whale do anything he wanted them to."

"What would happen if the earth stood still?" asked Mr. Darrow.

"I think that my God would take care of that," Mr. Bryan said.

All Rhea county applauded.

"You know the earth would turn into a molten mass if it stood still," demanded Darrow.

BIRDS STILLED

A hush spread over the lawn and even the black birds in the hackleberry tree were quiet. But Mr. Bryan was equal to the occasion.

"I'd want to hear expert testimony on that," declared Mr. Bryan. At this point, the young State's Attorney A. T. Stewart, the leader of the intellectual secession of Tennessee, rose to his feet and declared himself. He told the court and the birds in the hackleberry tree that Mr. Darrow was cross-examining the witness.

"But he's a hostile witness," said Mr. Darrow.

Mr. Bryan mopped his brow. He appealed to the auditors under the trees further back.

"Oh, let him have all the latitude he wants," said the good man. "I'll want all the latitude I can get when I get him on the stand."

Then Mr. Bryan seemed to realize he was getting what the boys call the works.

DEFENDS RELIGION

"These men are not here to try this case, but to try revealed religion," declared Mr. Bryan, "and I am here to defend religion. I am willing to answer every question."

The cheers shook the hackleberry trees around the Courthouse.

The debate became hectic. It was just as hot outside the Rhea County Courthouse as inside. Mr. Bryan became irritated under the urge of the prickly heat, which has been afflicting him and your correspondent since they came to Dayton.

Under the withering Tennessee sun all the subject matter concerning Jonah and the whale dried up.

"You insult the 'bigots' and the 'intolerant ignoramuses,'" declared Mr. Bryan, losing his temper and becoming to all intents and purposes a mammal.

Mr. Darrow shook an admonitory forefinger right back at him.

Mr. Darrow indicated a few of the scientists who were clinging to or sitting under one of the adjacent hackleberry trees.

"You insult every scientist and every man of learning in the world," declared Mr. Darrow. At this point, three Harvard experts fell out of a tree.

REASSURES LADIES

Mr. Darrow spoke of Confucius. Several of the ladies in the congregation started to move away, but Mr. Bryan, smiling in a conciliatory manner, gave the ladies to understand that talk of Confucius and Buddha would not necessarily entail talk of mammals.

Mr. Darrow asked him several questions concerning the doctrine set down by Confucius. It looked very much as though Mr. Darrow was attempting to have the book of Confucius read into the records.

In the meantime, Mr. Dudley Field Malone was flourishing a strange book, supposedly the Koran. Mr. Malone was suspected of trying to have the Koran also read into the record.

At this point the judge picked up one of the evening papers indigenous to these parts and screened himself. Mr. Darrow continued to cross-examine Mr. Bryan as to the harrowing details of Jonah and the whale and of Joshua and the sun. To every question the great realtor retorted with quotations from "the Good Book."

"Do you believe the earth was created in six days?" demanded Darrow.

STEWART SHOCKED

"No," replied Mr. Bryan, "not in six days of twenty-four hours each."

At this blasphemous admission Mr. Tom Stewart arose to interpose an objection. The court made Mr. Stewart sit down.

"He may be popular here," said Mr. Darrow later on another point, "but he has to conduct himself according to the rules of evidence."

Mr. Bryan appealed to the congregation.

"This man is slurring God," declared Mr. Bryan. "I want the world to know that I will let an atheist and agnostic question me at any time about the Bible."

The cheers echoed through the Tennessee woods.

"No one else believes in your fool ideas," said Mr. Darrow.

The congregation then became acrimonious and the judge threw away his paper and adjourned court. A few minutes later nothing was heard but the puffing of a Ford as he dashed to Winchester twenty miles away.

PRICE WAS LODI SCHOOL PROFESSOR

Man Who Figured in Debate at Scopes Trial Taught Chemistry and Physics

George McReady Price, mentioned today during the Bryan-Darrow tilt in the Scopes trial, was professor of chemistry and physics at the Lodi Academy at Lodi, Cal., for six terms. He voluntarily terminated his connection with that institution in 1918 for the purpose, he stated, of accepting the post of professor of geology at the Pacific Union College. At the present time he resides in St. Helena, Cal.

The Lodi Adademy is of the Seventh Day Adventist faith, and is composed of a student body of members of the denomination from Northern California. While at Lodi Prof. Price was regarded as of strong fundamentalist convictions, and is the author of several books dealing with the subject of evolution. His most noted is "Back to the Bible," published in 1916, which defends the fundamentalist doctrine from the point of view of a scientist.

His other publications include "Outlines of Christianity and Modern Science," "New Light on the Doctrine of Creation;" "God's Two Books;" several other text-books and readers having to do chiefly with geology and Socialism.

Price is a native of Canada, born in 1870, and received the degree of bachelor of arts from Loma Linda College, and the degree of Master of Arts from Pacific Union College, where he later returned to teach. He occupied chairs of science and English at Williamsdale (N. S.) Academy, Loma Linda Medical College and Fernando Academy, in addition to devoting two years to research work in New York.

"In these respects Pearl Harbor is more of a liability than an asset but when properly developed it will be a base which will make our country impregnable to attacks from the west."

The Senator said he had an engineer from the University of Hawaii examine the empty Doheny oil tanks at Pearl Harbor which are rusting for want of oil pending the outcome of the navy oil lease litigation. The engineer pronounced the rust largely mill scale resulting from washing the tanks with salt water. The Senator said the rust was not deep and that corrosion had ceased.

COOLIDGE TOLD OF TAX CUT PROSPECT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SWAMPSCOTT (Mass.) July 20. Plunging into his first real consideration of the administration's legislative program for next session, President Coolidge today received an encouraging report from Senator Curtis of Kansas, the Republican leader, on the prospect for a heavy tax cut.

A reduction of at least $300,000,000 is in prospect on the basis of Treasury reports he has gone over, Senator Curtis told the Executive. He emphasized, however, that should the program for reorganization of the government departments be enacted a cut of $500,000,000 seems possible. He presented no specific plan for tax reduction.

Senator Curtis, who came here today as the house guest of the President, also gave encouraging reports on the farm outlook. He confirmed Mr. Coolidge's view that no special session of Congress is necessary now. He declared against an extended fight to revise the Senate rules at the next session, lest it impede the passage of important legislation.

Good prices and good crops are making for satisfaction among the farmers generally, the Kansas Senator, who has just visited in the Middle West, reported. He believed, however, legislation to aid the co-operative marketing system should be enacted.

the jury would be kept separate and apart from the proceedings so as not to know of the matter concerning which the court is now about to speak.

"Both the State and Federal governments maintain courts that those who cannot agree may have their differences properly adjudicated. If the courts are not kept above reproach their usefulness will be destroyed. He who would unlawfully and wrongfully show contempt for both the law and the courts thereby does an injustice both to the courts and good society.

"Men may become prominent, but they should never feel themselves superior to the law or to justice.

"He who would hurl contempt into the records of my court insults and outrages the good people of one of the greatest States of the Union—a State which, on account of its loyalty, has justly won for itself the title of the 'Volunteer State.'

ORDERS CITATION

"It has been my policy on the bench to be cautious to endeavor to avoid hostility and rashly rushing to conclusions. But in the face of what I consider an unjustified expression of contempt for this court and its decrees, made by Clarence Darrow on July 17, I feel that further forbearance would cease to be a virtue and in an effort to protect the good name of my State, and to protect the dignity of the court over which I preside, I am constrained and impelled to call upon the said Darrow to know what he has to say why he should not be dealt with for contempt.

"Therefore, I order that instanter citation from this court be served upon the said Clarence Darrow, requiring him to appear in this court at 9 o'clock Tuesday and make answer to this citation."

The court fixed bond at $5000. Frank Spurlock, a Chattanooga attorney, arranging this to the satisfaction of the court.

When court convened after the recess, Atty.-Gen. Stewart announced that he had conferred with members of defense counsel following the citation and Mr. Darrow desired to make a statement.

DARROW APOLOGIZES

"Of course, Your Honor will remember," said Mr. Darrow, "that whatever took place was hurried, and one thing following another and the truth is, I did not know just how it looked until I read over the minutes as Your Honor did and when I read them over, and when I did, I was sorry I had said it.

"On Friday I determined immediately on reading it over to tell the court just what I thought this morning. In the meantime I had seen one paper which stated that the court thought that I was trying to get in position where I would be held in contempt.

"Now, I want to say that what I say is in good faith, regardless of what Your Honor may think right for you to do. I have been practicing law for forty-seven years and I have been pretty busy most of the time in court, and I have had many a case where I have had to do what I have been doing here, fight the public opinion of the people in the community where I was trying the case, and I never yet have had any criticism by the court for anything I have done in court."

He added that he thought he

Scopes's Defense Reveals Case in Statement

BIBLE QUOTED IN ARGUMENTS

Contentions Admitted to Court Record

Seek to Conform Religion and Science

Say Soul Not Body Made in Image of God

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DAYTON (Tenn.) July 20.—An effort to distinguish between science and the Bible and conform the two was the meat of the statement by the attorneys for the defense of John T. Scopes, admitted to the record of the case today.

The statement was prefaced with the declaration that, although the defense, as lawyers, "take no position on the truth of the stories of the Bible, we wish to state that we should be able to prove from learned biblical scholars that the Bible is both a literal and figurative document, that God speaks His parables, allegories, sometimes literally and sometimes spiritually.

"We should be able to prove that the entire Bible teaches the fact of the fundamental difference between the soul and the body."

Numerous citations followed, which, the statement said, showed "the Bible attitude" of the nature of the soul.

EXAMPLES GIVEN

Typical examples of the teaching of the Bible in reference to the body or flesh are given in the following:

"My substance was not hid from thee, when I was made in secret and curiously wrought in the lowest parts of the earth. Thine eyes did see my substance yet being unperfect; and in Thy book all my numbers were written, which in continuance were fashioned, when as yet there was none of them." (Psalm cxxxix.) (15 and 16.)

"Here there is a distinct statement that the human body was created by the process of evolution."

"The entire Bible teaches that God is a spirit and the father of spirits and not the father of flesh, they said, indicating different sections of the Bible.

"Therefore it is man's soul or spirit and not his body, that is the son of God, and which consequently is in the image of God.

"That the Bible is concerned with the ethical and spiritual side of life and not with the body, or chest of tools, which is the means of self-development or self-expression of that soul.

"That natural science is concerned with the development of history, the structure and the functions of all living bodies and not with any religious or ethical questions.

FOUR CREATION ACCOUNTS

"That the Bible simply states that God created the human body and the material He used in doing it and not how he did so. There are at least four separate accounts of the creation of the human body in Genesis and they can only be harmonized in accordance with this viewpoint.

"Science has discovered the developmental history—evolution—of the body, the method by which God has brought it into being.

"Another theory of some biblical scholars is that the Bible interprets itself. In Romans 4:17 appears the statement that God 'calleth things that be not as though they were.'

"For instance, some scholars would say, where the Bible states that man was made in the image of God it refers only to Christ and His body, and in the Bible are found passages to uphold this. As an instance, in Philippians 3:21 is the statement concerning Christ: 'Who shall change our evil body that it may be fashioned like unto His glorious body.'"

Various illustrations were given as instances of passages of the Bible which should be interpreted figuratively, or of words which should be given meanings different from their common usage, present day.

"In other words, we should prove that the Bible is subject to various interpretations," they continued, "depending upon the learning and understanding of the individual and that if this is true, there is nothing necessarily inconsistent between one's using the Bible and evolution. Many accept these statements in the Bible as legends or parables . . . and thus find them not inconsistent with any scientific theory."

Greek Clergy Accept Truth of Evolution

Such phases of evolution as have been established by unmistakable scientific proof are acceptable to the clergy of the Greek Orthodox Church, it was stated yesterday by Philaratos Johaniedes, bishop of the Chicago diocese of that denomination, who is now in Los Angeles, and is a guest at the Biltmore.

"We do not indorse what is merely theoretical in this branch of scientific thought, however," said Bishop Philaratos, "though our minds are always open to the truth along any line of scientific investigation."

Referring to the possibility of harmonizing the scientific theory of the origin of species with the account of creation contained in Genesis, the churchman pointed out that while the Bible is not primarily a scientific work, there are nevertheless certain striking similarities between the biblical narrative and the findings of science.

"Genesis says the world was created in seven days, while science finds that the evolutionary period may be divided into seven more or less clearly defined epochs," he observed. "My view on the whole question is that it is one on which both churchmen and scientists should maintain an open mind. So far as the teachings of the Bible in regard to creation are concerned, I believe it would be well to bear in mind that they hardly admit of a literal interpretation."

SCIENTISTS AND THE BIBLE

Defense counsel in the Scopes evolution trial yesterday succeeded in having incorporated in the record of the case opinions of eight scientists as to why the teaching of evolution in the public schools is not contrary to the Tennessee law and does not conflict with the Bible. The statements, as furnished to the Associated Press, follow in part:

DR. H. H. NEWMAN

The evolutionist stands for and believes in a changing world, Dr. Horatio Hackett Newman, zoologist of the University of Chicago, asserted in his statement.

HORATIO H. NEWMAN.

"Evolution is merely the philosophy of change as opposed by the philosophy of fixity and unchangeability. One must choose between these alternate philosophies, for there is no intermediate position; ones you admit a changing world and you admit the essence of evolution.

"We know with certainty some few things about the course of evolution.

"The principle of evolution stands in the first rank among natural laws, not only in its range of applicability, but in the degree of validity to such extent that it may lay claim to rank as an established law. It is the one great law of life.

"Anatomically the genus homo bears a strange resemblance to the anthropoid apes. Bone for bone, muscle for muscle, nerve for nerve, and, in many special details, man and the anthropoid apes are extremely similar.

"Man is many degrees closer anatomically to the great apes than the latter are to the true monkeys, yet the special creationist insists on placing man in biological isolation as a creature without affinities in the animal world.

"According to the most recent computations based on the rate of radium emanations, 1,000,000,000 years have elapsed since the earth first attained its present diameter. Various estimates as to the time since the first life appeared upon the surface of the globe range from 50,000,000 years to about ten times that figure.

"The outstanding fact brought out by a study of human paleontology is that of man's antiquity. According to the most expert testimony available, the oldest fossil in the human series is about 1,000,000 years old; and even this estimate makes man a recent product of evolution as compared with many contemporaneous animals."

Summarizing the "evidences of organic evolution," Dr. Newman's statement concluded:

"The evolution principle is a great unifying and integrating scientific conception. Any conception that is so far reaching, so consistent, is an extremely valuable idea, and one not lightly to be cast aside in case it fails to agree with one's prejudices."

DR. W. C. CURTIS

Evolution, "the doctrine of how things have changed in the past and how they are changing in the present," was discussed by Dr. Winnerton C. Curtis, zoologist, University of Missouri.

"We have," he said, "the fact of evolution as representing the historical series of events. The course followed in evolution, for instance, whether land vertebrates arose from the fish-like ancestors, birds from reptiles, or the like; and the cause of evolution, or what makes it happen.

"The historical fact of evolution seems attested by overwhelming evidence. Science has nothing to conceal, it stands strong in the strength of demonstrable facts.

"The causes of evolution present the most difficult problem of all and the one regarding which we know the least.

"Thence we turn to a discussion of Darwin's work, declaring his accomplishment was two-fold.

"In the first place he established organic evolution as the only reasonable explanation of the past history of living things. Secondly, he offered in natural selection what then appeared an adequate explanation for the origin of species and hence for the causes of evolution."

With the evolution of all other living things, both animal and plant, overwhelmingly attested by the fact, he declared it "not impossible, but puerile to separate man from the general course of events."

"Moreover, the evidence for man's origin is becoming clearer year by year. Comparative anatomy, embryology, classification physiology, geographical distribution, fossils and the existing races of mankind tell the same story for man as for the rest of the world.

"If creation occured at 9 a.m. on October 23, of the year 4004, B.C., as a part of the divine plan, it is amazing that such success should have dogged the steps of the students of human skeletal and cultural remains during the last half century.

"The skeletons in part or whole are known for a number of subhuman races and a vast array of implements and other remains, all showing a progressing advancement."

"Science and common sense inquire regarding the nature and sources of this account," the statement said, "if it be regarded as a true statement of facts. Science faces the matter squarely, desiring only the right to investigate and draw unprejudiced conclusions. The results of such investigations are not in doubt."

"It appears that the races about the Eastern Mediterranean, like other primitive peoples, had their traditions of the origin of the world. The story in Genesis apparently descended to the early Hebrews and to their neighbors in Mesopotamia from a source far antedating the appearance of the Jews as a people and their sacred writings.

DR. M. M. METCALF

There is no degree of conflict between evolution and the Bible, Maynard M. Metcalf, zoologist, former head of the zoological department at Oberlin College, declared in his statement.

"There is no conflict, no least degree of conflict between the Bible and the fact of evolution," the statement said, "but the literalist interpretation of the words of the Bible is not only puerile; it is insulting both to God and to the human intelligence.

"But the fundamentalist would do much worse than insult God. He is in reality, although he doesn't realize this, trying to shut man's mind to God's ever-growing revelation of himself to the human soul.

"He teaches, in effect, that God's revelation of himself was completed long ago, that He long ago ceased to unfold His mind to men in new revelation. This is evil influence, criminal, damnable. Truth is sacred and to hinder men's approach to truth is as evil a thing, as un-Christian a thing as one can do.

"The thought that God is at odds with himself, that His revelation of himself to men of old is at variance with His works in nature, is as blasphemous as it was for the Jewish leaders to say to Jesus that 'He casts out Devils through Beelzebub, the Prince of Devils.' Jesus made short work of this attack upon him."

"In the development of an individual from an egg to adult, this individual passes through a series of stages of increasing complexity and this individual series in one of the higher organisms strangely parallels and agrees with the racial series first mentioned."

Continuing he discussed the discovery of body remains in the fossiliferous rocks which form a series showing increasing complexity.

"Evolution was the only key found to the geographical distribution of animals and plants and to the differences noted between them. He pointed as evidence of evolution to the vestigial organs in animals and plants.

"There are in man, for example, very many structures of no conceivable present use, but showing resemblances to organs in other animals which are useful." The appendix vermiform and the wisdom teeth of man were pointed to as examples.

"Probably there is no structure in the human body which was not at some time used for a definite purpose. As the use of the organ changes in evolution, its structure correspondingly changes, and we see most complete series of intergrades between the earlier and the later conditions."

While there were varied opinions as to the cause of evolution, he asserted the fact of evolution—"of man, of all living things, of the earth, of the sun, of the stars—is as fully established as the fact that the earth revolves around the sun."

DR. J. G. LIPMAN

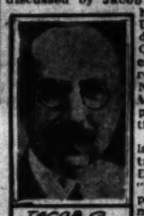
Organic evolution from the point of view of the soil investigator was discussed by Jacob G. Lipman, in his statement. Dr. Lipman is dean of the College of Agriculture and director of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station.



JACOB G. LIPMAN.

"A direct relation may be traced," said Dr. Lipman, "between soils, plants and animals in the evolution of organic life."

"Among the early forms of life there were bacteria capable of developing in a purely mineral medium, such forms being found today in the sea, in mineral springs and in soils.

"Some of them can obtain the energy for their life processes by oxidising hydrogen gas, methane (marsh gas) carbon monoxide, sulphur, iron and even carbon.

"In the primitive seas, and on the rock surfaces, these simple forms of life prepared the way for the most highly organized beings. Some bacteria are able to manufacture nitrogen compounds out of the simple nitrogen gas of the air. They thus supply material out of which the protoplasm of plant and animal cells is made.

"Today, like many millions of years ago, bacteria are busy creating conditions necessary for the growth of plants and animals. Bacteria are responsible for the circulation of carbon and nitrogen in nature. The material of plant and animal bodies is used over and over again and processes of decay must go on in order that the carbon, nitrogen, sulphur, phosphorus and other elements, locked up in the bodies of plants and animals may be released for the development of countless generations of living things."

WILBUR A. NELSON

Tennessee is an ideal place in which to study and learn the story of rock layers which have been laid down from the earliest times in which any life existed up to the present, said Wilbur A. Nelson, State geologist of Tennessee.

Mr. Nelson, who will become head of the department of geology of the University of Virginia and State geologist of Virginia in September, said that the study of buried animal and plant life remains has been taught in Tennessee since 1828.

"Such teachings," he said, "could not have been carried on through ninety-seven years unless the teaching of evolution had been permitted by our religious ancestors who formed this State.

"We know that originally the mouth of the Mississippi River was near Cairo, Ill., and that all of the Mississippi Valley, as we now know it was at that time, which was the close of the Cretaceous period, a part of a much larger Gulf of Mexico, than the one that now exists. All of West Tennessee during that time was in an extension of the Gulf of Mexico, and the fine china clay deposits of that section were laid down in shallow water at the time tropical plants flourished in that section.

"East Tennessee is made up of many layers of rocks, limestone, shale and sandstone, and many of these layers contain the remains of animal and plant life. Some of the oldest rocks which contain animal life are found in East Tennessee."

These Cambian rocks, he said, reveal the first abundant remains of sea form of life, and are well exposed to the east of Dayton. Some of the first corals in fossil form have been found in the west-ern edge of Dayton, he added, and another series of rocks found in East Tennessee is composed of the red iron ore deposits used by iron furnaces.

"It therefore appears that it would be impossible to study or teach geology in Tennessee or elsewhere, without using the theory of evolution."

K. F. MATHER

In a statement which traced the geologic periods, indicating the evolutionary evidences of each, Kirtley F. Mather, chairman of the department of geology at Harvard University declared:

"None of these facts is really in any way disturbing to the adherent of Christianity."

Mr. Mather, who is a member of the Baptist Church at Newton Centre, Mass., and a teacher of a Sunday-school class, declared:

KIRTLEY F. MATHER.

"Not one of these facts contradicts any teaching of Jesus Christ known to me. None of them could, for His teachings deal with moral law and spiritual realities. Natural science deals with physical laws and material results. When men are offered their choice between science, with its confident and unanimous acceptance of the evolutionary principle on the one hand and religion, with its necessary appeal to things unseen and unproven on the other, they are more likely to abandon religion than to abandon science.

"If such a choice is forced upon us the churches will lose many of their best educated young people, the very ones upon whom they must depend for leadership in the coming years. Fortunately such a choice is absolutely unnecessary. To say that one must choose between evolution and Christianity is exactly like telling a child as he starts for school that he must choose between spelling and arithmetic.

"It is obvious to any careful and intelligent reader of the book of Genesis that some interpretation of its account must be made by each individual. Very evidently it is not intended to be a scientific statement of the order and method of creation."

Discussing the two versions of the creation given in the first and second chapters of Genesis, Mr. Mather said there is an "obvious lack of harmony between these two biblical accounts of creation so far as details of process and order of events are concerned."

"The Bible," he asserted, "is a textbook of religion, not a textbook of biology or astronomy or geology. Moreover, it is just exactly the biblical spiritual truth concerning God which rings clearly and unmistakably through every theory of theistic evolution.

"With it modern science is in perfect accord.

Turning to a discussion of where along the line of evolutionary process man acquired an immortal soul, Mr. Mather declared this a mystery.

"Men of science are working on these very problems. They have not learned and they may never learn how God breathed a living soul into man's body. If they should discover that process and the method used, God will still be just as great a power."

"It is man's soul, his spirit," he said, "which is patterned after God, the spirit."

DR. F. C. COLE

Dr. Fay Cooper Cole, anthropologist of the University of Chicago, in a statement submitted, declared that anthropologists accept evolution as the most satisfactory explanation of the observed facts relating to the universe, the world and all life on it.

"The field of the anthropologist is man, man's body and man's society," said Dr. Cole, "and in this way he finds himself working side by side with biologist and geologist."

Dr. Cole called attention to the fact that man closely resembles certain members of the animal world in every bone and organ of his body. Differences were noted, but they were differences of degree rather than of kind. Those animals most closely resembling man were the anthropoid apes.

"A careful study shows that they have specialized in their way quite as much as man has in his, so that while they are very similar, yet it is evident that man's line of descent is not through any of these anthropoids.

"It does appear, however, that both man and other primates have a common precursor, but that the anthropoids must have branched off from the common stock in very remote times. If this is true, then, we might find in ancient strata of rocks some evidences of earlier forms of men, who might perhaps more closely approach the common ancestor. This is exactly the case."

"It seems conclusive that it is impossible to teach anthropology or the prehistory of man without teaching evolution."

DR. C. H. JUDD

A serious national disaster threatens if the voter of legislatures rather than scientific investigation are to determine the details to be taught in the public schools of the country, Charles Hubbard Judd, director of the school of education of the University of Chicago, believes, according to his statement.

"In my judgment it will be quite impossible to carry on the work in most of the departments in most of the higher institutions of the State of Tennessee without teaching the doctrine of evolution as the fundamental basis for the understanding of all human institutions."

Elaborate studies in the field of human psychology, he said, show that a long process of evolution has been going on in its tools, language, customs, laws and other things directly affecting the life of man. He expressed belief it would be impossible to teach adequately psychology or the science of education without constant reference to the facts of mental development included in the general doctrine of evolution.

POLAND MAKING FARM PROGRESS

Quaker Relief Chief Visited Agricultural Schools

Winter Courses Given to Both Boys and Girls

Thousands of Acres Laid Waste by World War

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—"Poland is really making extraordinary headway in agricultural education and her policies are being brought into realities with much more speed than is generally known."

This statement was made by Wilmer J. Young, chief of the Quaker work in Poland, after he had visited about twenty agricultural schools in different parts of Poland during the month of May, 1925. Americans have very little realization of the fact that Poland is an agricultural country and that thousands of acres of her land were laid waste by the World War. Moreover, it has been estimated that there are over 50,000 Polish orphans who own land. An effort is being made to educate these children so that they can make their land productive.

The usual plan is for the agricultural school to have from thirty to seventy-five children, and approximately one acre of land for each student. Sometimes the work on the farm is done almost exclusively by the boys. Usually four hours for the class-work are given daily, even in the summer time, besides the study time. There is a strong feeling against—and in some sections laws prohibiting—the exploiting of the labor of the boys by forcing them to work too much of the time during the summer season.

Some schools are in session for six months in the winter, two terms being necessary to complete the course. Others have continuous session for eleven months; and a few schools have a three-year course.

Mr. Young reports that, on the whole, the schools are quite well organized and managed from a financial standpoint. The average deficit which has to be met from State funds is approximately 2000 zloty or $750 per school. The cost of maintenance for each pupil is between $5 and $7 per month; although this does not include clothing, heating, lighting, or school supplies.

Local agricultural associations take a great interest in the schools in their districts. These are usually run independently of, but in conjunction with, the State Ministry of Agriculture. In most schools, girls have the same opportunities as boys.

AUSTRALIA EAGER FOR FLEET DAY

Parliaments Rise and Business Suspends for Great Welcome

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MELBOURNE, July 20. — Melbourne and Sydney are showing signs of anticipatory enthusiasm with which they undoubtedly will greet the American Fleet on its arrival here Thursday. The Federal and State Parliaments have adjourned and all unessential business has been suspended to enable the whole community to share in a typical Australian welcome.

The Melbourne Herald, in commenting on the forthcoming visit, says:

"An inspection of this great demonstration discloses a recognition of America and Australia of an affinity between two nations of different flags. Each nation is a builder. There is a century of difference in nationhood but already Australia is entering into partnership with America, molding a new world whose center is veering toward the southern seas.

"This partnership is on a foundation of common ideals of which the corner-stone is peace. A passion for justice and liberty sent the first American colonizers westward. That passion has grown into an international policy, recognizing in this younger nation a people of like ideals, force and future. Australians would be lacking in imagination if they did not feel a thrill of pride over America paying them this unique compliment on such a grand scale."

QUEBEC, July 20. — The body of Cardinal Begin, Archbishop of Quebec and Primate of Canada, who died yesterday, lay in state today in the chapel of the Archbishop's Palace.

Next Saturday the Cardinal, the son of a humble farmer, who became a prince of the Roman Catholic Church, will be buried in the crypt of the palace.

Despite his eighty-five years, the Cardinal had resisted with fortitude an attack of uraemia, with which he was stricken a week ago.

thirsty. He made about six trips which took us through barbed wire fences to the ditch. At last Kirk maneuvered me in a bad position with a hollow and a fence behind me. He charged at me to get the gun at my waistband. In the ensuing struggle for the gun which changed hands repeatedly for a few minutes, Kirk received slight wounds on right arm and a blow of my fist behind his ear. I received a slight lump on my left temple, a lost tooth and some scratches on my left forearm, besides a broken watch chain. The scuffle was over in a short time with me in possession of the pistol. This all happened about 3:45 a.m. We then proceeded to the appointed place to await the coming of daylight, more or less sore over the above scuffle.

"We were to shoot at a distance of twelve paces. I was to count one, two, three, at the word three we were to shoot at will. But Kirk found plenty of excuses and we still did nothing at 7:45 a.m. For that reason we had to move further down as there came people to work in the near-by field. Finally after several trips to the water ditch about noon we finally agreed the time was right to proceed with the pistol argument.

SECOND SHOT HIT

"At the word 'two' Kirk opened fire. His shot missed my right hip, just touching the belt enough to be felt. At 'three' I fired and missed. Kirk's second shot missed, and he turned and ran then a few paces with me after him. He turned around and we fired at the same time. My second shot scored the mark.

"Our differences are of long standing, a period of six years when we met before. I did not recognize him here at the hotel for several weeks, and when I did I quit work and the above is the result, with the exception that if he wanted to die I would take my own life in a day or two. I will do this as soon as I leave the valley. It is so hot that I would rather leave this life for a future in a cooler place, even though I am headed for a much hotter one, according to William Jennings Bryan."

A postscript said: "Kirk died instantly and easy, not knowing what hit him. Hope he rests easy."

Accompanying this letter were three others, one a short note addressed to "Whom it may concern," one to Vincent Truden of Forest Hills, Mich., and one to W. O. Weaver, Imperial Hotel, Imperial. None gave any further details. Accompanying the letters was a rude map indicating where Kirk's body might be found.

Kirk's body, however, was not at the designated spot, but a few feet away from it. A pile of bloodstained litter showed that it had lain there, however. The bullet had gone in the man's stomach and pierced his backbone, probably causing instant death. A pistol clutched in the man's hand had three exploded cartridges, bearing out the details of the duel as told in Truden's letter.

A good deal of mystery surrounds both Kirk and Truden. Both were well dressed, both stopped at the best hotel in Imperial, each seemed supplied with money; yet Truden drove an ice wagon and Kirk a gravel truck. A hint of other mysterious employment for Kirk was found in a typewritten letter in his effects. It was unfinished and addressed only to "Dear Dave." It said in part:

HINT IN LETTER

"Tomorrow I once more leave for the land of the greaser. I have the use of a Packard Straight Eight and in the evenings take short trips away from our base camp. I also have the use of a fine saddle horse.

"Working easy to say the least and making money, big money. A boy friend of the late war days has a ranch here and another across the line in Mexico."

Kirk had many letters from women. Other papers found in his room bore the name Henry J. Adams, Honolulu advertiser. There were stories that apparently had been submitted for publication and rejected. His birthday was given on an insurance card as April 19, 1892.

There were also several slips bearing names and addresses, among them: "Private John Truden, Marine Detachment, Camp Holabird, N. J." There was also a letter addressed to Kirk from C. M. Hite of Honolulu, an attorney.

Truden had been in the Imperial Valley about three years and was well known and liked. Kirk appeared about six months later and is said to have made guarded inquiries for Truden before the two men met. They came to blows on several occasions at the hotel where both stopped; on another occasion they were separated by men from the 101 Ranch.

Harry Riddle told officers Truden ten days ago, when he was somewhat intoxicated, spoke of six years of enmity for someone.

"It will probably mean my death but also will mean someone else's death," Riddle quoted Truden as saying. Truden later begged Riddle to say nothing of the conversation, "no matter what happens."

Truden, according to reports by friends to officers, is believed to have been a bachelor. He was about the same age as Kirk, and so far as known has no relatives in this section of the country. Kirk was reported to have a father living in San Francisco and a wife in Honolulu.

STORM IN YOSEMITE

Heavy Hail and Rainfall Visits National Park Region

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

YOSEMITE, July 20.—Hailstones of unusual size fell last evening in an unseasonable storm in this region. The disturbance centered in the High Sierras, north of Yosemite Valley. While the full force of the storm was not felt here, Yosemite Falls was turned in a few minutes from a thin veil of water to a roaring, mud-colored cascade, similar to its appearance during the height of the rainy season. Logs, trees and other debris cluttered up Yosemite Creek, which rose rapidly.

Superintendent W. B. Lewis of Yosemite National Park said that the storm did no damage in the valley.

MANY MEXICANS EMIGRATE

Large Numbers Found in Southern and Western Parts of United States

BY JACK STARR-HUNT

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, July 20.—While, according to figures obtained from the National Railways of Mexico, there are 40,000 American residents in all of Mexico including border States where such residence is more or less of a transitory nature, there are many times more this number of Mexican residents living north of the Rio Grande. In Los Angeles alone a fair estimate of Mexican residents is placed at 125,000, while "more Mexicans than Americans" are reported to make up El Paso's population. The same applies to many American cities near the border.

Mexican residents grow scarce as an investigation is carried on toward the Canadian border, but they live in large numbers as far away from the border as Little Rock, Ark. Chicago, however, has 35,000 Mexican residents according to Luis Lapian, Mexican Consul there, and this figure is certainly more than two and a half times the number of Americans in the capital.

In so far as the number of each country's citizens resident in the other, Uncle Sam has the edge of Mexico in dealing diplomatically on the various problems between the two countries. Mexico has the edge on Uncle Sam if a comparison is made of the amount of money invested by each country's citizens in the other's territory. The Mexican residents in the United States are chiefly of the laboring type and present a problem to both Mexico and the United States. The Mexican workingman is tempted to migrate north of the frontier tempted by higher wages and many of them "take the leap," without having first located the net, in the nature of a job they can fill. The result has been many stranded Mexicans, and a burden to both governments.

Consul Lapian who is on leave here has reported extensively to the Mexican Foreign Office on conditions among Mexicans in his Illinois district, but which in general serves the purpose of explaining the position of Mexicans throughout the United States. He states that the growth of Mexican immigration to Chicago and neighboring industrial cities has been remarkable in the last few years. While a few years ago the Mexicans living in Illinois, Ohio and Indiana were limited to few railroad working men, today practically every industrial plant has many of them employed. Not all of them are prosperous, Consul Lapian reports and their apprenticeship is often a costly and bitter experience, and "borders of tragedy," according to Lapian.

Their chief stumbling blocks toward high American wages are, lack of knowledge of the language and customs and the cold winters which are foreign to the semi-tropic climate they have been accustomed to. Many arrive at periods when the jobless predominate. He advises that Mexicans desiring to cast their lot north of the border take the leap by degrees, first "acclimatizing" themselves in language, customs and habits in places near the border and as they gradually grow in to the swing of affairs move further north. He reports fifteen Mexican societies of various sorts in Chicago and a growing business between the two cities which he places at 1,500,000 pesos monthly.

An Important Message to every friend and user of RICHFIELD GASOLINE

First, a sincere note of thanks to our loyal dealers and to the motoring public for the appreciation of Richfield's superior quality which has resulted in an almost phenomenal sales increase each month for this California gasoline—an increase that has far out-stripped every competitor.

UNFORTUNATELY, the penalty of leadership is almost invariably evidenced by imitation and substitution. This is the case with Richfield today when thousands of motorists who believe they are buying genuine Richfield quality, actually receive a cheap, less powerful gasoline.

It always has been the policy of this company to aid the independent dealer wherever possible—to help increase his sales in every legitimate way. For we believe that the maintenance of the independent dealer means free competition in one of America's greatest industries, and that unless he is largely patronized, a virtual gasoline monopoly will result with attendant disaster to practically every consumer of gasoline and motor oil.

The majority of dealers sell Richfield gasoline, even at greater cost to themselves, because they know Richfield's better quality and tremendous popularity mean greater sales; and because they are sincere in their wish to sell you the finest motor fuel obtainable. This type of dealer would never think of substitution, and this announcement is for both your own and his protection.

A few dealers, however, have put Richfield in one pump only to utilize its popularity to bring more cars to their station—then, they substitute from another pump, a cheaper, inferior gasoline on which they make a greater profit.

In many instances, dealers of this type have actually added an extra length of hose to their other pumps to make substitution easier when a car drives in for Richfield gasoline.

How You Can Protect Yourself

Fortunately, it is easy to prevent substitution. It is illegal to mislabel any gasoline or oil container; and if you will remember to ask for Richfield by name and be certain your tank is filled from the pump marked "RICHFIELD GASOLINE", you will always assure yourself of genuine Richfield quality—mileage, speed and power combined!

Protect your motor and your purse Ask for RICHFIELD by name and be sure your tank is filled from the RICHFIELD PUMP

If you have asked for Richfield gasoline at any dealers and have not received the extra power and mileage for which Richfield is noted, we would appreciate your sending the name and address of this dealer to the Richfield Oil Company in care of this paper.

FIRPO WANTS ANOTHER TRY

Luis Peeved Over Proposed Dempsey-Wills Ring Tilt; Writes Jack About It

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BUENOS AIRES, July 20. Luis Firpo, the Argentine heavyweight, says that he is anxious for another fight with Jack Dempsey, and that the proposed match between Dempsey and Harry Wills displeases him.

Luis has sent the following cablegram to Jack:

"For the sake of the game it would please me to hear that your bout with Wills is not coming off, because I sincerely believe the Black Panther is more of a wrestler than a boxer.

"I am going into training very soon and intend to abandon all other business in order to improve my present physical condition with a view to meeting you again in the ring in 1926."

Mexico Faces Retirement in Wilmington Go

If Kid Mexico falls before Billy McGowan when the pair meet Wednesday night in the ten-round main event at Wilmington, it looks as though "Mex" will have to retire from active ring service altogether. When Kid fought Bert Colima he was supposed to be in the best of his shape. He was in great shape, at that, but according to the Kid's own word, this is the one fight he is primed for.

He has been faithfully working at both his Huntington Beach and San Bernardino camps and is staking a prolongation of his ring career in what fate holds for him in this battle. He is opposing a boxer with the same view in his mind. McGowan, after a successful sojourn among the rings of Atlanta and other points in Crackerland, came to Los Angeles and was beaten by Lou Rollinger in six rounds. He asserted the climate and the extra weight that Rollinger had on him helped materially to upset him.

ALWAYS ON WAR PATH

Is Frank Brazill, hard-hitting third-sacker of the Seattle Indians, who will open a series with the Vernon Tigers today at Washington Park. Brazill carries on his war with opposing pitchers using base hits as his ammunition. Brazill is the proud possessor of a .410 batting average at present and is the second leading hitter in the league.

CRAIG AND DE LARA IN NET CLASH

Star Juniors Meet Today in Feature Tennis Match at Alhambra

Norval Craig and Jack De Lara, two of Southern California's most promising juniors, clash today in the singles feature of the Alhambra city tennis championships at the Alhambra Athletic Club. Craig and De Lara have fought their way into the same bracket after a series of hard matches and a large gallery is expected to see them play it out today.

Schofield, Robinson, Rusher and Bessey remain in the play for the men's singles title. Rusher went into the semifinals yesterday, winning from Irwin in the morning, 6-1, 6-2, and trimming Wilson in the afternoon, 6-1, 6-1. He takes on Robinson in the first match this morning.

Mrs. W. M. Henry won two matches Sunday, so she did not play yesterday, and is not scheduled today. She is playing with Norval Craig in the mixed doubles. Miss Louise McFarland, Midwick's coming junior star, advanced another round in the mixed doubles, winning, with Robinson, from Miss James and DeLara, 6-4, 6-3. The results:

MEN'S SINGLES

DUNDEE OUTPOINTS JOHNNY LEONARD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, July 20.—Johnny Dundee, former featherweight champion, outpointed Johnny Leonard, in a ten-round bout at the Queensboro Stadium tonight, scoring a knockdown in the first round and carrying the fight to his opponent throughout. Leonard's face was cut in several places by Dundee's continual jabbing. Dundee weighed 130½ and Leonard 129½.

SUDS FACE TIGERS TODAY

Angels Journey to Salt Lake for Nine-Game Series With Bees; Coast League Race Tightening

BY ROBERT E. RAY

"Radiant Red" Killefer's Seattle Indians, who tightened up the Coast League race last week by applying a monkey wrench to Mr. Bert Ellison's San Francisco Seals while the Angels and Bees were having good weeks, will drop into Los Angeles to open a seven-game series with Bill Easick's Vernon Tigers, the opener being slated to take place this afternoon at Washington Park.

While the Suds and Bengals are making faces at each other on the local lot, Marty Krug's soaring Seraphs, who only took seven games from the Portland Beavers last week, will be battling Oscar Vitt's bombastic Bees in the rarified atmosphere of Salt Lake. Nine games are scheduled for the Krugmahan and Bees, one having been left over from the last series between the two clubs, while another is added to the bill because Friday is Pioneer Day, a Utah holiday.

With three double-headers scheduled in six days, the Angel hurlers have their work cut out for them. Pitching in the dinky Bonneville Park is not the easiest task in the world, and the way the Bees are hitting now makes the job doubly difficult. However, the Seraph slab staff shapes up pretty well at present and should be able to prevent the Bees from making any run records.

WON LAST TIME

The last time the Angels clashed with the Mormons at Salt Lake, the Krug contingent took five victories out of the six games played, one contest being prevented by rain. If the Seraphs can do as well this time, everything will be hotsy-totsy on the Potomac.

Roughly guessing, one would be inclined to make the Indians favorites to take about five out of seven from the Tigers, but as G. B. Shaw, England's fuzzy-faced philosopher once remarked, you never can tell. After dropping four out of five at Salt Lake, the Tigers showed surprising strength on Sunday when they took the Bees down in both ends of a double-header.

If Clyde Barfoot, Vernon's winning hurler, is in his usual form, the Suds are due to take a couple of lickings, or at least have a helluva time winning. When Barfoot is right, he is as tough a hurler to beat as there is in this loop. His change of pace should puzzle the slugging Seattle swingers as it has other heavy-hitting clubs.

And Seattle has plenty of heavy

WIN DECISION OVER DAVE SHADE

Coast Racketers Advance in Skokie Tournament

Misses Jacobson and Hosmer Triumph at Chicago

Johnston, Griffin and Kinsey Boys Also Victorious

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SKOKIE COUNTRY CLUB (Glencoe, Ill.) July 20.—William T. Tilden II and seven other members of the select first ten in national ranking swept through the first day's play of the Illinois State tennis championships at the Skokie Country Club today without encountering much serious opposition.

Tilden, the national champion and present holder of the Illinois title, won his first match in a walk from young Leo F. Boldenweck of Chicago, 6-0, 6-0. Big Bill continued to have things all his own way in the second round, disposing of Joe Durant of Chicago in straight sets, 6-1, 6-2.

Little Bill Johnston of San Francisco, third ranking player in the country and generally regarded as the player who will come through the week to meet Tilden in the finals Sunday, smashed his way to an easy victory over R. C. Shoemaker of Chicago in the first round, 6-2, 6-2. Johnston was in fine stroke and was never in trouble.

Howard Kinsey, another of the famous Pacific Coast stars and fourth ranking player, won over Bob Carter, a youngster from the Onwentsia Country Club, 6-0, 6-2. Harry Snodgrass of Los Angeles, ranking No. 6, defeated Jack Linderman of Montvale, N. J., in two love sets.

Still another member of the first ten continued on toward the final brackets when Wallace F. Johnson of Philadelphia, No. 5 in the national ranking, stepped over the veteran, N. E. Mesick of Lagrange, in straight sets, 6-0, 6-1.

J. C. (Peck) Griffin of San Francisco, who holds down the tenth position among the national stars, was given an argument by S. G. Burkland of Chicago, who forced the Coast player to step at a lively pace to win, 8-6, 6-2.

Helen Jacobs, the 16-year-old marvel from Berkeley, who possesses a forehand drive that would do credit to most men players, took the measure of Margaret Kommends of Chicago with ease, 6-0, 6-2. Her companion from the Coast, Miss Charlotte Hosmer, also won without great effort from Gertrude Hopper, the local player, 6-2, 6-0.

One of the largest galleries ever to watch a tennis match in Chicago was crowded about the exhibition courts to catch a glimpse of the country's best tennis players.

CHURCHES WAR OVER FILIPINO

Religious Fight Arises Over Plans for Pancho Villa Memorial Services

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HONOLULU, July 20.—A religious controversy has developed in Honolulu over the Filipinos' plans for ceremonies in memory of Pancho Vila, the boxing idol of the Philippines, who died recently in San Francisco. Local Filipinos planned to remove the body from the steamship President Harrison on Saturday and hold services in the Filipino Methodist mission here.

Bishop Stephen Alencastre, apostolic vicar of Hawaii, warned Cayetano Ligot, the Philippine commissioner here, that if this plan was attempted the Catholics would "take the necessary measures to prevent it." The bishop announced that the Catholics were already prepared for memorial services at the cathedral.

As a result it was announced today that the body will remain on the ship but memorial services will be held both in the cathedral and the Methodist mission.

ROSENBERG DOWN TO WEIGHT FOR SHEA GO

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HOLLYWOOD NINE BEATS ALL STARS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EAST LAS VEGAS (N. M.) July 20.—Against an all-star aggregation here today, the Hollywood baseball team won, 5 to 1. The sensational fielding of Third Baseman Jack Smith of the visitors and the hitting of Doll and Pasek featured the game.

The Hollywood team leaves tonight for Pueblo, where they play Wednesday.

REFUSAL MEANS NO SCHOELL GO

Must Post $10,000 Guarantee for Local Bout

Prospects Good for Flyweight Battle Here

BY PAUL LOWRY

Members of the California Boxing Commission rose up and smote Dave Shade hip and thigh yesterday. They ruled that he cannot box Frankie Schoell in San Francisco August 4 unless he agrees to meet Mickey Walker for the world's welterweight championship at Vernon September 14.

By their action they very properly demonstrated that they intend to rule boxing in California and that unless fighters and their managers fulfill their agreements they will be persona non grata in California.

DEMAND FORFEIT

With only Bill Hanlon of Sacramento absent the commission voted to demand a $10,000 forfeit of Shade that he will go through with the Walker match, articles for which have been signed by both parties but which Shade and his manager, Leo P. Flynn, have sought to duck since Shade became popular in New York overnight.

The commission's action yesterday climaxed an effort by Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, to make Shade live up to the agreement Flynn made with Jack Doyle that if the latter could get Walker, the world's welter king, he could have Shade for a title match.

Kearns made a visit to Capt. Seth Strelinger's offices immediately after his return from New York last week. He told the chairman how the New York commission had forced Walker to sign for a Shade match before they would let him meet Harry Greb and demanded that Kearns find a promoter to stage the match. When Kearns prevailed upon Doyle to go for the match Shade and his manager back-tracked.

Refusing to rule on the matter individually Capt. Strelinger called yesterday's meeting of the com-

FAST FIELD IN TROPHY EVENT

Willie Hunter's Remodeled Course in Fine Shape

BY W. C. WIRE

Mrs. Harry Borde, tourney chairman, expects to drop the starting flag for Mrs. William H. (Tennessee) Bill Carter, Mrs. A. T. Munn, Mrs. Willie Hunter, Mrs. L. P. Ferguson and at least a score more of Brentwood's fairest golfers who will compete in the featured Harry Ham feminine tournament over Willie Hunter's championship course today.

Harry Harrison Ham—"than whom there are no whomer"—has donated two beautiful pearl boudoir clocks that will adorn the sleeping chambers of the ladies coming home with lowest gross and lowest net scores.

Mr. Ham has been the recipient of a sweeping vote of thanks from Brentwood's women golfers and has been congratulated upon his choice of prizes that cannot help but add to the attractiveness of the most fastidious boudoir.

Woe Willie's fast course is in excellent condition, despite the extensive remodeling operations that in no way interfere with the present course, and good scores will result from today's medal competition.

RECORD FIELD IN LOS ANGELES PLAY

With sixty-four of the club's best players enrolled for the tourney, match play in the annual President's Cup event will start at Los Angeles this week.

E. K. Brown won medal honors with a 75 and will start at the top of the upper bracket to cut his way through to the finals in the club event, while M. E. McLoughlin, former tennis king, whose 79 starts him at the bottom, will be attempting to win through also.

say's matches with anybody but Dempsey himself.

"Dempsey has empowered me to go ahead with plans for two fights," said Rickard. "I am to appear for him before the Boxing Commission and state our plans. I also am empowered to make a match with Gene Tunney if the Boxing Commission will let Dempsey meet Gene before the champion tackles Wills—and Billy Gibson and Tunney adopt a reasonable frame of mind.

WILLING TO FIGHT

"Dempsey has been called away by important business and I do not see why the commission should not discuss the entire question with me as Dempsey's agent. Jack is willing to fight. That has been settled. He has accepted Wills's challenge and I am working on the details of that match.

"I don't see why the commission should not permit Dempsey to fight Tunney as a warm-up for the Wills' affair. Of course, a Dempsey-Tunney battle may develop into more than a warm-up insofar as the champion is concerned."

JACK IN CHICAGO

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, July 20.—The heavyweight boxing situation took a new turn today.

Jack Dempsey unexpectedly dropped into the Loop en route west when it was generally supposed he was in New York for a conference with Tex Rickard and the New York commission.

He declared that the peace he made with the commission was genuine and that Rickard would represent him tomorrow at the weekly meeting of the boxing body.

Dempsey also declared that he had definitely broken with his manager, Jack Kearns, in that he (Dempsey) would do all the matchmaking hereafter, but that Kearns would cut in for his usual percentage so long as their present contract is in force. This document runs until September next year.

Ed Walsh, first softball thrower in baseball, pitched 464 innings in one season? It was in 1908, when he was the mainstay of the Chicago White Sox, that the Iron Man set this record, which exceeds by forty-eight innings the National League mark made in the same year by the great Mathewson. Big Ed played in sixty-six games in 1908.

"Abie, the Newsboy" has fought over 1000 bouts? Abe, whose real name is Abraham Hollaendersky, is a Russian Jew, and has fought under every flag in the world, and battled five champions, from welterweights to heavies. He has also wrestled in nearly 400 matches, and in 1907 held the world's welterweight title. Abe once won the heavyweight boxing championship of Central and South America, beating Jack O'Tagen, who weighed 220 pounds.

WINDWARD OFF FOR EAST TO VIE WITH ATLANTIC YACHTS

Half of the West Coast's fond hopes of bringing the international Star boat regatta to Southern California waters in 1932 are centered in Joe Jessup's Windward, the San Diego Yacht Club's Pacific Coach champion, which left Los Angeles Harbor yesterday for New York aboard the Panama-Pacific liner Finland. Vice-Commodore Roy Schanz of the Los Angeles Yacht Club has built a new boat on Long Island Sound this summer and will attempt to lift the trophy with the new, untried craft.

The Windward, at the Pacific Coast regatta off Coronado last summer, made a clean sweep of the Star boat series, a performance that made Joe and his crew, Johnny Sykes, feel that their little cedar cockleshell has world-champion class.

Accordingly, Joe is passing up the Santa Barbara regatta that he and Johnny may get fully acquainted with the freaky tides and currents of the sound. A special cradle has been constructed on the after deck of the Finland and both the skipper and crew will make the trip that they may keep an eye on the Windward.

Roy Schanz, on the other hand, will participate in the races at the Southern California regatta and will not leave Santa Barbara for New York until August 20, the final day of the regatta. He has participated in three previous international series, with Commodore Ben Weston, and is thoroughly familiar with local conditions.

MURPHY THRICE WINNER

Veteran Circuit Driver Takes Three of Four Events in Opening Program at Kalamazoo

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

KALAMAZOO (Mich.) July 20.—Tommy Murphy helped open Kalamazoo's eighteenth Grand Circuit meeting here this afternoon by taking three of the four events carded. Being without an entrant in the other, he was obliged to let the other drivers have a chance at the spoils. Murphy drove Crawford, the favorite, to victory in the $2000 Garrett Insurance purse, taking the first and third heats in easy fashion and finishing second in the other.

Murphy's Mad Abbey, favorite in the 2:12 pace, had no trouble in disposing of the rest, except in the final mile, when Hal Acme, in a whipping finish, came under the wire ahead of the eastern mare. Dr. Strong Worthy, Murphy's entrant in the 2:14 trot, won as he pleased in straight heats. Ceglantle Boy came in for second money.

The 2:09 pace was easy for Orphan Peter, which won the second and third miles after finishing behind Maxine Direct in the first heat. Summary:

HAGUE LEADS LOCAL PROS

Club Manager Wins First Honors With 73 in Pro Sweepstakes Tourney at La Cumbre

C. W. Hague, manager of the La Cumbre Country Club, an exceptionally low handicap amateur, led more than a score of Southern California's leading professionals home with a sterling 73 to win premier honors in the professional sweepstakes event over the Santa Barbara course yesterday.

Fred Morrison, popular Ojai professional, and Hutt Martin, Bullock's, finished with 76s to tie for second money in the fast event. Chick Fraser, Willie Hunter, Harry Pressler, Jack Jacobs and many more of Los Angeles' favored big guns, drove to Santa Barbara and played in the La Cumbre tourney.

Hague, who is still on an extended vacation from Canada, was away in a lot of golfing dust and toured the long first nine in 38, three strokes better than his nearest competitor. He continued in championship style and got home in 35, for a sterling 73.

The scheduled amateur-professional event, to be held in connection with the pro tourney, was held over and may be played at a later date. Gwyn Bowen, genial La Cumbre pro, and Curley Freeman, his assistant, both came home with 75s to tie for first money in the blind bogey event.

NEW PLAYERS TO GET TITLES

Many Last Year's Champions Playing in East

New Talent Out to Capture Net Laurels

Mrs. W. M. Henry Entered for First Time Since 1912

Announcements of the annual Southern California tennis championships, scheduled for August 3 to 10, were sent out this morning, according to Secretary Wynn Mace of the Southern California Tennis Association. Mace stated that Maury McLoughlin, in charge of the announcements, reported yesterday that they were ready to go. A large entry is expected despite the fact that the tournament is held during the summer when the biggest part of the local tennis colony is out of the city.

Many of last year's champions are playing in the Eastern tourneys and will not defend their titles. Enough will be present, however, to insure action in large doses, and several stars who have not hitherto competed, will enter, so the matches won't suffer.

Mrs. William M. Henry, who hasn't been in the Southern California championships since 1912, when she was in pig-tails, will be one of the players. She is a big favorite to win Miss Marion Williams' women's singles crown, an honor that Miss Williams has held since 1922. The latter is in the East with Mrs. T. C. Bundy now.

mission, which was held in his Hollywood offices.

FUENTE CASE TODAY

The commission selected September 10 as the date for the match after learning that Walker is booked for eastern engagements up to September 26, when he fights in Milwaukee.

Consideration of the Tony Fuente case and the fight permit for the Olympic Auditorium promoters was postponed until this morning. Commissioners Strellinger and Almgren and Secretary Walter Yarwood will inspect the new fight arena today. It is understood the granting of a permit to the Olympic people is only a matter of form, the pugnalig being to pick a date that will not hurt rival clubs. Vernon has Tuesday and Hollywood Friday nights. The Lyceum, which has been closed for the past month, shows on Saturday nights when running, and Dick Donald, its promoter, uses this day for his Ascot open-air shows.

GENARO FIGHT IS LOOMING BRIGHTLY

Dick Donald received a wire from Phil Bernstein, manager of Frankie Genaro, yesterday expressing his interest in the proposed bout with Fidel LaBarba for the world's flyweight championship, and requesting a conference over the long-distance phone late at night.

Donald is inclined to believe there is every prospect of the match going through. He says he offered Bernstein $25,000 for Genaro's end, but that the latter wants a percentage privilege along with a flat guarantee.

Inasmuch as Genaro holds the American flyweight title and twice defeated Villa there will be no trouble about billing the fight as a bona fide championship match.

If Bernstein agrees to Donald's terms the match will be staged at Ascot, August 15, Donald said.

JESSICK-SALVADORE OLYMPIC OPENER

One of Jack Root's all-star card of six-round fights for the Olympic Auditorium opening will be between Julius Jessick and Phil Salvadore it was learned yesterday. It will be Jessick's first fight since his victory over Young Brown in the Vernon ring over two months ago.

HUDKINSES, CLYDE AND ACE, ARE BACK

Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wild cat, and his brother-manager, Clyde, returned yesterday from Chicago, where Ace recently dropped a disputed ten-round decision to Sid Ferris. There is plenty of work in sight for the Nebraskan with Joe Benjamin, Tommy O'Brien and Phil Salvadore on hand and Pal Moran, the New Orleans product, due back here in three weeks. All of them believe they can trim Hudkins with consummate ease, even Mr. Benjamin.

NORTHERNERS ARE AFTER TOM CELLO

Eddie Sears and his talented lightweight, Tommy Cello, are leaving for San Francisco tonight, where on Friday Cello boxes Sammy Leonard, a product of the Middle West, at Dreamland Rink. While in the north, Sears will talk over two other tentative engagements. Both the California Club and the Mission Athletic Club want Cello to box on open-air cards during August and September respectively.

hitters in its lineup. Frank Brasill tops the Sud sluggers with a neat .410 average, being second only to Frank O'Doul who went bit-crazy last week and raised his mark to .421, while Brick Eldred, Red Baldwin, Babe Herman and Billy McCabe also manipulate a wicked willow.

It was the slugging of these gentlemen that put the Seals on the grease last week, for what they didn't do to the San Francisco hurlers was not worth mentioning. The Seals kept up their slugging also, but their pitchers were hardly able to get the Suds out.

If the Seattle series is any criterion the Seals are apt to be off on their annual skid. It's a well-known fact that the Seal hurlers are not going any too well, and when they do crack Mr. Bert Ellison will not have to look far to find trouble.

OBSERVATIONS

OUR soaring Seraphs have departed for the high altitude of Salt Lake City in the hope of flapping their way into second place in the Coast League race during the week. They have begun to play real baseball and made a gain of more than four full games in one week. Two more weeks like that would put them on an even footing with the Seals. At all events, they have begun to show the stuff that was expected of them and will probably be a much more popular ball club when they get home, provided they do not have one of those disastrous road trips, which sometimes happens.

One year certainly can make a lot of difference in the world of sport. In boxing a year ago everything was calm. Dempsey was all by himself and he and Kearns were on top of the world. Mike McTigue's title seemed safe because he wouldn't fight. Benny Leonard had everything all sewed up among the lightweights, as Harry Greb did for the middleweights and Walker for the welters. Most of the other divisions were similarly in a thoroughly "status quo" condition, with strong title-holders and few challengers.

And now look at the darn thing. Dempsey and Kearns are on the outs; Tom Gibbons and has retired and in his has been knocked flat; Leon-Berlenbach, a muscle-bound piece is a joke champion; Paul Berlenbach, holds McTigue's title; Pancho Villa is dead, the best bantamweight in the world; Bud Taylor can't get a fight; the featherweight champion, Kid Kaplan, weighs more than Ad Wolgast. Freddy Welch or any of the old-time lightweights; Tom McCarey can't get a fight permit and Dick Donald takes in $60,000 in a fight and can't make any money. Gosh.

We note that our prediction regarding the passing of the Kinsey brothers seems to be coming true. A year ago they could make Tilden and Wiener look silly. Now they look to them and Snodgrass and Westbrook make Tilden and Wiener look silly. The next winners of the national doubles championship will also come from California, and the team will either be Johnston and Griffen or Snodgrass and Westbrook. Too bad Godshall and Ferrandini won't be back there also, as they are in the first half-dozen teams in the country.

Hopes for a Southern California champion hailing from this part of the country are rather good this year, according to Wynn Mace, who is preparing for the big championship tennis tournament two weeks hence. During the past five years the men's singles have been won only once by a Southern Californian. Bob Kinsey and Bill Parker of San Francisco won in 1920 and 1921, Harvey Snodgrass kept the title here in 1922, but Big Bill Tilden took it to Philadelphia in 1923 and 1924. Some of the local hopes ought to win this time.

Santa Monica Star Wins Second-Round Match in Manchester Tourney; Bunny Ryan Quits

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MANCHESTER (Mass.) July 20.—The first day of play of the women's invitation singles tennis tournament today at the Essex County Club, here, was marked only by the elimination of one seeded player, Mrs. B. E. Cole, II, of North Andover, in the second round and withdrawal of Miss Elizabeth Ryan, of England, who found she was not conditioned after her Atlantic trip.

The second round was completed today with the exception of the matches of Miss Helen Wills and Mrs. Mary Sutton Bundy, both of California, present and past national champions. The day saw the elimination of the international phase of the tournament with the withdrawals of Miss Ryan and the defeat of two Canadian players, Miss Gertrude Gallery of Montreal and Miss Phoebe Grierson of Ottawa.

The defeat of Mrs. Cole by Miss Edith Sigourney of Nahant who is not seeded and who ranks sixth place below Mrs. Cole, provided some of the best competition of the day, the other seeded players, including six of America's first ten women players, winning their matches handily. The women's doubles begin tomorrow and the mixed doubles on Wednesday. Miss Ryan will play in these tomorrow. The summaries:

Teddy O'Hara and O'Donnell Clash Friday

Teddy O'Hara, San Francisco lightweight, appeared recently before Tom Gallery, Hollywood matchmaker, and asked that he be given first shot at Ace Hudkins should that young leather-pusher decide that he wanted to work during the next month.

Gallery would make no promises, but did hint to Teddy that if he succeeded in getting over Johnny O'Donnell Friday night in the main event he would be the foremost challenger of Hudkins as far as he was concerned.

The winner of the O'Hara-O'Donnell shot Friday night has a pretty sweet dish ready for them should they get over big with the Hollywood fans. Johnny O'Donnell wants to be a regular at the Hollywood stadium. He aims to be a once-a-month main-eventer such as Fidel La Barba.

O'Hara is working every day at the Newboys' Club and O'Donnell at Dempsey's Manhattan gymnasium. They have been showing to big galleries every day.

SOUND DEVICE GUARDS CITY

New York's Microphonic "Ears" Will Enable Coast Guns to Hit Ships Invisible to Eye

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 20.—New York City today is guarded by a new marvel of science which was revealed in its fullest scope during the thirteenth coast defense encampment at Fisher's Island last week. It is the sound-ranging device by which the position of a vessel at sea can be accurately determined by under-water sound. For the first time firing on a moving target, spotted only by sound, was conducted successfully by long-range batteries last week; it was announced yesterday.

Gigantic "ears" of microphonic sensitiveness, situated at the eastern end of Long Island, can be made constantly at attention to pick up the sound of any approaching enemy. The war-time importance of this new device is inestimable, because it is said to assure accurate firing on ships invisible to the eye. It will protect against night fogs and smoke screens, which have heretofore been the enemy ships' ally in slopping past coast fortifications.

The device in its simplest form consists of a deeply submerged beam of approximately 100 feet, carrying at each end a microphone. These microphones are made water tight without affecting their sensitiveness. They connect with the shore and lead to an ordinary head receiving piece.

BINATURAL SENSE.

In every individual there is a sense in use every day and rarely given a thought. It is a sense by which one centralizes sound, hearing a noise louder in one ear, the person is able, by turning his head to equalize the sound in both ears, so that he can gauge accurately the position from which the sound comes. This is called the binatural sense, and it is the principle in which the new naval sound-ranging device is based.

A noise made at sea is transmitted by the microphones through the connecting cables to the headpiece, where an observer is listening. The sound, however, arrives at the nearer of the two microphones first and is not heard through the second until some seconds later.

The observer, in order to hear the sound simultaneously in both ear receivers, must slow up the speed with which the sound over the shorter distance is traveling. This is done by means of an electric compensator. By stepping down the current in the compensator the wave velocity is reduced.

Manipulating this compensator, the observer finally equalizes the sound so that the noise at sea is heard simultaneously in both ears.

DISTANCE TOLD

Calculations based on the amount of wave velocity reduction in the compensator gives the observer the difference of the distance of the two microphones from the sound. With this distance known, and the distance from one microphone to the other fixed, it is a simple matter of mathematics to determine the distance of the noise maker. In the case of a moving ship, the noise comes in constantly, and by frequent sound observations a listener is able to plot the true course of the vessel.

However, unerring accuracy is reached by using several sets of microphone beams sunk at widely different points. Combined observations from these points will place the sound source at a spot determined down to a fraction of a foot.

According to Col. M. K. Ferguson, commandant at Fort Wright, Fisher's Island, the device has been conceived and perfected by young men working under Maj. H. C. Lemly. New experiments are constantly being made, and in a few years the entire coast of the United States, it is thought, will be guarded by the perfected device.

PRETTY BLONDE FAILS TO VAMP MAGISTRATE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HACKENSACK (N. J.) July 20. Throwing "sheep's eyes" at the court failed to influence him into overlooking a traffic violation on the turnpike in Ridgefield Park in the case of Mrs. Anna Huneke, pretty and vivacious blond, who admitted to have been on earth twenty-six summers and a resident of 967 East Sixty-first street, Brooklyn, N. Y., when she was arraigned before Henry T. Griggs, police magistrate.

Policeman Dauer, who made the arrest, testified that when taken into custody she, with gestures and a sweet smile, tried to tell that she was of German parentage and a nonspeaker of the English language. In court Mrs. Huneke spoke the choicest of English, and when confronted with the story of being unable to take the language of her adopted country laughingly said, "I was only kidding the officer."

"Five dollars and costs," was Magistrate Griggs's decision. The woman's husband paid the fine.

SURVEY WORK DIVIDED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, July 20.—Supervision of the work of the Surveyor-General, an office lately eliminated in Arizona, has been divided. A. C. Horton, Jr., has been designated as district cadastral engineer, in charge in Arizona and California, and John D. Adams, former chief clerk, now is office cadastral engineer.

Mexico Orders Investigation of Bretherton Case

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MEXICO CITY, July 20.—The Department of the Interior has ordered an investigation of the shooting of Harold G. Bretherton, United States Vice-Consul, at Aguascalientes.

Information here is that Bretherton was only slightly wounded, but no details of the shooting have been received.

Washington was advised Saturday that Mr. Bretherton was shot at Aguascalientes on July 16. The cause was not explained, but the belief was expressed that the shot was intended for some one else. The American Embassy at Mexico City was instructed by the State Department to ask the Mexican Foreign Office for an investigation and for punishment of the assailant.

VICTIM OF HOLD-UP FORCED TO DISROBE

NEGRO SAYS HE WAS ROBBED BY YOUTHS WITH REVOLVERS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—Two young men were sentenced in Judge Monaghan's Court to from five to ten years in the eastern penitentiary for highway robbery.

The youths convicted of holding up and robbing Horace Murrel, colored, 1904 Haverford avenue in Fairmount Park on June 28, last, are Louis Barraba, also known as Jean Roberts, 19, Tenth and Wharton streets, and Nicholas Amicone, 20, Sixth and Kimball streets.

Murrell testified the youths drove him, with loaded revolvers, behind a hedge at Forty-fourth street and Parkside avenue forced him to disrobe and robbed him of money and jewelry. He said he had boarded a car with the youths at Sixteenth and South streets, and conversed with them until they reached the Park at 4 a.m. Then they drew their revolvers.

Barraba threw the courtroom into an uproar when Judge Monaghan asked him why Murrel was not forced to take off his shoes and undergarments.

"We did not want him to catch cold," he replied.

Street, a policeman, testified when he responded to Murrell's cries for help, the youths tried to attack him, and that one of them said: "If I had known you were coming, I would have killed you."

VETERAN MANAGER OF GLENBROOK INN DIES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CARSON CITY (Nev.) July 20.—Charles C. Henningsen, manager of the Glenbrook Inn eighteen or nineteen years, died here after illness of only a few minutes.

Mr. Henningsen was born in Schleswig-Holstein September 3, 1854. In the year 1872 he came to Carson Valley, where he was employed by the Martin and Dangbergs several years. He acquired a ranch in Carson Valley and conducted farming operations thereon about thirty years. He sold the ranch and in 1907 assumed the management of the Glenbrook Inn.

The deceased is survived by his widow; three daughters, Mrs. F. S. Shannon of Glenbrook, Mrs. W. G. Chalmers of Mayer, Ariz., and Mrs. Dr. W. E. Rideout of Oakland, brothers John H. Henningsen of San Rafel, and Carston Henningsen of Minden, Nev.

TEXANS DISLIKE PARDON POLICY

Protests Unheeded by Woman Governor

Clemency Orders in Six Months Number 583

Careful Inquiry Precedes Official Action

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

AUSTIN (Tex.) July 20.—Protests on the part of many lawyers, members of the judiciary and various civic organizations, including several women's clubs, of Texas against the wholesale pardoning of convicts by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson continue to go unheeded by the chief executive.

She has announced time and again through her public spokesman, former Gov. Jim Ferguson, that she will continue to grant pardons to deserving and friendless inmates of the State penitentiary. During the first six months of her administration she issued clemency proclamations in 583 cases. Of this number 125 were full pardons and 413 conditional pardons.

PRISON TOTAL GROWS

One of the interesting features of the situation is that the prison population is increasing over and above the releases from the institution. At this time the total number of convicts is about 3600, which is an increase of more than 300 in the number of inmates since Gov. Ferguson took office. At this rate of increase there is no danger of all the convicts being freed during her administration, it is pointed out. On the contrary, there promises to be a large increase of the prison population by the time the Governor's two-year term expires. Liquor law violators are being convicted and sentenced to terms in prison in large numbers, and this accounts for the unusual increase in number of convicts.

In carrying out her policy of extending executive clemency to many convicts, Gov. Ferguson asserts that in all cases a careful investigation is first made. In many of the cases her husband personally looks into the prison record and other matters connected with the convict and it is upon his recommendation that the pardons are issued. Ferguson has made several visits to the convict farms where he talked with friendless and forgotten negro prisoners and if he found that they deserved their freedom he told Gov. Ferguson about them.

Another thing for which Gov. Ferguson is being criticized is the pardoning of many men who had been convicted of violating the liquor laws. Jim Ferguson defends her action in this particular by charging that rich and influential people of the State are notoriously guilty of patronizing bootleggers but go unpunished while the poor man who may be caught with a bottle on his person is often sent to prison.

PARDON BOARD BUSY

The Board of Pardon Advisors is kept busy passing upon applications. Their recommendations in the various cases are made to Gov. Ferguson and she usually carries them out. Many recommendations, however, are made direct to her by her husband.

Gov. Ferguson is an upholder of the capital punishment law. Several convicted murderers have been legally electrocuted since she took office.

LEW WALLACE TREE IN INDIANA DOOMED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

INDIANAPOLIS, July 20.—The Lew Wallace tree, growing in the yard of the Crawfordsville Carnegie Library for many years, is dying. Despite efforts to save it little hope is held for the tree that long has been an interesting landmark in Crawfordsville. Years ago Mrs. Lew Wllace, wife of the author of "Ben Hur," brought back from one of her travels in Europe a slip from a willow tree which overhangs the grave of Alexander Pope at Twickenham, Eng., and planted the slip in the library yard. Slips will be cut from the tree in an effort to perpetuate the willow. A slip cut several years ago has grown into a sturdy tree on the Wabash College campus.

Feel Soviet Hostility Toward Middleman

American Distribution Body Aids Movement

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 20.—American pioneering days of '49, when the limitless western prairie was dotted by covered wagons, are being duplicated in Russia today, with almost mirror-like fidelity, according to David A. Brown of Detroit, who has just returned from a tour of the Ukraine and Crimea. With one difference, however. The men, women and children who fill the Russian "covered wagon" are Jews fleeing from the cities, seeking escape from their former narrow existence as marchants and traders, and finding a new liberty on the vast Ukrainian and Crimean steppes as farmers.

It is a new episode in history, according to Mr. Brown. It is the first time in many centuries that Jews in great numbers are making a deliberate, determined effort to become again what they were in Bible days—tillers of the soil. It is a new exodus, a mighty hegira out of the cities and towns, where they suffered oppression because the present Russian government aims to suppress and exterminate the middleman, into a wilderness and a "promised land" where the same government which oppressed them as traders encourages them to become free men earning their bread by the sweat of their brow.

Already 4000 Jewish families, approximately 20,000 souls, are settled on between 400,000 and 600,000 acres of rich, black, easily cultivatable soil. These Jewish farmers were greatly aided in their new and apparently successful venture by the American Joint Distribution Committee, which has given them loans for the purchase of live-stock, implements, and seeds, and also for erecting homes and farm buildings.

Mr. Brown says that if sufficient American aid will be forthcoming shortly, 25,000 families, say 100,000 men, women and children, Jewish fugitives from the Russian cities, can be transformed into successful farmers by the end of 1927.

At Cherson Mr. Brown interviewed representatives of many of these farmer-groups. They all told stories of hardship suffered by thousands of new Jewish farmers, of life in dugouts, of subsisting on black bread and water for months at a time, but they all spoke determinedly of their intention to stick to it and to win out into a new free life for themselves and their children.

YOUTH INJURED WHEN TROLLEY HITS WAGON

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HOBOKEN (N. J.) July 20.—Harry Meyer, 13 years of age, of 259 Second street, Hoboken, was the victim of an odd accident in the front of 414 Newark street. As a result he suffered a possible fracture of the right knee and was taken to St. Mary's Hospital.

William Stehling of 220 Jefferson street was driving a wagon owned by John Ross of New York. Going in the same direction was a trolley car in charge of James Treman. The front of the trolley car struck the hub of the left front wheel. The impact caused the shafts of the wagon to suddenly turn and the end of one hit the Meyer boy, who was walking near by.

ARIZONA COLLECTS ON EPHRIAM ESTATE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, July 20.—Arizona's inheritance tax law, covering transfers made within six years of the date of death, has resulted in a collection of nearly $2000 from the estate of Leopold Ephriam, who died last August at Rivera, Cal. It was found that property in Nogales, Ariz., Ephriam's former home, and notes, in all valued at $86,000, had been transferred to his wife only a short time before death. No protest was made to the collection.

FREE WATER TO BE GIVEN TO CAMPERS

Moderate Supply Will be Available at Grand Canyon, Says Superintendent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FLAGSTAFF (Ariz.) July 20.—Campers at Grand Canyon hereafter will receive water free, although in moderation, as the fluid has to be hauled in tank cars a distance of 125 miles. Supt. J. R. Rankin announces that funds have been available for this purpose through late appropriations. Heretofore a charge of 25 cents a day has been made for water.

A new camp ground will be opened next spring, on plans that have been developed by experience in the local and other national parks. There is to be division into blocks, within each of which room will be provided for twenty camps, partially equipped, with water and wood near at hand.

During June, the canyon was visited by over 30,000 persons, an increase of 27 per cent over the record of the same month last year. Automobiles brought 12,633 and Santa Fe trains the remainder. Weather and roads alike are good.

ATTENDANCE AT CAMPS ESTIMATED AT 16,000

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Preliminary reports received by the War Department indicate that approximately 16,000 young men are in attendance at the nineteen Citizens Military Training Camps now open throughout the United States. Twenty-one camps are yet to be opened, with an attendance of about 20,000 additional men. In the Ninth Corps Area about 3000 men are to receive training this summer. Of these about 2000 either are in camp now or have completed the course. The camp at Del Monte, with more than a thousand men to attend, will open tomorrow and will function for a month.

CHINESE-SOVIET TROUBLE ACUTE

Consulate Wires Cut by Shanghai Council

Red Agent Under Arrest Forfeits Bonds

Boycott of British Goods Being Strengthened

BY JOHN POWELL
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SHANGHAI, July 20. — The situation between the Shanghai Municipal Council, supported by the British, and local soviet officials became more acute today when it became known that the local telephone company, on orders of the Council, has removed the telephones from the soviet Consulate in order to prevent outside communication with Chinese radicals or outside soviet agents.

The consulate has been placed under surveillance and all entering or leaving are closely watched and followed.

Dr. Fortunatoff, a soviet agent, who was arrested last week charged with the attempted bribery of a member of the municipal police, jumped his bail today and is believed to have fled to Peking to confer with M. Karakhan, the soviet Ambassador to China and to lodge a protest with the Chinese government.

FORFEITS MONEY

When Dr. Fortunatoff was arrested he had in his possession $10,000 which he was alleged to be handing to a member of the municipal police force. The police seized the money and placed the soviet agent under an additional $10,000 bond, which he also forfeited.

An additional force of bluejackets from the steamer MacCormack landed today to prevent riots of strikers and nonstrikers over the loading of a cargo at a local wharf. The workers had returned to their labors when agitators attempted to intimidate them and a fight developed. Foreign leaders fired over the heads of the rioters, but without avail, so bluejackets landed and stopped the trouble without any deaths.

ENFORCE BOYCOTT

Although a few coolies in a few cases have shown a disposition to return to work, the head of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce issued a statement today claiming power to enforce the strike and the boycott of the British for a full year, if necessary, to bring the British to terms. Chinese merchants generally have been warned to cease dealing in British goods.

Student committees have been invading warehouses and labeling British goods. Some American goods whose labels indicated they were the products of factories in England also were affected. A Chinese jewelry shop located in the foreign settlement was raided today and its stock of jewelry, consisting of rings and brooches containing inscriptions urging the boycott and strike, was confiscated and the owner held.

JAPAN ADVISES CESSATION
[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

TOKIO, July 21.—The Foreign Office announced today that it had sent a note to China, through Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japanese Minister to China, on the 10th inst. advising her in a friendly manner that the agitation for the revision of treaties was inappropriate at present. The note suggested the cessation of antiforeign agitation and the restoration of order before taking up the matter of the treaties. It added that Japan felt "deep sympathy with China, prompted by the fact that she once suffered the same experience from unequal treaties with foreign powers."

CONVICTED AS WIFE SLAYER

Mountaineer Found Guilty on Circumstantial Evidence May Appeal Verdict

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PINEVILLE (Ky.) July 20.—Isam Adler, 30 years of age, well-known man of the mountains, has been sentenced to life imprisonment in Circuit Court here on a charge of having murdered his first wife seven years ago. The verdict was returned on evidence which was wholly circumstantial, there being no proof otherwise that Adler slew his wife. It is understood that the case will be appealed. The defense offered an alibi, asserting Adler was miles away from his home when his wife was slain near the house.

Mrs. Maggie Adler's body was found covered by weeds on the bank of the Cumberland River in July, 1918. The head had been crushed and investigation showed she had been dead several days. Adler then was charged with the crime. He disappeared and though a country-wide search was made for him he was not found. Four years after his wife's death, however, Adler suddenly reappeared in his home county, gave himself up promptly to the authorities and was released on bond.

Soon after his release, Adler eloped with and married a daughter of Judge A. J. Silcox, Whitley county lawyer who had furnished the bond on which Adler had been given freedom. Judge Silcox, angered by the elopement, promptly forfeited the bond of his newly made son-in-law and Adler was returned to jail. Judge Silcox afterward appeared as a witness for the State.

At the trial of Adler, witnesses testified that Adler and his first wife had a quarrel while in Hazard, Ky., that later Adler returned home and reported that his first wife had died while at Lexington and that she was buried there. The prosecution also asserted that Adler wrote a letter to his wife's sister in Lexington, signed his wife's name and asked for $500.

Witnesses for the defense assert that Adler had an unbreakable alibi the day the killing occurred. The life term verdict resulted, however.

POLICE ORDER RELEASE OF LINGERIE SALESMAN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

UNION CITY (N. J.) July 20.—Police here tonight wired Los Angeles police to release Jacob Goldberg, Union City lingerie salesman, after merchants to whom Goldberg is said to have left obligations declined to finance the proposed trip of a detective to bring Goldberg back from Los Angeles. Goldberg left Union City suddenly two weeks ago. Merchants said he had left debts amounting to $10,000 in worthless checks and other obligations.

WOMAN DRAWS GUN ON HUSBAND AT TRIAL

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) July 20.—Mrs. Della Keating of Denver made an unsuccessful attempt at the county courthouse today to shoot her husband, Stephen Keating, when his divorce suit against her was called before Judge C. A. Lucas. Deputy Sheriffs wrested a .45 caliber revolver from Mrs. Keating's hand when she drew the weapon from beneath a shawl and thrust it against Keating's side. No shots were fired.

NEW WAY TO COLOR FILM DISCOVERED

Single Process and Faster Photography Advantages of French Invention

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, July 20.—An entirely new method of color photography was revealed to the Academy of Sciences today by J. L. Breton, though it is reported to be the result of an invention and experiments by G. Rousseau, in this field.

Instead of the old method, requiring three separate films of the cameras, provided with red, blue and yellow screens and conducting a reverse operation in developing a single plate, M. Rousseau discovered that he could get better results by a single exposure of three super-imposed films and the development of a single plate.

By placing three films, one upon the other, in the camera, M. Rousseau found the first film registered blue and violet; the second green, while yellow, orange and red went through the first two films and registered on the third.

The advantages of the new process are that the films give absolutely identical views and the time exposure has been reduced to one twenty-fifth of a second—much faster than with the color screens and three separate exposures.

BLAZE DESTROYS BAKERSFIELD STORES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, July 20.—Fire raging on the outskirts of the city, near the intersection of California and Union avenue, shortly after 12 o'clock today destroyed property valued at $10,000. A restaurant, store, four houses, a service station and a small garage were burned to the ground as the entire neighborhood fought desperately, under a heat that was almost unbearable, from the combined forces of the raging fire and the fierce July sun.

The fire started in the restaurant according to R. L. Wood, proprietor, who could not account for the cause.

WEDDING RITES IN JAPAN

The Japanese bride dresses in white, color of mourning, to indicate that she is leaving her parental home forever. With the help of the "kaisoe," or lady-go-between, she arranges her hair in the married style and heavily powders her face.

She wears a high headdress, but is not veiled. During the wedding banquet, to give expression to sentiments appropriate to the event, she changes into gay garments; once she appears in scarlet, symbol of her newly born state in her husband's family, says Asia magazine.

The modern Japanese wedding ceremony is thoroughly Shintoistic in form. On a shrine in a large hall, stand the pine, bamboo and plum, symbols of long life, pliability and purity, together with other emblems of good luck and offerings to ancestors. Before it the bride comes to meet the bridegroom, after the marriage has been arranged by go-between in the convenient manner.

At a more conservative Japanese wedding the bride and bridegroom are each seated at a little white-wood table, and take the sacred, silent pledge by sipping "sake" three times from each of three wine cups. This rite gives the name of "san-san kudo," or three-three, nine times, to the ceremony. Sake, or rice liquor, symbolizes the gift of the ever-remembered ancestors.—(Kansas City Star.

Chinese Not All Rice Eaters

Contrary to the popular idea, the Chinese are not all rice eaters; there are millions of them in North China, including Manchuria, that consume little rice. The people of those districts produce wheat, millet, corn, beans and sweet potatoes, and these products constitute the main part of their dietary. In other parts of China the demand for wheat is constantly increasing.—[Compressed Air Magazine.

Real Beauty After 30

Berlin artists, modistes, and milliners were asked recently to vote on the the question, "At what age are women most beautiful?" The period between 30 and 35 was almost unanimously favored. The flapper age was passed up because the faces of these girls are too empty of expression, the judges declared. Perhaps also because so much of the expression was covered up then.

INCREASED DRY FUNDS SOUGHT

Congress to be Asked for Huge Appropriation

Wide-spread Drive for Law Enforcement Looms

Ample Money Available to Carry on Campaign

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, July 20.—A substantial increase in the current appropriation of approximately $30,000,000 for the enforcement of the national prohibition laws is expected to be embodied in the budget to be submitted to Congress at the December session, although sharp cuts will be made in the estimates of practically every other branch of the Federal service in accordance with the Coolidge program of economy.

Beginning August 1, under orders issued by President Coolidge, the two departments of the government charged with the responsibility of administering the Volstead Act—Treasury and Justice—will wage an intensive campaign to enforce respect for the statute. Ample funds are available for the purpose, and the government is hopeful that before Congress acts on the money supplies to be made available for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1926, it will be placed in a position where it can show better results than heretofore have attended prohibition administration.

Just how much of an increase in prohibition appropriations the budget will ask of Congress this winter is not yet known.

Since the Volstead law became effective in 1920, Congress has been liberal in providing money for its enforcement and there have been progressive increases in the amounts allowed on this account every year since then. Dry influence is preponderant in both houses of Congress and the items in the appropriation bills bearing on prohibition usually go through substantially as submitted in the budget.

Failure of New Postal Rate Up in Committee

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The controversy over postal rates was reopened today by a joint congressional committee which first heard a Postoffice Department estimate that the new rates inaugurated on April 15 had fallen far short of producing the additional revenue expected.

Postmaster General New told the committee that for the month of May, the first full month of operation for the new rates, postal revenues were estimated to have increased only $4131, or .0091 per cent over the total that might have been expected under the old rate.

CONVICTED

Vice President Dawes remarked in a recent investigation:

"Instead of confirming the finding against the man and justifying his punishment, the investigation has made him more or less of a hero and was a decided boomerang for those who instituted it. In cases of that kind, the only safe procedure is to be sure what the answer is going to be before you ask the question.

"The investigation reminds me of the old maid who said to a little girl: 'Whom do you like best?'

"'Mother.'

"'Who next?'

"'Little sister.'

"'Auntie.'

"The father, who was sitting over in the corner of the room, spoke up, saying:

"'Well, dearie, when do I come in?'

NATIONAL PARK AIDS EDUCATION

Nature Guide Trips Gain in Popularity

Museums Benefit by Gifts from Private Sources

Yosemite Natural History School Established

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The expansion of educational facilities for the public in the national parks administered by the Department of the Interior is meeting with approval, as is shown by the use made of these facilities during June, the first month of the general tourist season.

The nature guide trips, during which the objects of scientific and historical interest encountered along the way are explained by competent guides, have gained in popularity each year, and the lectures on park subjects given around camp fires or in the lobbies of hotels or camps are drawing large crowds.

The erection and equipment of the new museum in Yosemite National Park during the past year from funds provided through the American Association of Museums by the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial, and of the wing of a new museum in Mesa Verde National Park provided through private sources, has given a new impetus to the museum movement, and museum collections are being gathered in all the parks. Public interest in this has been so great that many contributions, either of funds for the purchase of specimens or of interesting objects having museum value, have been contributed. Assurances have been given that when adequate fireproof museum buildings have been provided in certain of the parks, valuable private collections will be either given or lent for exhibition therein.

A new phase of educational work in the national parks this year is the establishment of the Yosemite Field School of Natural History. The students who have enrolled in this school for the six-weeks' course in natural history are mostly teachers in the California grade schools. This school, like much of the educational work in the national parks, is made possible through the co-operation of an outside organization.

FLOOD TOLL THOUSAND IN KOREA AREA

Huge Property Loss Taken as River Destroys Three Towns in Forty-Foot Rise

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TOKIO, July 20.—Details of the Korean flood indicate that while there was vast property loss, the loss of life was comparatively small, in the region of 1000.

The Hangyang River, on which Seoul is located, rose forty feet, wiping out the towns of Ryusan, Nirindo and Mabo. At Ryusan the station alone is standing, the water being ten feet above the floor. The roof is jammed with 800 passengers. Freight cars in the yard are submerged.

On Sunday morning the water started receding at the rate of an inch an hour. At Ritoso 300 people were cut off on a hilltop while 200 were perched in trees.

Seoul is without light, street cars, telephones, newspapers and drinking water. The flood destroyed 8200 homes and 40,000 were homeless, taking refuge in schools and temples. It was still raining Saturday night. Troops effected thousands of rescues. The Tokio press is starting a relief fund.

PET ANSWERS CALL OF WILD

Bear, Formerly Domesticated, Sought by Hunters

Erstwhile Dance Attraction Frightens Picknickers

Chases Women Away from Pails of Blueberries

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EAST ROCHESTER (N. H.) July 20.—A huge black bear that a year ago was so tame that hundreds of women and children petted him, is today being tracked down through the woods by an organized band of hunters.

The bear, escaping from his owner, Clark Tilton of Milton, twelve months ago, took to his native haunts, but it was not until the past week that his behavior became objectionable to the community.

Earlier in the week the bear was treed, but escaped from his captors when the leather collar he wore parted as he was being dragged from the tree.

HAD BEEN AT DANCES

The sudden appearance of the great black hulk at a picnic given in the wods at Blaisdell Corners aroused the community to such an extent that the armed band was organized to hunt down and put an end to the erstwhile pet.

Tilton, who conducts a dance hall at Milton, had the bear as one of his attractions a year ago. The bear frequently was taken into the dance hall and amused the throngs of merrymakers with his antics.

The call of the wild became too strong for the carelessly guarded bruin, however, and he disappeared into the woods.

For months tales have been filtering into East Rochester, telling of the bear's marauding on apiaries and orchards of the farmers of the countryside. The brass studded collar was a sure means of identifying the culprit.

The other day dogs of Harold Staley and the Lord brothers chased the bear in Ed Stanley's woods in the West Lebanon section and Bruin sought refuge in a tree. A large crowd of men gathered from the neighboring farms, and the dogs were tied up while the men worked.

SCARES PICKNICKERS

The men had succeeded in getting him part way down and were attaching a rope to his collar, which, weakened by its exposure to the elements during the last winter, broke, and the bear jumped and made off into the woods. The dogs were released but could not locate him.

Then the bear, evidently searching for food, wandered from the woods near the Blaisdell Corners section and made for a party of women who were picking blueberries. Frightened, the women fled, while the bear did not pursue them, but leisurely devoured the contents of a large berry pail.

Chicago Broker Falls to Death From Building

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, July 20.—Emil O. Wagner, 219 Lake Shore Drive, at one time president of the bankrupt brokerage firm of E. W. Wagner & Co., jumped or fell from the fifteenth floor of the Westminster Building, Monroe and Dearborn streets, shortly before noon today. The body landed on the roof of the Monroe Theater Building, ten stories below. Death was instantaneous.

Wagner was reported to have been in ill health for some time. Just before his death today he telephoned Mrs. Wagner that "the market was rather low and things looked bad."

In 1921 Wagner's concern failed with a loss of $2,000,000. Eventually the creditors recovered 65 per cent of their accounts. With three other officials he was later indicted in New York on charges connected with the firm's failure.

Alameda Jury Investigates Huge Oil Deal

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

OAKLAND, July 20.—The Alameda county grand jury convened today to investigate the $800,000,000 Gollette oil "merger," a supposed swindle. Four of the six defendants testified. Other conferences were held between representatives of the District Attorney and the defendants in an effort to have the charges modified, but without result.

Mrs. Jennie L. Pine told the grand jury that she invested $1500 in the oil merger, which was later returned to her.

POLICE EMPLOY LATIN TERMS

JERSEY CITY (N. J.) July 20.—If the way they make out their reports is any criterion, two policemen at the Central-avenue station might be taken for Yale or Harvard graduates.

Yesterday a man was injured and the patrolman who reported the accident said he had received a fracture of the "right tempora." The other officer, in making out a similar report, wrote that the victim was suffering from a fractured "femur." Needless to say the reports are quite provoking to Capt. Hougue, who admits his education in this direction has been neglected.

OFFICIALS FOR FLIGHT CHOSEN

Aeronautic Organizations to Oversee Hawaii Dash

San Diego and San Francisco Alternates Appointed

Step Will Assure Honors to Flyers Making Trip

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, July 20.—Appointment of Lieut.-Col. Frank H. Lahm, air officer of the Ninth Army Corps Area, and Howard E. Morin, aviation reporter of the San Diego Union as directing officials for the Navy's proposed nonstop flight from California to Hawaii, was announced today by the National Aeronautic Association and its affiliated European body, the Federation Aeronautique Internationale.

The appointment of Col. Lahm and Morin was made at special request of Rear-Admiral William Moffet, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, Navy Department. It is Admiral Moffett's wish that the officers and men participating in the transoceanic flight be awarded all the world-flight honors accruing to them through the successful completion of the undertaking they will essay next month. This only could be accomplished, it is pointed out, by the flyers following out the rules and regulations governing national and international aeronautical bodies.

If the pilots of the navy planes should decide to take off from San Diego, Morin will have complete charge of the official records here.

In the event the ships hop off from San Francisco, Col. Lahm will officiate. Wallace Farrington, Governor of Hawaii, has been named directing official at Honolulu. He will be assisted by officers from the aircraft squadrons of the battle fleet.

The directing officials at the start and finish will be responsible for preparing a report outlining the facts incident to the start and finish of the flight, including in their affidavit a statement that the gas tanks were sealed and that a sealed barograph was carried to show that only one take-off and one landing were made during the entire trip, and also to check with certified watches the time of take-off and landing.

THIRTEEN DIAMONDS JINX

Player Holding Perfect Bridge Hand Outbidden by Opponent Who Loses on Misplay

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, July 20.—This is a story of real "low bridge." John Donahue of the Chicago Board of Trade held thirteen diamonds in a bridge game last night and did not get to play them. An opponent bid seven spades over Donahue's bid of seven diamonds, and would have made it but for a misplay.

The deal was one of the strangest bridge hands ever recorded, according to auction experts. Perfect hands, containing thirteen of a suit, are almost unknown and the legitimate outbidding of such a hand has no precedent.

HANDFUL OF SPADES

H. N. Neutz held the spade hand. H. C. Fisher was his partner, Donahue's partner was Lisle C. Hart. Neutz held the ace, king, queen, jack, eight, seven, trey and deuce of spades, the queen, jack and deuce of hearts and the king and deuce of clubs. Fisher, his partner, laid down the ten and five of spades, the ace and two small hearts and the ace, queen and several smaller clubs.

Donahue opened the play with the ace of diamonds. Had Neutz trumped with the ten of spades in the dummy, he could have discarded a heart from his own hand, led back spades, gone into clubs and then dropped another heart on one of Fisher's clubs. Thus he would have taken all the tricks.

HASTE DEFEATS BIDDER

In his haste, however, he sluffed a heart from Fisher's hand and trumped a diamond from his own hand. Thus he finished with one heart too many in his own hand and lost a trick to Hart's king of hearts.

Donahue admitted, after he remarkable game, that he made the mistake of bidding only one diamond after picking up his hand and found the whole diamond suit in it. Neutz countered with a heavy spade bid and Donahue went up to seven diamonds after Fisher had an opportunity to indicate good support to Neutz, but Neutz came back with a bid of seven spades and then lost through an error due to haste.

MAN, HELD AS SUSPECT IN BURGLARY, FREED

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

BURBANK, July 20.—Burbank police arrested Estanislar Vargas at the Mexican camp at the corner of Sixth street and Cornell Drive on suspicion of burglary. A key was found on Vargas that was supposed to be a key to the Monger home which was robbed two or three weeks ago of more than $1000 worth of wearing apparel. He was later released.

SHOOTS SELF ACCIDENTALLY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

UNION CITY (N. J.) July 20.—When his revolver exploded as he was about to shoot an apparently mad dog in front of 521 Lewis street, last night, Patrolman Patrick McCarthy of Union City police headquarters received the bullet in his left hand. He was taken to the office of Police Surgeon A. D. Greano in a passing auto. The dog, in the meantime, was shot by Traffic Officer Forman.

Plans Renewed for Hanging of Chicago Slayer

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, July 20.—Supposed new evidence upon which Russell Scott depended to save his life today dwindled to the doubtful testimony of two women, and officials of the Cook County Jail made plans to hang him next Friday.

Scott, former Canadian financier, was granted a week's reprieve last Thursday night, six hours before he was to have been hanged for the murder of a Chicago drug clerk during a hold-up. It was the latest of several reprieves granted him, and came after a telegram, signed Robert Scott, was sent to Gov. Small from Detroit, stating that Robert, and not Russell, fired the fatal shot.

Robert Scott, Russell's brother, was indicted, but never apprehended.

CHANGES HIS PLEA

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

UPLAND, July 20.—Mark Bailey Jr., 248 Sixth avenue, who demanded a trial by jury following his arrest Friday on a battery charge preferred by Officer Ross Witt, appeared before Judge George R. Crane today and changed his plea to guilty. The youth was given a sentence of $25 fine or twenty-five days in jail. This was suspended and he was placed on probation for a period of sixty days by the court.

Bailey was charged with striking the officer after calling him a "stool pigeon" and otherwise abusing him.

TELEGRAPH WAR LOOMS IN TEXAS

Western Union and Postal Seek Valley Trade

Request for All-night Office Unavailing

Railroad Alliances Benefit Competitors

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) July 20.—While the Southern Pacific and the Missouri Pacific systems are girding for a fight for railroad rights in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, another trade fight is brewing for the business of that fertile region.

The Postal and Western Union Telegraph companies will be the principals in the new fight for Valley favor.

The Rio Grande Valley Chamber of Commerce, representing about 125,000 people in Cameron, Hidalgo, Starr and Willacy counties, recently requested the Western Union to establish all-night office at some valley city, preferably Brownsville. There is now no office in the valley which remains open all night.

The Western Union did not comply with the request.

Now comes the rumor that the Postal is planning to enter the valley and to open an all-night office, according to advice received by the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, Saturday. If it does so, a war between the two companies for the business of the valley is anticipated.

The Postal already has a contract with the S. A. U. and G., railroad, which is expected to be taken over by the Missouri Pacific at an early date. Rumors Saturday were that soon after the railroad consolidation is made the contract with the Postal will be applied also to the Gulf Coast Lines, which have the bulk of the railroad mileage in the valley.

This, it was pointed out, will give the Postal a secure footing in the valley.

SUICIDE USES ROPE AND GUN

Angelino Hangs, Shoots Self in Idle Arizona Rock Plant

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TUCSON (Ariz.) July 20. W. Roedman, 59 years of age, who came here a month ago from Los Angeles, sought the lonely engine-room of an idle rock-crushing plant near this city, hanged himself to a beam and then sent a bullet through his head at the temple. He had paid his room rent and had left a note telling of despondency, due to the loss of his wife and to rheumatism that prevented employment. The wife was killed in an automobile accident, eleven months ago, near Florence, Colo., where Roedman had lived for many years.

Phone Station for Montrose Area Ordered

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 20.—Orders to establish a telephone exchange to serve Montrose, Verdugo City, La Crescenta and adjacent territory were issued to the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company today by the State Railroad Commission. The company was directed to start work on the construction of the exchange by August 15, and to furnish service on January 1.

The commission rejected the proposed schedule of rates for this district that was submitted by the company and ruled that the charge for calls between the three communities should be 5 cents and 10 cents to Pasadena from each of the towns in the zone.

PATENT OFFICE TO CLEAN HOUSE

Invention Models Are to be Disposed Of

Storage Space Lacking for 155,000 Articles

Smithsonian Institution Gets Many Exhibits

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Models labored over so painstakingly by inventors of the nineteenth century and sent to the United States Patent Office with applications for patents, are to be disposed of. There are some 155,000 of them and none is younger than 40 years. The practice of requiring the inventor to send in a model with his application for a patent was discontinued in 1884. Congress provided that the Patent Office did not need to keep any models sent in, and accordingly they have been returned since that time.

The Patent Office Building was originally planned with a view to placing all of these models on exhibiton and forming a museum. However, it was found that the inventive genius of the American people developd so rapidly that the models soon overran the space provided for them. Also the work of the office required an increased number of employees and the space was needed to accommodate them.

STORAGE PROBLEM

Then came the problem of finding storage space for the models sent in under the old rule. First, the officials of the Smithsonian Institution were invited to look them over and select any they might find of sufficient interest or historic value to be placed on display in the National Museum. About 500 were selected. These were in the main models of firearms, electrical appliances and early typewriters. The model of Abraham Lincoln's invention for lifting boats off shoals was taken for its historic interest.

After the Smithsonian Institutions had made its selection the other models were packed into cases about the size of coffins. An effort was made to pack models of the same type together, and a card index system was made so that these might be easily identified.

These cases have had a rather hectic life, being shunted from pillar to post. After they were removed from the Patent Office they were stored for a while in the basement of the Capitol. Later they were placed in the City Jail, and finally removed to their present location, which is a garage. And now they are to be disposed of entirely.

The disposition of these models is to be under the direction of a commission consisting of the Commissioner of Patents, the Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution and a patent attorney designated by the first named. It is planned that as the cases are opened this commission will meet and select what is deemed to be of value or of historical interest. These models will be stored or placed on exhibition in the Patent Office or in the National Museum.

The original depositor, or heirs of such, may file application to have his model returned to him. This demand must be in writing and must be sufficiently definite so that the model may be identified. Also all such claims must have been filed with the Patent Office before the 15th inst.

State or private museums and other institutions, are privileged to select anything which they might feel would be of particular interest in their collections.

TO BE SOLD AT AUCTION

The third way in which these models are to be disposed of is by public auction. It is likely that the sales will be conducted in a manner similar to those formerly managed by the Dead Letter Office. It would be practically impossible to attempt to dispose of each article separately. It is probable that similar articles will be placed in the same box and the box sold as a whole. The element of uncertainty as to just what one will draw when purchasing such a box should add zest to the sale.

MANY CRIMINALS HIDE BEHIND PROXY DEATHS

JUSTICE BUREAU REVEALS UNUSUAL METHOD OF CONCEALMENT

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Thousands of crimes are committed every year by men and women who are officially dead.

"Death by proxy" is among the most successful methods employed by criminals to bury their records and identity that they may continue a life of crime, according to officials of the Department of Justice.

The department maintains the most extensive fingerprint collection in this country. Virtually every known criminal is accurately described in this morgue, and, through reciprocal arrangements with police chiefs, sheriffs and crime detecting agencies, the identification division soon will be among the greatest in the world.

Officials anticipate that it will be as important in operations against criminals as the famous bureau at London's Scotland Yard.

Within recent months many fingerprints of apprehended criminals have been sent to the Department of Justice for identification. Experts discovered that the records were those of criminals across whose identification card was written in red ink, "Dead."

An investigation of these cases followed. It was disclosed that hundreds of criminals who are "dead" on police and government records are operating under other names.

More than 40,000 "unknown dead" are buried in this country annually. Department of Justice records show that many of them are not criminals.

The national fingerprint bureau maintained at the department has not only resulted in the apprehension and conviction of thousands of criminals, but records show that many innocent persons against whom the weight of circumstantial evidence was heavy, have been saved from a prison term by this new division of government activity.

JUDGE IMPOSES PRISON TERMS

Three Sentenced in Camp Murder Case

Ten Years to Life is Term for Slayers

Defense Files Notice of Appeal

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, July 20.—Delaying motions for a new trial, Judge Van Zandt today sentenced Mrs. Jennie Laura Brown, John H. Tipton and Fred Mills, convicted of the murder of Lee Camp, to from ten years to life, in the State prison at San Quentin.

Defense motions for a new trial were made upon the general grounds of errors occurring in the trial, erroneous instructions to the jury, that the verdict was against the evidence, contrary to law and that the jury was influenced by conditions other than the evidence in the case.

In support of the latter contention Attorney Hallinan filed an affidavit in which he set forth that for a long time prior to the trial there had been circulated throughout Kings county by local gossip and by certain newspapers, false and inflammatory statements and reports concerning the defendants herein and concerning the facts and circumstances involved in this action, such as were reasonably calculated and which did create great bias and prejudice against the defendants among many residents of said county and which bias and prejudice continued throughout the trial thereof, that said bias and prejudice was further heightened and inflamed by such reports and newspaper items during the continuance of the same, that because of such sentiment, there daily, during the progress of such trial, assembled in the courtroom in the presence of the jury trying said case, a large crowd of spectators and particularly a large crowd of persons inimical to the defendants and whose minds had become unjustly embittered and prejudiced against them.

That on several occasions during said trial, and in the presence of the jury and while said trial was in progress, individual members of such crowd of spectators, openly and loudly hissed the defendants and hissed the efforts of their respective counsels and their objections and arguments and displayed an open and bitter hostility toward the defendants and their counsel, that at the termination of the closing argument for the prosecution said crowd shouted, whistled, stamped and clapped approval of the same and loudly and boisterously continued the said applause for several minutes within the courtroom and in the presence of the jury and while the cause was being demonstrated to the jury.

The affidavit further alleges that on several occasions attorneys for the defense demanded that the court be cleared of such spectators and the spectators be admonished for such display of malice and hostility and certain individuals be punished for contempt of court for hissing and deriding the defense in the presence of the jury, that the court failed, refused and neglected to grant such request and that such action of the spectators reasonably tended to prejudice and incite the jury and caused them to return a verdict based otherwise than upon the evidence in the case and that the defendants were convicted upon popular clamor and prejudice and not upon a fair consideration of the evidence resulting in a grave miscarriage of justice.

Judge Van Zandt in reply, stated, "I am satisfied that the defendants had a fair trial. The motion is denied." Attorney H. P. Brown then said, "The defendant Jennie Laura Brown appeals from the judgment and decision of the court demanding a new trial, to the District Court of Appeals of the Second District of California.

BURBANK SHOW OPENS

Carnival Spirit Reigns as Huge Crowd Attends Valley Industrial Exposition

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

BURBANK, July 19.—The San Fernando Valley Industrial Exposition and Pure Food Show opened here tonight and the attendance, despite the hot weather, was such as to assure the success of this second annual event of the Burbank Chamber of Commerce.

The high-class entertainment features that have been provided by the management proved a wonderful hit and the audience went away feeling that they had seen as good a vaudeville show as they could see anywhere, to say nothing of the wonderful exhibits. The entire program, which at first was to be spread over the six nights of the show, was offered tonight, and the same artists will appear again tomorrow night with new songs and acts.

The main entrance to the show was a bank of palms, shrubbery and flowers, and greenery from the Burbank Nursery added greatly to the interior decorative scheme, which was of blue and gold bunting. The booths, painted in a silver gray, with their glistening displays and decorations, made a scene seldom rivaled in beauty in a tent show.

Charles B. Woods delivered the opening address, in which he reviewed the industrial and agricultural growth of San Fernando Valley and painted a bright future for Burbank, the "Gate City" to that huge area.

The exhibits, which included mercantile, industrial, pure-food articles and automobiles, eclipsed those of a year ago and are well worth going far to see.

Music is furnished for the exposition by the Burbank Municipal Band and Ted Campbell's Glendale Jazz Hounds.

Candidates for queen of the exposition, who will be crowned Saturday night, the last night of the show, were busy mingling with the throng and added greatly to their respective totals. Miss Margaret Hurd and Miss Esther Bertrand are still in the lead.

The Pacific Electric Company began running its cars to the end of the Fourth-street line today, and extra cars were put on to accommodate the exposition crowds.

Reduced excursion fares East via San Francisco or direct, through Salt Lake City and Utah-Colorado Rockies, over Denver & Rio Grande Western Scenic Line, Royal Gorge by daylight. 507 South Spring, Los Angeles. 116 West Ocean avenue, Long Beach.—[Advertisement.

MADE BLUFF GOOD WITH GOD'S HELP

Prominent Layman Creates Furor by Speach at Dinner of Church Brotherhood

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, July 20.—Attorney Charles W. Moon, teacher of the men's class in the exclusive Wilshire Presbyterian Church in Los Angeles, a class of which Mayor Cryer is a member, created a furor when addressing the brotherhood dinner of the First Presbyterian Church of Inglewood Saturday night as he declared that he had put over a monumental bluff back in Iowa for a quarter of a century by leading the church choir during that period, although he never did, and cannot now, read music, and doesn't know one note from another. "I am supposed to sing tenor in the choir now," he confessed candidly, "but to be frank, all I do is stand in the place where that male canary is usually supposed to chirp."

The speaker said that although he is now teaching a Sunday-school class whose members include leading financiers, business and professional men of Los Angeles, that he only took this responsibility because Dr. Eby, the pastor of the Wilshire church, asked him to, and that he was just as untrained and as unprepared for that task as for leading the choir, "but," he continued, "I have pledged myself to undertake any task in the church that I am asked to assume, and then to trust in the Lord to make my bluff good."

He referred to Moses as putting up a bluff on the Egyptians, the Israelites putting up a bluff on the Red Sea, and David putting up a bluff on the giant Goliath, "and they all got away with it, too, with God's help," was Mr. Moon's comment.

His theme was "What the Ideal Layman can do for His Church and the World," and his message that man is apt to be too modest as to his own abilities when called upon to do church work, but that with reliance on a higher power wonders can be accomplished, to the effect that "with God all things are possible."

Huge Potato Crop Raised by Two Boys

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VAN NUYS, July 20.—A practical demonstration of what good farming will do in the San Fernando Valley is to be seen this week on the Fulton-avenue ranch of Paul and Frank Whitsett, young sons of W. P. Whitsett, president of the Bank of Van Nuys. The boys are harvesting a thirty-acre field of White Rose potatoes, that are bringing them about $417 an acre gross. The crop was planted in March and grown under intensive methods, with less than the allotment of irrigation water, and following three of the dryest seasons in the history of the Southland.

Twenty-five men are employed in gathering the yield. The average crop is 150 sacks of 116 pounds to the acre, and is being sold at the roadside at $3.40 per 100 pounds, under a contract price made some time ago. The boys have obtained two other good crops off the land within the last twelve months.

Venice Authorities Ask Help In Prevention Measures

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, July 20.—Believing that the many swarms of mosquitoes which have infested this city recently are rising from the marshy land in the vicinity of Ballona Creek, local health authorities have asked State officials to use preventive measures and are also urging City Trustees to communicate with the County Supervisors in an endeavor to abate the nuisance.

Reasons given by Dr. Sands, health officer, for the prevalence of mosquitoes at night, are that the pests are driven into the city from what is believed to be their breeding grounds by an offshore breeze. The nuisance can be controlled provided proper measures are taken, it is stated.

Dies by Own Hand in Den in Mexican City

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

MONROVIA, July 20.—Broken-hearted over a faithless love for whose favor he had committed three penitentiary offences; caught in the grip of a deadly drug, and disheartened and discouraged by sorrows that even his mother did not know, Ervin E. La Plante, 24-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter La Plante, pioneer residents of this city, sought a Mexican den in Tia Juana on Friday night, last, calmly penned a suicide letter to his mother and swallowed a heavy dose of the drug.

The letter was found in a pocket of his coat and turned over by San Diego authorities to his mother when she and Mr. La Plante arrived in the southern city Saturday night. The body was buried in San Diego yesterday.

In the letter, his mother learned for the first time that while her son was in the Navy on the U. S. S. Pueblo, from prior to the war until May, 1919, he was married, but lost his wife and their unborn baby. He was married a second time, she also learned, in Omaha, but this wife proved unfaithful and deserted him.

Several months ago, the letter stated, he fell deeply in love with a woman in Los Angeles. He brought her to his parents' home here on Sunday, the 12th inst., last, but found his parents away for the week end. His grandmother did not remember what the woman's name was except that young La Plante called her Mary. To get himself and his intended bride to San Diego, where he said he had been promised a job, he admitted forging two checks on S. A. Wilson, a Monrovia contractor, which he cashed at the Fernleaf Grocery and Home Dairy, for $45 and $21.50 respectively. He also confessed to stealing a small coupe in Los Angeles in which they drove to San Diego, where they abandoned it and went to Tijuana by stage.

Several days later, the letter stated, his prospective bride secured a place in a Tijuana cabaret, returned his engagement ring, and "told him she was through with him." Police took charge of his body a few hours later.

After leaving the Navy, La Plante served in the aviation corps for two years, being stationed at Rockwell Field at San Diego. The last few years, he had been engaged in electrical work in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

San Diego authorities, the young man's parents reported, are holding the coupe in an effort to locate the owner, and have taken into custody a woman, who was believed to have been the person who accompanied young La Plante from Los Angeles.

Officers Make Young Pugilist Take the Count

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, July 20.—Jimmy Young, 21, prizefighter, who has appeared in several bouts at Huntington Beach in recent months, was arrested in the Tower Cafe, Seal Beach, by State Motorcycle Officer Louis Heffner and Officers Ben Craig and Jack Arnold of Seal Beach, after a brief battle in which the officers were given credit for a knockout.

Young is charged with resisting an officer, being drunk and disturbing the peace.

According to Heffner, Young lived up to his reputation as one of the toughest lightweights on the Coast, and it took several well-directed blows to the head to bring him to submission. He was brought to the Orange County Jail here. Young recently came to the Coast from Chicago, and since has made a name for himself as one of the best among the Coast lightweights, it is said.

"Come-on" Men Arrested on Venice Pleasure Pier

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, July 20.—Local police are rigorously enforcing the ordinance which prohibits "come-along men" from working for the many concessions in the amusement zone, so that patrons may be lured into playing the game by the large winnings of the asserted customer.

The drive recently instituted resulted in the arrest this morning of G. Davis and Earl Gillespie, both of Ocean Park, who were operating in the Venice zone. Both pleaded guilty and Davis was fined $250, and Gillespie was given six months' suspended sentence.

While none of the games were placed under criticism by police the practice of using "shellers" is deceitful and will not be tolerated, police said.

PLAN TO ENTERTAIN VISITING CANADIANS

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, July 20. — Information from John Hooper, president of the Canadian Tourists' Association, is to the effect that while it can not be definitely stated what the prospect for winter tourists from Canada is at the present time, that indications point to a tremendous influx. Definite figures will undoubtedly be given during the next few weeks, it is asserted.

According to Hooper, the society is contemplating a definite line of entertainment for the next winter season. Early in September monthly publications telling of the activities of the society will be published and circulated throughout the Southland.

THEATER IS VICTIM

Robbers Make Fourth Successful Invasion of Pasadena Amusement Resort

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, July 20.—For the fourth time in a comparatively short time the Raymond Theater on North Raymond avenue was robbed at an early hour this morning of approximately $2160, total of the Saturday and Sunday ticket sales. The dial of the theater safe was knocked off with a heavy instrument, detectives believe.

On the floor in the room the safe is kept, approximately $10 in pennies and small change was found scattered about the floor, evidently thrown there in disgust by the robbers who were after "big money."

It is believed that the safe-crackers who robbed the Raymond this morning are intimate with the activities of the theater officials, for last night was the first night in many months that the week-end cash receipts were not transferred to the police department's safe. Detectives believe that the robbers knew that the money had not been taken to the Police Station that night and that the robbery was no mere accident. Startling revelations may be forthcoming within a few days as police investigation continues, it is said. The entire loss was covered by insurance.

Inside the safe in the drawer from which the money was taken officers found a card on which the word "Thanks" was written. Fingerprints on this card and on the outside of the safe were photographed by the detectives.

Near the broken strong box a pair of pliers, a heavy screwdriver and a crowbar were found. It is believed the robbers left hurriedly when Sam Lingard, the janitor, entered the building at 5 a.m. today. Detective Lieutenants Harry Thomas and Paul Hayden, made the investigation.

Secretaries to Hold Meeting at Newport Beach

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, July 20.—Gov. Richardson will attend the meeting of the Southern California Chamber of Commerce Secretaries at Newport Beach Saturday, it was learned today.

Hundreds of representatives from over the Southland will convene for the regular monthly session of the secretarial association. Extensive plans have been made for entertaining delegates and honored guests.

A short talk will be given by Gov. Richardson at the luncheon in the Newport Beach Yacht Club. Before the luncheon, the visitors are to be taken on a boat ride around Upper Newport Bay. A business session of two hours' duration has been scheduled for the afternoon. Matters pertaining to the work of commercial organization secretaries will be discussed.

Of unusual interest will be the talk by E. F. McDonough of the Santa Barbara Chamber of Commerce, relating how Santa Barbara, wrecked by earthquake, is reconstructing. His subject is "Co-operation of the City with the Chamber of Commerce" as experienced at Santa Barbara.

The tour of the day will be made following the business discussion which ends at 3 p.m. Arrangements for a swimming in the ocean will be offered the secretaries. Dinner will be served during the evening at the Newport Harbor Yacht Club. The visitors will be entertained at a dance program in the Balboa pavilion. Room courtesy for Saturday night will be supplied at St. Ann's Inn, Santa Ana.

Divorce Suit Culminates in Fatal Shooting

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, July 20.—Del Balsey shot and probably fatally wounded his wife, May Balsey, near their home, 4951 Hawley Boulevard, in Normal Heights, then turned the weapon on himself and fired a shot into his chest. Both were taken to the County Hospital, where surgeons hold out small hope for their lives. The shooting occurred shortly after noon today.

The shooting was preceded by a desperate attempt upon the part of the wife to escape. She ran into the home of Mrs. Knapp, a neighbor at 4946 Fortieth street, and Mrs. Knapp locked the door, while Mrs. Balsey ran out another door to the home of Mrs. Robert Ruley, 4937 Fortieth street. Balsey kicked in the door of the Knapp home, ran through the house and overtook his wife as she reached the porch of the Ruley home. He fired one shot, the bullet taking effect in the women's right breast.

As she sank to the ground, Balsey recrossed the street to a garage in the rear of a residence adjoining the Knapp home. From there he fired a shot into his chest and was apparently in a dying condition when the ambulance reached the scene.

The Balseys have five children, according to neighbors. Mrs. Balsey had supported the family for some time and becoming tired of this, recently started divorce proceedings, which led to the probable fatal shooting.

REDLANDS, July 20.—The funeral of Dr. C. A. It was necessary to send a man in after them, and it is not expected that they can reach Porterville before tomorrow. They will come directly to Redlands, and if they reach here in time, the funeral will be held on Wednesday.

Dr. Sanborn was not only one of the pioneer residents of Redlands, having come here in 1888, and practiced since that time, but he was one of the pioneer automobile owners here. He owned one of the first cars brought to Redlands and was the first man to attempt to drive it in the mountains. He made the first trip by automobile over mountain roads to Oakglen and also the first automobile trip to Skyland Heights on the north range.

Officers Search for Man Accused of Killing Woman

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, July 20.—Led by Deputy Frank Jennings of El Cajon, a Sheriff's squad is scouring the brush in the San Diego River bottoms in that district in search of Jesus Martinez, who is wanted for the asserted murder of Mrs. Marceline Joben, 31 years of age, wife of Jose Joben, of East San Diego, in a building on the ranch Del Rio, near Santee, at 8:20 last night.

The woman was shot through the right lung with a rifle, while her 6-year-old daughter looked on. According to the story of the slaying told by the child to Coroner Schuyler Kelly, she and her mother went to Santee yesterday morning to spend the day with the woman's husband, who is a ranch hand.

During the day Martinez called on the woman at the ranch house, and, according to the child, the two quarreled. Last night Martinez came back while the woman and child were together, with a rifle. "Mother told him to shoot her," the child is quoted as saying to officers. Martinez fired a shot, then fled.

New Bandit in Role of Famed Foothill Yegg

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, July 20.—Belief that a new "Foothill Bandit" has begun operations on the Foothill Boulevard since Harry Dunlap, the original foothill and badge bandit was sentenced to a long term in prison, was expressed by the police today when it was reported that K. Ichimi, 1045 East Mariposa street, Altadena, was held up by an unmasked bandit and robbed of $165 and an expensive gold watch.

The hold-up took place in a desolate spot near where Harry Dunlap committed so many of his daring robberies. The man carried a large caliber revolver and spoke gruffly as did Dunlap, Ichimi told the officers.

Since this territory is not patroled by Pasadena Police and is protected only by the sheriff's deputies, citizens were warned today not to carry large sums of money with them while traveling through Altadena.

LIFTS TOT FROM TROLLEY'S PATH

Pacific Electric Conductor Proves Himself Hero

Pushes Baby from Rails as Train Thunders By

Quick Thinking and Prompt Action Save Life

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

BURBANK, July 20.—The quick wit and cool courage of Conductor O. O. Penn of a Pacific Electric train running between Burbank and Los Angeles this morning saved the life of an 18-month-old baby and made a hero of himself.

The child, who was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Whitey of Raymond avenue, was saved from being ground to death beneath the wheels of the train when Penn, reaching from the step and fender of the front car, half lifted, half pushed the infant off the track as the two-car train rolled on its full length before it could be brought to a stop.

The train had pulled out of Burbank at 8:45 o'clock, and was speeding toward Glendale when, just as it approached Raymond avenue at the usual fast speed, the motorman noticed two children playing near the track. He put the train in reverse and Penn, who was taking tickets at the time, sensed the situation and rushed to the front of the car, where, by fast thinking and fast moving he managed to save the baby, the 3-year-old brother having scooted off the track.

The baby was pushed down a small embankment but was not hurt.

UNAVOIDABLE DEATH

Coroner's Jury Says Autoist Not to Blame

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

WHITTIER, July 20.—The Coroner's jury in the case of Roy Doyle, who died from the effects of an auto accident two days ago, today returned a verdict of unavoidable accident.

It developed that the death car was driven by L. Cheever, a high school student, who lives with his parents at 229½ South Painter avenue, Whittier.

Doyle, who was a night watchman for the General Petroleum Company at Santa Fe Springs, was going to work about 11 o'clock at night, when he was hit by the machine. He was given first aid at the Santa Fe Springs Emergency Hospital and later removed to the Murphy Memorial Hospital, Whittier, where he died the next morning at 8:30 of internal injuries and a fractured skull.

He was a widower and had been in the employ of the oil company for about a year and a half.

The body was taken to the Coleman mortuary on North Greenleaf avenue, where Deputy Coroner P. R. Monfort conducted the inquest this afternoon. The funeral services will probably be held Wednesday afternoon and interment made in a local cemetery.

AUTO COLLISION MAY HAVE FATAL ENDING

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

PACOIMA, July 20.—Antonio Cerutti, 44 years of age, is in a Burbank hospital and likely to die as the result of an auto collision in which his skull and arm were fractured late last night, near here. According to police report, D. M. Daigle, 19, of Orange Cove, was asleep in a truck, parked off San Fernando Road near Strathern avenue. A car which Jim Choppo was driving with Cerutti as a passenger, suddenly left the road and collided with the truck, Cerutti was the only one badly injured. The two machines were wrecked.

PEANUT STAND ON JOB AGAIN

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VAN NUYS, July 20.—Van Nuys is a friendly town. If it had a flag or a coat of arms or something of the sort, "Help the other guy," would be the motto on the civic escutcheon.

Last week a tourist's auto rounding the principal downtown corner knocked James Barnett's peanut stand to smithereens. The old gentleman narrowly escaping with his life, went to his humble home, out of business for life, so he thought.

The next day, H. C. Hatterscheid, vice-president of the Bank of Van Nuys, looked out, missed the stand and the old man, and then opened his phone. He called up the bank across the street and several large business men.

"I want fifty bucks," he said, "and all you fellers must 'kick in.'" He then explained, adding that banks, big stores and peanut stands all looked alike when the town's community spirit was under test.

Today, Barnett is on the job again. The attractive stand he is standing alongside is drawing twice as many customers as formerly.

CHURCHMAN HELD UNDER HEAVY BOND

Former Choir Singer Pays Fine for Liquor Violations; Held for Forgery

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, July 20.—E. E. Newman, 36 years of age, Tustin man, and former singer in the choir of a local church, who recently escaped jail when he paid a fine of $500 after pleading guilty to a charge of possessing intoxicating liquor, is back in the Orange County Jail today.

He was arrested by Chief Criminal Deputy Ed McClellan on a warrant charging him with issuing a fictitious check.

Newman was first arrested on June 13, after State Motorcycle Officer Louis Heffner is said to have found twenty-four pints of whisky in his automobile, which was parked on a street in Buena Park. In Justice Court, on June 15, Newman pleaded guilty and was fined $500.

Saturday's arrest came after a complaint had been made by J. W. Walker, Santa Ana. The amount involved is $5, according to the complaint.

Newman's preliminary trial has been set for the 23rd inst., in Justice K. E. Morrison's court, and bail was set at $1000, which had not been furnished late today.

Her story about being kidnaped, spirited across the border, ordered to marry an elderly Mexican and being saved by a Chinese boy who drugged her prospective husband, is to be thoroughly probed by the officials. Her attorney, W. F. Menton, announced the hearing, stating that Mrs. Cookson was anxious to tell her story to the officers.

JAIL ATTENDANTS TO FACE LARGE PROBLEM

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, July 20.—David M. Rouse of Orange, said to be the largest man in Orange County, stands a chance of being the biggest man ever to enter the Orange County jail.

Rouse, who, officers say, weighs almost 350 pounds, was arrested early yesterday on the El Modena grade by Ray Bradfield, State motorcycle officer, charged with speeding his light roadster fifty-five miles an hour.

Speeders who pass the fifty-mile mark have in the past been receiving jail sentences in Justice Morrison's court, where Rouse has been cited to appear on July 24.

Should Rouse receive a jail sentence, jailers are wondering what provisions they will make to accommodate him, whether he will get a cell all to himself, or whether he will fit in the regular "berths."

TALKS TAXATION TO REAL ESTATE BOARD

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

GLENDALE, July 20.—Rolland A. Vandegrift, of the research department of the California Taxation Improvement Association, will address the Glendale real estate board on Wednesday on the California inheritance tax law, having been invited to speak on the unfavorable aspects before the board acts on a resolution that has been pending for three weeks calling for the repeal or modification of the law.

A movement to adopt the resolution on its introduction was halted by several members of the board, who asked that both sides of the argument regarding the repeal or maintenance of the law be presented to them before any action was taken.

The State Motor Vehicle Act requires all plates to be in plain view, and at today's court session a number of those who had failed to comply with this provision were fined and instructed to have the position of the plates changed.

CHAIN ACQUIRES TACOMA STORE

B. F. Schlesinger & Sons Buy Department Firm

Rhodes Bros., Inc., Operated for Thirty Years

Local Bankers Will Effect New Financing

Acquisition of Rhodes Bros., Inc., the leading department store in Tacoma, Wash., by B. F. Schlesinger & Sons, which was incorporated last March by B. F. Schlesinger, former general manager of the Emporium in San Francisco, and vice-president and general manager of the May Company in Los Angeles, was announced yesterday by George H. Burr, Conrad & Broom, Inc., investment bankers of Los Angeles.

B. F. Schlesinger & Sons was incorporated to operate a chain of department stores on the Pacific Coast, and started with the acquisition of Kahn Bros. of Oakland, and Olds, Wortman & King of Portland. Mr. Schlesinger also anticipates the addition of stores in Los Angeles and San Francisco in the near future.

Rhodes Bros., Inc., which has just been added to this group, was established by H. A. Rhodes in 1892 and has been successfully operated for over thirty years. The company has done annually a volume of business in excess of $3,000,000. Mr. Rhodes has been elected director of B. F. Schlesinger & Sons, Inc., in Tacoma, and will continue in the active management of that store.

George H. Burr, Conrad & Broom, Inc., who effected the financing of the company at the time of its organization will have charge of the financing of the new acquisition through the sale of stock, which will be announced soon.

The company was incorporated with an authorized capital stock of 500,000 shares of which 190,000 shares were issued. The present capitalization consists of 15,000 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, par value $100, 50,000 shares of class "A" common stock, no par value, and 125,000 shares of class "B" common stock, no par value.

REPORTS ON TRADE TELL OF ADVANCE

Financial Survey Says Industry Lines Keeping Ahead of 1924

Moody's Weekly Review of Financial Conditions in its current issue says in part:

"Gains over last year the feature of the trade returns. The usual summer dullness is occurring, but still the activity of almost every industry is maintained above that of a year ago.

"This is true even in the steel trade, and as a business forecast this fact more than offsets the June decline in unfilled tonnage. During July the unfilled orders ought to hold almost even, while in August an increase is not improbable.

"Crop reports, domestic and foreign, are just about what might be desired. They point to average yields, and medium rather than bumper crops are desirable now, because very large production would be apt to bring back the agricultural depression.

"Both bond and stock markets are showing healthy action in that there is an absence of speculative enthusiasm and a perceptible expansion of confidence based upon the approach of the autumn trade. Higher or broader markets are in prospect."

EDISON RISE SIGNIFICANT

Testifies to Revaluation by East of All of Southern California; Ballard Denies Rumors

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Probably as near as one corporation can represent a community, the Edison company fulfills that role for Southern California. The people in this part of the State are as much interested in the persistent rise in the price of Edison common as the 75,000 stockholders of the company, for it is significant of a revision in the East of expert investment opinion concerning things in Southern California. It's a tribute to the community as well as to the company.

The story of the rise in Edison common has been told before. The story has been out of line with the public utility and the money markets for some time, and it is not the habit of shrewd investors and speculators to overlook maladjustment of this kind for any length of time. In the rise a few weeks ago from around 105 to 119, the first step in the process of correction was taken, and in the last three or four days, it has been carried further. Whether it has been completed or not is a debatable point.

PUBLIC SEES LIGHT

At yesterday's high on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange of 132 3-4 the Edison common stockholders are the beneficiaries of a remarkable revaluation of the company on the part of the public. The sentiment on this point is so strong in the East that the stock was quoted in the New York market around 135, it was reported.

Sensational as the rise has been, there is nothing mysterious about it. The answer is found in earnings, and earnings are favorable because the company is manufacturing energy from water, instead of steam. A year ago, the reverse was true.

Edison officers have not been backward in showing the earnings statements where they will do the most good. And after learning this fact, it is only natural that an 8 per cent stock should sell on a 6 per cent basis, especially when money is available in the call market around 3 and 4 per cent. Speculators are quick to use cheap money for this purpose, and they have been doing the same thing with other 8 per cent public utility stocks, which are selling above 130.

The explanation is simple, yet the furious pace the stock has hit in in the last few days has prompted the usual flock of rumors. R. H. Ballard, vice-president and general manager of the Edison Company, categorically denies them. The company is not consolidating with Pacific Gas and Electric, Montana Power or any others, he stated, nor are the directors contemplating a reduction in the par value of the stock. These stories all were in circulation yesterday.

As Mr. Ballard shows, it practically is impossible to acquire control of the company, either through the open market or from the large stockholders. In the last three days, the stock changing hands in the upward movement totaled about $620,000 par value. Compared with the total stock capitalization of $89,500,000, this is only a drop in the bucket.

STOCK DISTRIBUTED

Edison is literally a "people's project." The largest stockholder has $1,800,000 par value and the second largest, $1,000,000. The total individual holdings above $50,000 only amount to 6 per cent of the total stock capitalization, which discourages the possibility of control passing to outsiders through a deal with the large stockholders.

More than 75,000 stockholders own the company. Something over 40,000 stockholders own about $800 par value each. About 30,000 of the stockholders are women and 1500 are children, all small investors. And each is in nearly all cases a customer of the company, anxious to perpetuate the management that has been so successful.

Undoubtedly, a measurable proportion of the investment recognition of Edison worth is traceable to the activity of the company in refuting the stories current in the East of earthquake disaster. Mr. Ballard was in New York at the time of the Santa Barbara affair, and on the receipt of wires from the Los Angeles office, proceeded to disseminate the truth of the earthquake damage.

He found that exaggerated stories had knocked Edison quotations to 109, but his facts immediately corrected the situation, and the rebound to normal levels followed. The circulation of the true facts regarding the company and its earnings from diversified enterprises in Southern California concentrated the attention of the right people on the company, and possibly accounts in some measure for the strength of the buying.

GOOD SALES IN ELECTRIC RANGE LINE

Demand in Pacific Coast Territory Reported to be Particularly Gratifying

Demand for electrical equipment, particularly electric ranges, is good on the Pacific Coast. Export business and power company buying in the San Francisco bay region indicate excellent prospects for the remainder of the year. Sales of electrical equipment through the country are in steady volume, and satisfactory as compared with a year ago. The outlook is good for the ensuing months. Central station companies are purchasing distribution equipment and supplies and are actively proceeding with construction work. An order for substation apparatus that is expected to be placed shortly by one utility company will amount to nearly $1,000,000.

Prices of the competitive sizes of rubber-covered wire have again increased about 5 per cent.

The General Electric Company this week announced that its sales for the quarter ended June 30, amounted to $66,468,992, as compared with $71,219,984 for the same period last year, a decrease of 7 per cent. Sales of the company for the first six months of this year totaled $150,315,228, against $144,707,887 for the first six months of 1924, an increase of 4 per cent.

In the New England district sales of industrial electric trucks are active and inquiries are being received in good volume. Central station supplies and transmission line products are in good demand in that territory, and sales of industrial electric heating equipment are brisk. Distribution apparatus is in active demand by central station companies in the New York district, and orders as well as inquiries for wire are coming in fairly freely, with much of it received from industrial firms.

In the southeast line construction materials are selling well and such purchases by central station companies, particularly in Florida and Alabama, constitute the greater volume of business in the southeast. Utility companies have been purchasing a large amount of equipment in the Middle West, and construction work is proceeding actively.

[Copyright, 1925, New York Evening Post, Inc.]

LONDON, July 20. — The new week opened quiet and featureless, awaiting disclosures of the speculative position at the settlement. Oils, after buoyancy, eased slightly and the rubbers also were fidgety on the eve of settlement. Investments showed a good tone on easy money. It is believed the Australian loan will go well. A statement by the Australian Federal Treasurer shows that the net price received in London for the new commonwealth loan was £96 3s, and in New York it was £90.

The commonwealth will pay interest averaging £5 4s 4d per annum in Great Britain and £5 4s 10d in America.

The manifesto of the India Rubber Manufacturers' Association against continuance of the rubber restrictions forms a part of the active propaganda which is traceable to America. Broadly speaking, business men favor the restriction policy, but recognize the danger involved in pushing matters too far.

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) July 20. The sale of 175 acres of land by the National Golf Association of Texas to the International Exposition Association for $52,500, free of lien, has been approved by creditors of the golf association. ## OIL SHARES OFFERED TO EMPLOYEES

Opportunity to Buy Issue of Union Company is Open on Easy Terms

Employees of the Union Oil Company of California have been given the opportunity of purchasing 100,000 shares of the capital stock of the company, according to announcement made yesterday by John McPeak, secretary.

The shares will be sold to employees at $26.50 each, this being 5 per cent less than the average market price quoted on the New York Stock Exchange for sales over the sixty days prior to July 15, 1925. The offer is subject to the assent of the stockholders of the company and the approval of the California Corporation Commission. All employees who have been in the service for one year are elegible.

Employees will be required to pay 10 per cent of the total purchase price when the subscription is made. The balance may be divided into equal monthly payments to be deducted from the pay roll over a period not to exceed five years. Subscribers may, however, pay additional sums to be credited to their account, and may, if they so desire, take up the entire deferred payments at any time within the five-year period. Subscriptions must be made on or before September 13.

Employees purchasing stock will have no right to vote prior to the issuance of the stock, which will be made when the full purchase price has been paid, and no dividends will be declared on the stock purchased until it is issued. The company will credit interest on subscribers' deposits, however, at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, calculated semiannually, to be applied upon the purchase price.

In the event of a stock dividend being declared on the company stock subscribers to the employee issue will be entitled to share in proportion to their subscriptions, the new stock to be issued when the full amount of the subscription is paid. In event of an offering of shares to stockholders the employee subscriber will be entitled to his pro rata or rights and may purchase them upon the same terms as are granted to stockholders generally, or his rights will be sold and proceeds credited on his subscription contract.

The stock offering will be handled by a board of trustees consisting of three officers of the company with such powers as may be designated by the board of directors.

BUSINESS TODAY

BY PAUL WILLARD GARRETT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1925, New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, July 20.—The time was when Wall street looked to the unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation as one of its most reliable barometers of the future trend in business.

Not everyone appears to appreciate the fact but a downturn in the curve of unfilled orders in the present circumstances does not mean what it did once. Improvement in the railroad service of the country has among other things, enabled the industry to operate more and more on a hand to mouth basis. Purchasers are not obliged as formerly to enter large orders for future delivery to protect themselves.

SHRINKAGE MISLEADS

Since early in the year unfilled orders have declined rather sharply and, judging by former experiences, it might be presumed that the industry gradually was losing business. Not so much encouragement can be found in the trend of unfilled orders, although the forward business still holds above its level of a year ago and has not tapered off as sharply of late as a few months ago.

But the trend of this business is misleading. The steel business is in a better position than the barometer indicates or to put the thing more accurately, the barometer does not now reflect the complete condition.

That unfilled orders have shrunk does not mean now days that consumption has fallen off proportionately. Hand to mouth buying has reduced future buying, in other words, but has not reduced seriously the total volume of consumption. We can no longer make any very accurate measure of the volume of consumption from unfilled orders.

STEEL DEMAND GOOD

The demand both for iron and steel, as a matter of fact, continues good. Such leading consumers as the automobile, petroleum and building industries have been consistently large buyers and each of these important industries still enjoy an enormous volume of business. Nothing yet has appeared on the horizon to make us doubt that activities will continue, and that consequently good consumption of iron and steel may be expected for the months immediately ahead. The railroads have not been heavy buyers, but in time more equipment will be needed.

If the demand develops prices of the commodity may reasonably be expected to harden somewhat as autumn approaches for stocks on hand are relatively low. Production has been held down fairly well to the consumption level recently.

With production about balancing consumption, low stocks and the prospect of an upturn in business this fall, the steel industry has reason to hope for good business ahead.

Investment Opportunities In Foreign Bonds

The steady decline in interest rates during the past year on high-grade utility, rail and industrial issues, has led many investors to look about for bonds that will yield a better return with the same degree of security.

Under present conditions the choice lies clearly between domestic corporation obligations which are unseasoned or enjoy a restricted market, and foreign government issues which sell at a high yield because the demand for capital is great and the security lies outside of the United States.

Anticipating this interest in foreign bonds, BLYTH, WITTER & CO., several years ago, began a careful survey of the foreign situation. A London office was recently opened in charge of an American thoroughly familiar with Europe and European credits. Contacts were established throughout the Continent and South America.

As a result of careful investigation, we have reached the conclusion that wisely selected and properly safeguarded bonds of foreign nations, states and municipalities offer an attractive opportunity for safe and profitable investment. We believe every investor who desires a well balanced list, yielding a reasonable income, can well afford to include a reasonable proportion of high-grade foreign securities.

CONSERVATION and Reclamation District No. 1, Hudspeth County, Texas, embraces 20,014 acres, about 70% cultivated. This land has an estimated value of $3,400,000, while the total debt of the district is only $700,000 (the current issue of bonds.) The approximate annual crop production is $1,500,000.

An abundance of water at low cost from Elephant Butte Dam, by virtue of a perpetual contract with the U. S. government, rich river bottom soils, adequate transportation facilities, cheap labor, and limited acreage available for irrigation in this vicinity, insure the further development of this district and increasingly sound land values.

We offer the 6% Serial Bonds of this district, subject to prior sale, at prices to yield about 6.25%, and recommend the investment as especially desirable on this basis.

Looking Ahead

MANY home owners are carrying short-term loans at 7% or 8% interest. Many others, imbued with a spirit of thrift, are carrying fifteen-year loans at 6½% (and no renewal costs) and paying them off in easy semi-annual instalments. This is the form of loan we recommend to property owners who desire to look ahead to the day when they can own their homes free and clear of all encumbrance.

BOND QUOTATIONS

LOAN OVERSUBSCRIBED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, July 20.—Interest in bond trading today was obscured by the heavy oversubscription of the $75,000,000 Australian loan offered by J. P. Morgan & Co. While the bankers declined to reveal the amount of total subscriptions Wall street investment houses estimated that the issue had been twice oversold and reported that they had encountered considerable difficulty in filling orders for the bonds.

The influence of the offering on bond trading was reflected in a variety of "switching" operations. Attracted by the statement of the bankers that the Australian obligations were comparable to those of the Dominion of Canada, holders of the Canadian bonds as well as of several other conservative foreign issues showed a tendency to transfer their funds to the Commonwealth loan, which was sold to yield 5 per cent. Some selling of the United States Treasury and Liberty bonds was also ascribed to a desire to invest in the Australian issue.

Active buying of Danish bonds which lifted the government's outstanding 6s more than 3 points and the Copenhagen 5½s a point was followed by the announcement that a $30,000,00 refunding loan had been awarded to the Guaranty Company of New York. The operation will reduce interest charges on one of the Danish issues from 6 to 5½ per cent. An early offering of thirty-year bonds is expected.

Domestic corporation bonds pursued a downward course today, although losses mainly were confined to fractions. Convertible oil issues were heavy and there was scattered selling of semispeculative railroad bonds, particularly those mentioned in connection with merger prospects, in view of indications that the Nickel Plate consolidation would be further delayed. Changes in the rail group, however, were conflicting and moderate gains were scored by Missouri Pacific, Seaboard, Norfolk and Western, Frisco and Western Pacific issues.

Following are yesterday's high, low and closing prices as bonds on the New York Stock Exchange and the total sales of each bond. These quotations are received over Associated Press wires, and to expedite transmission the closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both the low and close are omitted when they are the same as the high.

NEW YORK CURB

Utilities Firm

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, July 20.—Profit-taking descended on the curb market securities in late trading today, depicting many losses in various groups of the gains they had scored in active forenoon dealings, resulting from an accumulation of buying orders over the week-end.

For public utilities withstand the selling pressure, the general list experiencing a much easier tone than recently. Exceptions to the weakening tendency were United Gas and Electric and Western Power, each of which closed 2¼ points higher on the day. Power Corporation of New York which has displayed strong resistance to liquidation in recent sessions on its upward move lost 1¾ points, closing at 85¾. The stock sold originally at 90. Southeastern Power and Light also lost 2¼ points. Electrical Refrigerator issues were firm. Service Electric Corporation touching a new high at 24½. Kelvinator also advanced 4½ points.

Transactions in the oils and industrials lacked any particular feature, fractional changes chiefly being recorded.

STOCK MARKET TONE BUOYANT

Bear Effort to Halt Upward Trend Fails

Many Issues on List Bid Up to New Highs

Favorable Trade News Gives Buying Impetus

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, July 20.—Readjustment of speculative accounts today temporarily retarded but failed to halt the upward movement of stock prices.

Undeterred by professional attempts to depress the market leaders, speculators for the rise carried on constructive operations with signal success in many other sections of the list, lifting prices of a score of mail order, motor, rubber, merchandise, food, tobacco and specialty issues to new high levels for the year on gains of 1 to 6 points.

A favorable budget of trade news including a higher average for general commodity prices, increased earnings by oil, tobacco and automobile accessory companies, coupled with an advance in tire prices, encouraged renewed buying of many of these issues.

Reports of prosperous conditions in the West and an increase in agricultural buying stimulated trading in the mail order issues. Sears-Roebuck soared over 6 points to a new peak price for the year at 187 3-8, closing 5½ points net higher at 186 3-4. At the same time Montgomery Ward moved up more than 2 points to a new high level at 65½.

Bullish demonstrations were resumed with vigor in such speculative favorites as Mack Truck and Havana Electric, both of which broke into new high ground. At 194 3-4 Mack established a record high price, but it eased off at the close to 193 1-4, a gain of 4 3-4 points on the day. Havana Electric crossed 192 for the first time but lost its gain later and closed fractionally lower. Burroughs Adding Machine was boosted 7 points to a new top at 95½.

Approach to the heavy freight moving season created more interest in investment railroad shares in the early dealings, but buying later was restricted by indications that the "Nickel Plate" merger would be further delayed through the Van Sweringens's abandonment of their support to limit the scope of the inquiry.

Trading in the foreign exchanges again was featured by rallies in Danish and Norwegian kroner to the highest levels in several years. Demand sterling held firm slightly below 4.86, while French francs and Italian lire were steady.

No change was noted in the prevailing ease in the money situation. Call funds held at 3 3-4 per cent all day and the time money rates were unchanged.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—Although receipts were only moderate, demand was narrow, and a slow, draggy trade resulted. The supply of good steers and the stock was comparatively small and those kinds sold at barely steady prices, while the plainer, half fat kinds, in the majority, lost 10@15 cents on the few early sales made, while closing sales were 15@25 cents lower than last week's close. A fourcar string of 1238-pound grass steers topped for the day at 8.00. Other sales of steers were mostly plain, half fat kinds from 6.25@7.50, with this canner and cutter kinds' downward to 4.00 and below.

No strictly good cows or heifers sold, the best going over being ten head of 1087-pound Utahs at 6.75. The top price spread of 4.50@6.50 took in the bulk of fat cows and heifers, while very common kinds sold downward to 4.00. Canners, cutters and bulls held around the steady mark, most canners and cutters clearing from 2.00@3.50, while bologna bulls turned largely from 4.00@4.75, with beef kinds around 5.00. Slightly better than half of yesterday's supply remained unsold at a late hour.

CALVES—The supply of good and choice vealers was limited and these kinds met good inquiry at fully steady prices, several lots selling from 11.00@11.50. Common and medium kinds and overweights constituted the bulk of the supply and were slow sellers, the bulk clearing from 8.50@9.00, with throwouts and "bobs" downward to 4.00.

HOGS—A moderately active trade developed for yesterday's supply at 10@15 cents lower prices and about five loads remained unsold at a late hour. The bulk of good 175 to 200-pound butchers mustered 13.35, yesterday's top, this price taking in six loads. Mixed offerings and light lights averaging 130 to 160 pounds cleared from 14.85@15.10, this price spread also including sawed light lights sorted out of the good loads, while a few sold downward to 14.35. Packing sows were around 50 cents lower, the bulk realizing 11.75.

SHEEP—Nothing was offered in this division

OIL NEWS

BY ROBERT J. PULEHAUS

Abandonment of one of the most closely watched California wildcats is officially announced by the Union Oil Company of California. Reports yesterday show that the drill pipe is being taken down on Newlin No. 1.

The Newlin well is located slightly north of Venice Boulevard at Ocean Park Heights. It is on a 400-acre tract owned by Gurney Newlin, local attorney. The project was spudded in February 17 and aroused intense interest. In spite of the fact that the territory was entirely unproven, considerable acreage in the vicinity was leased at big bonus figures.

The Union carried the Newlin test to a depth of 5878 feet, never getting any indications of oil. Fifteen and one-half inch casing was set at 1475 feet, the hole being open below that level.

Report Gas Shows

Reports that gas has been encountered in Rosenburg well No. 9 on the Rountree lease on Wilson street, in Newport, were verified when the well was found to be showing much life with efforts being made to prevent a possible blowout. This well is down past the 1100-foot level.

Rosenburg No. 1 is about a mile and a half from No. 2 and no gas indications are said to have appeared in the area in which No. 1 is pumping. Just what the presence of gas means as to the volume of oil is somewhat problematical, but land owners in that section are quite jubilant over the possibilities.

It was reported today that material for three more rigs had been hauled to the Rountree lease and that construction would start at once. It was said that the Dr. J. J. Rikar rig on Monrovia street had been completed and that the crew was ready to spud in.

It was reported that the casing had been pulled on the well being put down by the Nelson company of Long Beach on the Wiseman lease off of Seventeenth street in the Costa Mesa terrace tract. The contract, it was stated, only called for the well to go down 400 feet and that this depth had been obtained without securing oil. This is the same well that had been cemented off at the 600-foot level for a water test and that water had been found, with the result that it was decided to go deeper.

Expect New Wells

Two new producers are expected by the Union Oil Company of California, on its Colorado property near Fort Collins, according to official statement. The Meyer No. 1 well is being put on the pump. The depth is 4480 feet. Blunck No. 1, depth 4380 feet, shows oil and gas at 4375 feet, is reported. The company has twelve drilling wells on the three structures it is drilling at Fort Collins, Wellington and Douglas Lake. Standings of the wells are as follows: Hess No. 1, depth 4540 feet, drilling; Thimmig No. 1, depth 3405 feet, fishing; Scott No. 1, depth 4489 feet, drilling; Douglas Lake No. 1, depth 4550 feet, drilling; Dumont-Cook No. 1, depth 1950 feet, drilling; State No. 1, depth 3985 feet, drilling; Larsen No. 1, depth 3126 feet, running eight-inch casing; Evans No. 1, depth 2820 feet, reaming; Meyer No. 1, depth 4480 feet, putting on pump; Water Supply No. 1, depth 2585 feet, waiting for casing hitch; Blunck No. 1, depth 4380 feet, drilling; Morgan No. 1, depth 1205 feet, drilling.

Production Jumps

According to figures collected by the American Petroleum Institute, Pacific Coast office, the total production of crude oil in California for June amounted to 19,288,185 barrels, an average of 642,938 barrels a day. This is an increase of 25,581 barrels a day over May production.

Total stock of crude and all products in Pacific Coast territory increased during the month 1,219,679 barrels. The total stocks at the end of the month were 137,037,240 barrels. The total stock increase for 1925, up to June 30, was 15,015,276 barrels. Comparative figures as of December 31, 1924, May 31, 1925 and June 30, 1925, are shown in detail on the second page of this report.

One hundred and nineteen wells were completed during the month with an initial daily production of 73,150 barrels, compared with seventy-eight wells completed during May with an initial production of 82,440 barrels.

Near Completion

Union Oil Company of California yesterday ran tubing in two Rosecrans wells preparatory to bringing them in. Rosecrans No. 3, located in the northwest corner of the Rosecrans lease in the center of the field, is being swabbed, 4665 feet of tubing having been run. The well is 5321 feet deep. Howard Park No. 20, depth of which is 4366 feet, is the second near-producer. Forty-one hundred and fifty feet of tubing and forty-two feet of Smith screen were run into the hole.

Official Report

California production for the week ending the 11th inst., according to the American Petroleum Institute was 656,000 barrels as compared with 661,500 barrels for the preceding week a decrease of 5500. Santa Fe Springs is reported at 52,000 barrels against 51,500; Long Beach 106,000 barrels against 107,500; Huntington Beach 44,000 barrels against 45,000; Torrance, 35,500 barrels against 36,000; Dominguez 29,500 barrels against 31,000; Rosecrans 20,000 barrels against 22,000; Inglewood 93,000 barrels against 85,500.

The estimated daily average gross production of the Mid-Continent field including Oklahoma, Kansas, North, East Central and West Central Texas, North Louisiana and Arkansas, for the week ended the 11th inst. was 1,135,050 barrels as compared with 1,144,900 barrels for the preceding week, a decrease of 9850 barrels. The Mid-Continent production, excluding Smackover, Ark., heavy oil, was 905,550 barrels, against 924,500 barrels, a decrease of 18,950 barrels.

The American Petroleum Institute estimates that the daily average gross crude oil production in the Smackover heavy oil field was 220,100 barrels, an increase of 9100 barrels for the week ending the 11th inst. The daily average production in the United States for the week was 2,158,000 barrels as compared with 2,152,350 barrels for the preceding week, an increase of 650 barrels. The daily average production in the United States excluding Smackover, heavy, decreased 8450 barrels. The daily average production east of California was 1,497,000 barrels, as compared with 1,490,350 barrels, an increase of 6150 barrels.

Acquisition of Kings County Lighting Company Adds Large Unit to Already Large Long Island and Queens Borough Gas and Electric Serving 157,000 Patrons.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1925, New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, July 20.—Not until the announcement recently of its plans for the acquisition of control of the Kings County Lighting Company did the investing fraternity begin to realize the importance of the Long Island Lighting Company and its constituent, the Queensborough Gas and Electric Company to the territory which they serve.

Supplying substantially the entire electric light, power and gas requirements of towns and communities on Long Island beyond the New York City line, probably the fastest growing of the city's suburbs, this organization takes care of a territory with a population in excess of 600,000.

More than 91,300 domestic and industrial consumers of gas on Long Island and the southern section of Brooklyn are dependent upon its facilities, and in addition it furnishes electric energy to 66,300 customers beyond the city line.

The Long Island Lighting Company proper meets practically all the electric and gas needs in Suffolk county and in the central and northern portions of Nassau. Its principal electric stations are at Northport and Glenwood on Long Island Sound, having the advantages of water transportation. Several smaller plants are also maintained, giving the company a combined capacity of 26,545 kilowatts, exclusive of a 12,500-kilowatt generator now being installed in the Northport station. Its distribution system consists of almost 300 miles of high-tension transmission lines, and over 2100 miles of distribution lines.

The principal gas plant at Bay Shore has a daily capacity of 2,175,000 cubic feet, and a smaller plant at Huntington is capable of producing 150,000 cubic feet a day. The Queensborough Company, over 99 per cent of its common stock owned by the Long Island, has a generating station of 17,500 kilowatts capacity on Jamaica Bay and a gas plant at Rockaway Beach with a daily capacity of 9,750,000 cubic feet. The distribution facilities consist of nineteen miles of transmission line, and over 250 miles of distributing lines, 25 miles of transmission gas mains and 225 miles of distributing lines.

KINGS COMPANY

This company, control of which the Long Island will acquire through purchase of 87½ per cent of its outstanding voting stock, supplies the southern part of Brooklyn. It owns valuable water-front property on New York Bay, upon which its gas-manufacturing plant is situated, having a capacity in excess of 17,000,00 cubic feet a day, and other property where its storage tanks, with a capacity of 7,700,000 cubic feet, shops, etc., are located. Eleven miles of transmission mains and over 203 miles of distributing lines are maintained.

Early this week the Long Island Lighting Company sold an issue of 6 per cent secured gold bonds to finance the purchase of the Kings county unit. These bonds are a direct obligation of the company and while not secured by a mortgage, will be secured by the pledge under provisions of the indenture by the deposit with trustee of a stipulated amount of the Kings County Lighting Company's stock as acquired.

The capital structure of the company at the close of May revised to reflect the above financing consisted of $11,179,800 in funded indebtedness, followed by $5,583,800 in 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value, and 800,000 shares of no par value common stock. Underlying obligations comprised $4,000,000 in mortgage bonds of the Queensborough Company and $5,000,000 Kings County Lighting bonds, the latter mortgage closed except for refunding.

There is also $1,450,000 in preferred stock of the Queens company, and $1,292,900 preferred stock of the Kings county company outstanding along with the balance of the common stocks not owned by the controlling organization.

Earnings for the twelve months ended May 31 last, showed interest requirements of the Long Island Lighting covered over four times after all charges, including subsidiary deductions.

"We have had satisfactory business relations with this latter firm for a great many years and I feel confident that the affairs of the clients of our bond department will be carried on by a safe and trustworthy organization."

Fishermen Win Struggle With Giant Saw-Fish

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) July 20. A giant saw-fish, weighing 1700 pounds, and measuring eighteen feet in length, was harpooned by members of the West Shore Yacht Club of Corpus Christi, Tex., in gulf waters off Aransas Pass, Tex., a few days ago. The saw of the fish measured five feet. It carried fifty teeth.

An old Aransas Pass fisherman who professed to know something about the age of fish said the sea animal was about 150 years of age.

After being harpooned the giant fish gave the Yacht Club members a lively time, pulling a power launch as easily as though it were a small skiff. After a chase lasting for several minutes the fish became entangled in some shrimp nets which made capture possible.

"SCOOTING" TO SEE THE PRESIDENT

EMPORIA WOMAN AND SON IN TOUR ON CHILDREN'S PLAY VEHICLE

Somewhere east of the Ohio River Mrs. C. C. McCullough and her son, Clarence, of Emporia are scooting toward Washington to pay their respects to President Coolidge. The word "scooting" is used advisedly, because the mother and her son are traveling across the country on little scooters, two-wheeled vehicles used by children. They left Emporia June 14, and, according to letters received by Mr. McCullough, the scooting party is making rapid headway.

Mrs. McCullough is a physical culture exponent and she and her son, who is 14 years of age, spend much of their time on roller skates, and often skate to neighboring towns and up and down the paved highways near Emporia.

The first few days of the trip were difficult, Mrs. McCullough writes, because she and her son combination, but after they did not know the hop and push reached Topeka, and struck the paved road, scooting was easy. They rode from Topeka to Kansas City in one day.

After crossing Missouri, the scooters headed for the Ohio River, and scooted through Indiana and Ohio and when last heard from, they were rolling up and down the Alleghenies. From Washington they will go to New York City, then home by the northern route.

Mrs. McCullough and her son carry hammocks on their backs and sleep in tourists' parks. They earn their expenses by working, and so far they have not been forced to draw on a supply of funds they carry with them.—[Emporia Correspondence Kansas City Star.

QUOTATIONS FOR COTTON UNCHANGED

Prices Swing Around Old Close on Short Covering and Selling in South

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 20.—Cotton market was steady all day, fluctuating just above and just below the previous closing levels.

There was considerably more selling from the South, while the buying was principally short covering and for spot houses. The buying was based principally on the prospect of rains in the South-west over the week-end, and the highest temperatures on record for Texas. The private reports attracted a good deal of attention, although they were not a market factor.

The Memphis Commercial Appeal placed the condition at 72 per cent and the indicated crop at 14,197,000 bales. The Texas condition was placed at 59 per cent, compared with the government condition on June 25 of 64 per cent.

The Fourth bureau estimated the condition at 74 per cent and the crop at 14,300,000 bales, with the Texas condition 59 per cent. The Financial Chronicle report all States except Texas and Oklahoma have a better yield promised than the government indicated on June 25. The Texas and Oklahoma crops show a loss in prospect of 256,000 bales, while States outside of Texas run about an increase of 1,000,000 bales, arriving at 11,000,000 bales.

A report of the Department of Agriculture said that a general survey of the world's acreage for the 1925-1926 cotton crop would indicate an increase of 1,000,000 acres in Asia which 1924-1925 contributed 53 per cent of the world's cotton lands.

In the spot market buyers appear to be holding off awaiting more definite information as regards the size and quality of the crop. Last year merchants in the South contracted to ship a large quantity of high-grade cotton that was never produced. This year the early outlook is for a good crop in grade and staple and merchants are afraid to contract shipments.

Private reports of rains over most of Texas and the condition was reported as poor in Central Texas, some parts of South Texas are a complete failure with no prospect for improvement. Rains over Central Texas resulting the highest temperatures in sixty-five years.

Procter & Gamble, prominent oil interests, estimate the total crop at 14,300,000 bales, which is not much change from the last bureau report.

Ditches Effect Reclamation of Oklahoma Land

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ARCADIA (Okla.) July 20.—Overflow valleys of the hilly region of the eastern part of Oklahoma county are being reclaimed and their production values increased several hundred per cent by a system of drainage ditches being completed under a drainage act of the Legislature. One of these, the Coffee Creek Ditch, between seven and eight miles long, has been completed at a cost of about $18,000. Another, the Soldier Creek Ditch, between three and four miles long, is nearing completion at a cost of about $16,000. The two converge near Arcadia and their waters flow into the Deep Fork Canal, a larger drainage ditch dug several years ago to illustrate the advantage of drainage to farmers of this territory.

The Coffee Creek Ditch reclaimed the Soldier Creek Ditch will reclaim about 2000 acres. Practically all of this land has a sale value of $100 per acre after reclamation. Before reclamation it was worth not over $20 per acre. Cotton and alfalfa are the principal crops.

FINE WATER WELL IS DEVELOPED ON RANCH

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ZELZAH, July 20.—After planning to abandon the new water well just drilled on his Mission ranch, east of here, Alex Jeffrey, extended the pump to the 240-foot level, and has brought in a well pumping more than fifty inches of water. The main water stratum was pierced at the 200-foot level, after which nothing but clay soil of various sorts was bored through. The Mission ranch comprises 110 acres of Valencia oranges and 540 acres of walnuts and is one of the best cared for ranches in San Fernando Valley.

Darrow Da una Satisfacción al Juez Raulston

DAYTON (Tennessee) Julio 20. Al abrirse la audiencia de esta tarde, del jurado de Scopes, Clarence Darrow dio una satisfacción pública y voluntaria al juez John T. Raulston por las palabras duras que le dirigió en la audiencia del viernes último, en un momento de violencia.

El citado magistrado, que había ordenado esta mañana se citara a Darrow para comparecer mañana ante el tribunal por faltas de respeto al mismo, aceptó la satisfacción de Darrow, cuya fianza se había fijado en $5000.

"Acepto la disculpa porque creo en el perdón cristiano", dijo el juez. "Además, reconozco que acababa de sufrir mi amigo el coronel Darrow uno de los desengaños más grandes de su vida".

Cuando citó esta mañana a Darrow por falta de respeto, dijo el juez lo siguiente: "El viernes próximo pasado hubo en este juzgado frases irrespetuosas e insultantes". Leyó en los autos aquella parte de los debates en la que el señor Darrow protestó vehementemente contra la decisión del tribunal respecto a la admisión de testigos peritos.

El tribunal contestó: "Confío en que no sea la intención de usted hablar despectivamente del tribunal"; y el señor Darrow replicó mordazmente: "Le asiste a usted el derecho de confiar".

Por consejo del defensor, el señor Darrow se negó a comentar la decisión del juzgado. Había visto, para que lo defendiera, a Frank Spurlock, de Chattanooga.

"Tengo cuarenta y siete años de litigar, y nunca se me había pedido una satisfacción para ningún tribunal", fue todo lo que dijo.

Ayer tarde, a última hora, fue arrestado en Mojicali, y entregado al teniente sheriff Archbald, del condado de Imperial, un individuo de quien se sospecha sea el remitente de la bomba que estalló en la casa de Ernest Torchia, abogado de Glendale.

El aprehendido dijo llamarse Angelo Lorenso. Se le condujo a la cárcel del condado, en El Centro, y se negó allí a hablar una palabra. Dijeron las autoridades que no estaban seguros de su identidad, pero que era su intención detenerlo hasta que llegaran los tenientes sheriffs de Los Angeles.

Dijo el señor Torchia que él no conocía a ningún Angelo Lorenso; pero que se imaginaba que el delincuente habría estado usando nombre distinto de aquel por el que le era conocido.

La bomba que hirió a Torchia llegó a la oficina de éste en un paquete de Navidad, la víspera de dicha festividad. Llebaba una tarjeta en la que se leía: "No se abra hasta el día de Navidad". A la mañana siguiente el señor Torchia abrió el paquete, que había colgado de su árbol de Navidad, y se vio envuelto inmediatamente por el resplandor de una explosión. Estuvo muchas semanas en el hospital, entre la vida y la muerte. Hace un mes pudo por fin volver a su oficina con un brazo menos y con la vista lastimada.

DEPORTES

NUEVA YORK, Julio 20.—Jack Dempsey no estará aquí el día de mañana para comparecer ante la comisión del boxeo, a fin de discutir su match con Harry Wills, y los planes para un encuentro con Gene Tunney. Sin embargo, Dempsey ha dado su representación a Tex Rickard, en lo concerniente a esa discusión.

Rickard recibió una telegrama de Dempsey, en el que el campeón íe manifiesta que se había visto obligado a renunciar a su regreso de Wilmington (Delaware) a Nueva York, y que iba en camino de Los Angeles, donde le reclamaban urgentes asuntos.

"Sírvase usted representarme mañana, y cualquier cosa que usted hiciere merecerá mi aprobación", decía en su telegrama el campeón a su promotor.

Por último, a las tres de la tarde de ese hermoso domingo (Finally, that fine Sunday, at three in the afternoon), nos embarcamos de nuevo en el "Catalina" para regresar a Los Angeles (we again embarked on the "Catalina", to return to Los Angeles). Iba el buque atestado de excursionistas, que volvían satisfechos de su agradabilísimo paseo (The ship was crowded with excursionists, who went back satisfied with their most pleasant outing).

Por supuesto que, despues de contemplar por algún rato la isla de Catalina, que rápidamente se alejaba de nosotros (As a matter of course, after spying for a while Catalina Island, which was rapidly receding from us), la gente moza bajó en tropel a la sala de bailes (the young people went down in a throng to the ballroom), y se entregó, como a la venida, al placer de la danza (and gave themselves up, as on the trip out, to the pleasure of dancing).

Para terminar, te diré, Rosita, que no debes quedarte sin ir a Catalina este verano (In closing, let me tell you, Rosie, that you must not miss a trip to Catalina this summer).

TROUBLE PHONE MEN

Encounter Everything from Swarming Bees to Dragging Ship's Anchors

Although fires and floods and accidents of major importance cause a very considerable number of the cable troubles to which telephone service may at times be subjected, many of them are due to mishaps curious and often of seemingly trifling importance. The "trouble shooters," however, in their effort to maintain and restore service, have learned to know the bigness of little things.

For example, bees sometimes take possession of a distribution box on a telephone pole and use it as a storehouse for honey, and then there is trouble for all the subscribers on the lines until the bees have been dispossessed. Hornets have been known to build hives in terminals. Rats will chew through cables, perhaps in search for water. Squirrels frequently cause damage by gnawing the lead cable sheaths. Birds sometimes become entangled in the wires, while the industrious beaver, in felling a tree, carelessly lets it fall across toll lines.

But animals and insects are not the only offenders. Motor cars sometimes collide with telephone poles, resulting in considerable damage. Careless workmen, in blasting and digging, often uproot telephone cables. Trenching machines working in city streets now and then cut telephone conduits and cables and many lines are thereby put out of commission. Leaky water mains, explosion of gas mains, a pickaxe wielded by a clumsy workman and, in the case of submarine cables, a boat or ship which disregards the cable crossing warning and rips it up by a dragging anchor, are a few of the many other reasons why the "doctors of the telephone," the wire chiefs and their associates, have so varied and so interesting tasks to perform.

It takes but a moment for a cable trouble to originate, but it often requires hours to remedy it, and once begun, the work never ends until service is completely restored.—Telephone Press.

SLOW AND DANGEROUS

Edward G. Hamilton, pilot of the Maiden Dearborn, said in Detroit the other day:

"We air pilots have got to be alert. A slow pilot is more dangerous than a stuttering doctor.

"A man rushed home from the office one afternoon, hoping it was a son. He met the doctor, who stuttered badly in the hall outside his wife's bedroom.

"'Well?' he said. 'Well?'

"'Tr-tr-tr—' stuttered the doctor.

"'Triplets!' And the man's hand went to his breast pocket.

"'Qu-qu-qu—'

"'Quadruplets!' And the poor fellow took out a vial of poison and swallowed it down at a gulp.

"The doctor said to him, after the stomach pump had been applied:

"'Tr-tr-try to take it qu-quaquietly. It's a boy.'—[Exchange.

A FAMILIAR NAME

Sir Alexander Mackenzie, the eminent musical composer, is fond of telling the story of an amusing experience that befell him a while ago, when he was traveling in Canada. The train pulled up at a small wayside station and the conductor came along and said that a delay of about eight hours was inevitable as there had been a serious breakdown farther down the line.

"Eight hours in this beastly hole," exclaimed Sir Alexander, "why, I shall hate the very name of the place ever afterward.

"By the way," he added, "what is it called?" and he put his head out of the window to see.

There, on a board, was the name of the despised station confronting him.

It was "Mackenzie."—[Argonaut.

A SHADE-TREE CITY

Does any public official or department here have a complete record of all city trees? Toronto, Can., believes it has the happy distinction of having more shade trees on its streets than any other city on the continent. Further, its park department has accurate knowledge concerning every one of its 126,000 trees. Within thirty seconds, it is said, any tree on any street could be identified and described as to species, age, general health and variety.

With such detailed knowledge it may be assumed that trees are pruned or sprayed or cared for in any way that is needed, that dead trees are promptly replaced, and that other trees will be set out. Rivalry as to human population is common enough, but very few communities take a tree census that is so thorough and so useful as Toronto's. Yet the title "shade-tree city" is one well worth holding.—[Reading Tribune.

Wouldn't Argue the Point

The "small part" man was ill and a stage hand has been instructed to deliver his lines (or words) "off."

His cue came after the anguished hero had cried out: "Alas! What can have happened to the Lady Ermyntrude?"

"Lady Ermyntrude?" answered the stage hand, hoarsely. "Why, she's dead."

"No, no; it cannot be; it is impossible," protested the hero, melodramatically.

"Aw right, then," came the indignant reply; "if you don't believe me, ask the stage manager."

CONGRESS BODY TO SEE HARBOR

Committee of House Due in Early October

Exhaustive Survey of Port Will be Made

Return of Battle Fleet is Cause of Delay

Six members of the Rivers and Harbors Committee, from the House of Representatives, will arrive at Los Angeles in early October to make an exhaustive survey of the port and its development, it was announced yesterday. Extension of the local breakwater to Long Beach and deepening of the main channel are two projects which will catch the main attention of the Congressmen.

The future of Los Angeles Harbor as a naval operating base will likewise depend to considerable degree on the report which the Rivers and Harbor Committee submits to Congress following its survey, it was said.

The harbors of San Francisco and Stockton, both of which also have received considerable government aid for new development, also will be visited by the committee, which includes Congressmen Dempsey of New York, chairman; Newton of Missouri; McDuffie of Alabama; Kindred of New York; Strong of Pennsylvania, and Lineberger of California.

Inspection and survey of Los Angeles Harbor is being delayed until the return from Australia of the United States Battle Fleet, that the Congressmen might observe conditions with the entire fleet based at the port. The fleet's return is scheduled for September 16.

YOUNG SKIPPER HAS RECORD FOR PROMOTION

Rise from seaman to master of the same vessel without leaving the ship in the record held by Capt. K. L. Olsen of the Atlantic Refining Company's tanker H. C. Folger, in port loading a cargo of gasoline for Philadelphia.

Capt. Olsen, still in his twenties, joined the H. C. Folger as a seaman seven years ago when she was launched at San Francisco and has remained with her since. He rose through the ranks, quickly, third mate and first officer to that of master in six years, which is believed to be a record for the American merchant marine.

Shanghai and Hongkong are in the midst of a serious shortage of Filipino seamen, revolutionary and labor troubles, according to John C. Ogden, well-known Pacific Coast shipping man, who arrived from Orient ports yesterday.

Mr. Ogden declared that such an immense amount of offshore shipping is pouring into the two Chinese harbors that the Pacific, British and Japanese cargo carriers tied up at Shanghai alone, awaiting space and opportunity to discharge cargo, number 50.

He is agent for the Japanese freighter Sumidagawa Maru, which is now loading cargo for Los Angeles out of Los Angeles to the Orient a new freight service of the Yatsuma Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, and the Japanese merchant ship Hosen. The Sumidagawa Maru is loading 3000 tons of local products for Far East delivery.

The Transmarine liner Suberbin arrived yesterday from Jacksonville, Fla., with 3000 tons of steel for the Los Angeles Harbor. The first consignment of 20,000 tons of piping which the Transmarine liner are under contract to transport here from the Pacific Coast Steel Company's plant at Niles, the Suberbin is due from Newark, N. J., with a similar amount of general cargo.

SEVEN THOUSAND DOLLARS STARTS RELIEF FUND OFF

Santa Barbara's Appeal to People of State Receives Hopeful Response From City

The Times will receive, acknowledge by publication and refer to the authorized agents of the California Development Association any sums sent to this paper as contributions to the $1,100,000 fund to be raised by the association for emergency and charitable work in stricken Santa Barbara.

The Times itself will start the fund with a donation [illegible] and takes this occasion to urge all loyal Californians, individuals, organizations, companies, etc., to give [illegible] extent of their abilities. The need is urgent. Santa Barbara has pluckily refused eastern help in the belief [illegible] will take care of her own. Let her be not disappointed!

|---|---|
| Los Angeles Times | $10,000 |
| [illegible] | 1,000 |
| [illegible] | 50 |
| [illegible] and A. G. Somers | 10 |

| [illegible] | 5 |
| [illegible] | 5 |
| [illegible] | 5 |
| [illegible] | 5 |
| [illegible] | $11,090 |

Contributions began to come in to The Times yesterday for the relief fund for Santa Barbara which is being collected by the California Development Association. Outside of that given by The Times itself, the largest contribution was from Jackson A. Graves, president of the Merchants' National Bank, who gave $1000. The fund which the California Development Association is aiming for the purpose is $1,100,000.

Many of the charitable institutions of Santa Barbara are hopelessly unable to carry on as they have in the past. Their buildings are wrecked. Their inmates are in dire need. Orphan children are robbed of their cheerful dormitories and are being housed in tents. Sufferers in the hospitals are deprived of the proper care that should be theirs because the hospital buildings are damaged to such an extent that occupancy of them is hazardous. Civic centers where the children of the poor seek happiness after school hours, are in ruins and the kiddies must play in the streets.

A generous portion of the $1,000,000 emergency fund is to be used in erecting temporary schools for the children, for if this is not done, thousands of children will be prevented from resuming their studies upon the opening of the coming session. Santa Barbara already has planned to replace the destroyed schools—but then, again, comes the delay of bond elections and additional time for constructing the buildings. Here, the question arises, why does not Santa Barbara erect the temporary schools from her own treasury?

Santa Barbara is not a wealthy city. It has financing problems similar to other communities. The money is not available for immediate and necessary expenditures. The $1,000,000 fund will endeavor

CITY WILL BUY OWENS LANDS

Mayor's Committee Concurs in Board Decision

Deal to Embrace 15,000 Acres at Bishop

Purchase Price Computed at $1,250,000

Following a joint meeting held late yesterday between the Board of Water and Power Commissioners and the Mayor's special Owens Valley committee, the board adopted resolutions declaring its readiness to purchase approximately 15,000 acres of land in the Owens Valley region.

The action taken by the board, it was announced, was approved by the Mayor's special committee, composed of William Lacy, James A. Anderson and O. M. Souden.

Three large areas of land were affected by the board's resolution. The first of these areas include those ranches watered by the Owens River Canal and known as the "Keough Pool." The second area includes all the ranch land in Round Valley and the third area comprises the ranches irrigated from Bishop Creek. All of the land in these three areas are in the vicinity of the town of Bishop.

In its action relative to the purchase of ranches included in the "Keough Pool" the board stated by resolution that it approved the action of its special purchasing committee in offering to buy these ranches with their water rights for a total price of $1,250,000 and was not in favor of indorsing any advance in this price. It was stated that approximately 4480 acres are represented in the "Keough Pool" and that the board has thus offered to pay an average price of $278 an acre for these lands.

ACCEPTS PRICES

In its resolution in connection with the ranches in Round Valley and in the Bishop Creek area, the board stated officially that it was prepared to purchase all the land in these two regions at prices suggested several days ago by spokesmen for the Round Valley and Bishop Creek ranchers. The action of the board on the purchase of Round Valley and Bishop Creek ranches follows a conference last Saturday with representatives of the landowners in those areas.

Action of the Water and Power Commission relative to the purchase of lands in these three Owens Valley areas was taken in accordance with the established policy of the board of buying up the lands and water rights in this section of the valley, it was pointed out. This policy was adopted by the board last January after the Owens Valley landowners had declared that only by the outright purchase of the ranches in Owens Valley could the city of Los Angeles hope to permanently settle the water controversy between the valley ranchers and the city.

PURCHASES IN 1923

In its offer to buy approximately 10,000 acres of land in the Round Valley and the Bishop Creek areas, the board declared in its resolution that it will negotiate for the purchase of those ranches only after it has been officially assured that it will be able to purchase not less than 75 per cent of all the land included in each area.

The commission, at the suggestion of Chief Engineer Mulholland, began in 1923 to purchase additional lands in the Owens River Valley in order to secure additional

Crew Completing Power Installation

Power Features of New Pacific Electric Bore to Hollywood-Glendale In

The completion of another important job in the Hollywood-Glendale-San Fernando Valley tunnel has been accomplished with the installation of trolley and feeder wires throughout the tunnel length, announced today from Pacific Electric headquarters. With the new substation now in service and all wires in place the power features of the $3,500,000 underground bore are ready for service.

The placement of power and trolley wires in the tunnel was done by Pacific Electric forces and was completed in record time, only seven days having elapsed from the start to completion of the work. A total of 18,800 feet of overhead wire was strung and 9400 feet of cable and telephone wire run through conduits in the short space of one week, which is thought to be a record in work of like character. The total weight of wire and cable used in tunnel approximate twenty-four tons.

A new innovation is featured in the curve section of the tunnel in connection with the stringing of the overhead wires. Developed by the electrical department of the Pacific Electric, a new type of "steady rest" has been installed which eliminates the necessity of cross span wires. By means of it the trolley wire is held in alignment in the curved section of tunnel and still is permitted to raise with the pressure of trolley poles, but is prevented from being moved sideways. The new device was constructed at the Torrance shops of the company and has been thoroughly tried out in service.

MORE HEAT FORECAST FOR TODAY

High Pressure Area from North Expected to Send Mercury Up Again

A high-pressure area headed this way from the north gave prospects last night of warmer weather again today, Meteorologist Hersey of the United States Weather Bureau said last night.

Yesterday was the coolest in the hot spell that has prevailed for nearly a week. The maximum temperature was 80 deg. at 11:15 o'clock in the forenoon. The humidity at noon was 62 per cent.

The feature of the hot wave, Col. Hersey said, is the high minimums. Yesterday's minimum was 65 deg., reached early yesterday morning, and the minimums of the hot wave have been running from 68 to 73 deg., giving hot nights and no chance for buildings and countryside to cool off. The average of July minimums is 59.2 deg. The average of July maximums is 81.3.

Amateur Boxer, Victim of Gas Fumes, Better

Harry Grimmett, amateur boxer who was overcome by gas fumes at his home, 6424 Santa Monica Boulevard, Sunday, was reported at the General Hospital yesterday to be "very much improved, conscious and most likely will recover."

His mother, Mrs. C. Grimmett, who was overcome less seriously, also is improving and no doubt is entertained as to her recovery, Dr. F. T. Elsenman said. She was not taken to the hospital.

Special Road Controls End at Yosemite

Discontinuance of special controls on the roads in Yosemute was announced yesterday in dispatches from Supt. W. B. Lewis of Yosemite National Park. The special controls will be supplanted by the hourly control system, which has been in effect during past years, it was announced.

Special controls were made necessary in the park by the reconstruction work which was being done on Wawona Road, one of the principal thoroughfares of the park. Instead of permitting traffic to start every hour, outgoing traffic and incoming traffic alternating, the special controls sometimes permitted only one start of traffic in each direction each day.

Reconstruction of Wawona Road will be discontinued until the end of the season, so that the standard of work can be improved, the announcement said.

Eva Novak, his wife, who gave birth to a baby daughter two days before the accident, has not yet been informed of the accident. She and the baby are doing well, it was said at the Reed home.

MEET VOTES TO OUST DR. DYER

Wilshire Church Preacher Absent from Session

Numerous Charges Made by Members of Church

Minister Denounces Affair as Rump Gathering

A motion to discontinue the services of Rev. Frank Dyer as pastor of the Wilshire Congregational Church was voted on at a meeting held at the church last night and attended by between seventy-five and 100 members of the church.

The vote was sixty-seven yes and two no in favor of removing Dr. Dyer.

The meeting was a special session, the reading of the call for which created a sensation at Sunday's services when Dr. Dyer, it was asserted, refused to read it himself. Dr. Dyer did not attend last night's meeting, which he characterized as a "rump meeting" of a small part of the congregation and not a legal one. The call for the meeting was read at the close of Sunday night's services by Boyd Fuller, former Sunday-school superintendent of the church.

OFFICERS MAKE CHARGES

During the meeting, which was presided over by J. A. Garrett, treasurer of the church, a statement was read by Mr. Fuller, others having collaborated in its preparation, in which numerous charges were made against Dr. Dyer. In substance, he was charged with misstatements, with domineering and autocratic tactics, with abusing various members and officials of the congregation and other asserted offenses.

Following the putting of the motion for removal, the meeting was thrown open for discussion. Various members, some of whom described themselves as charter members of the church, rose and told of their experiences with the pastor, the stories ranging from narrations of temperamental outbursts to misrepresentations on church affairs on the part of Dr. Dyer.

A letter was read from Rev. Charles F. Aked, stating why he was resigning as associate to Dr. Dyer. He resigned some six weeks ago. In the course of his letter, Dr. Aked said that Dr. Dyer had told him there was but $1000 pledged to a church fund, "when he knew there was $24,000 pledged."

MEMBERS ABUSED

One member ran through a list of members of the congregation, "some of them bulwarks of our congregation," who, it was charged, were abused and insulted by the pastor. It was charged that Dr. Dyer embarrassed the church by his association with the American Civil Liberties Union, a "red" organization and when certain members approached him on the matter he "flew into a rage." "But when Judge Bledsoe wrote an article about the 'union' Dr. Dyer hurried to withdraw his association with it."

At the same time the vote was taken to ask his resignation, it was voted to give him three months' salary. The vote, it was understood, will be presented to the pastor. One member last night said the meeting had been called for last night "because about twenty of us are due to be suspended from the church at the regular meeting to be held on the 28th inst."

It was stated that the members referred to received cards summoning them before the membership committee next Thursday night at which time they were expected to pledge their support to the pastor and promise "not to do anything against the church." Failing in this, it was understood they would be thrown out of the church.

DYER'S STATEMENT

In commenting on his asserted refusal to read the call for a special meeting, Dr. Dyer said:

"Mr. H. S. Laughlin, secretary of the church, was approached Sunday morning with a request that he read the call. He did not

Visitor Says Los Angeles Will Eventually Become World's Art Center

"The leadership of white civilization is in the hands of the people of Los Angeles," said F. F. Forbes, for many years editor of the Philadelphia North American yesterday. Mr. Forbes is stopping at the Gates Hotel. He has been here several days on a vacation.

"My conclusion is reached as the result of study of history and natural conditions," he said. "White civilization was founded on the banks of the Euphrates Valley, in conditions which approximate those which now surround Los Angeles, in respect to an equable climate, fertile soil and a controllable water supply. The conditions about Los Angeles also correspond to those in Greece where modern thought was born. Here in Los Angeles there is the mixture of good blood, from various parts of the United States, which is building a new type of American.

"Already there is shown here a new attitude toward life. Los Angeles, I believe, will eventually become the world center in the development of the arts. You have here a remarkable combination of the wealth of Alexandria and the culture of Athens."

VETERANS ARE HUNTED

E. G. Voronick and W. J. Clark Sought by Bay City Red Cross

Efrum G. Voronick, missing from the United States Veterans' Hospital at Palo Alto for more than a year, and William J. Cla'k, whose address has been unknown since his discharge from army service six years ago, are being sought by the Red Cross.

Voronick, according to Mrs. Agnes Doorman of the San Francisco branch of the Red Cross, disappea'ed without obtaining leave from the Palo Alto Hospital and has not been located since.

Clark, whose aunt, Mrs. Jane Pendergast, lives at the Pasadena Y. W. C. A., is asserted to have given Cave Creek, Aris as his destination at the time of his discharge and to have failed to appear there. Four years ago, according to the Red Cross, he was in Kansas City, but mail addressed to him there failed to reach him.

TIME OFF REQUESTED

The County Council of the American Legion yesterday requested the city government to permit city employees who are members of the Legion time off to attend the national convention of the organization to be held at Omaha in October.

VETERANS' DAUGHTERS MEET

Harmony Sewing Club of Helen Jean Christie Tent No. 17, Daughters of Civil War Veterans, will meet at the home of Mrs. Maude Kalis, 837 West Forty-ninth street, for an all-day meeting on Thursday.

NEW RAINS CLOG AQUEDUCT

Mulholland Off to Owens Valley With Large Crews to do Over Repairs Undone by Storms

For the third time in two weeks, the water for Los Angeles was turned off yesterday at Haiwee reservoir as the result of cloudbursts yesterday in the Owens River Valley. There were two more cloudbursts yesterday at noon, one two miles south of Haiwee and the other near Rose Spring, between Haiwee and Los Angeles. This makes a total of ten storms which have occurred in the valley during the past two weeks.

The Aqueduct was filled with sand, rocks and debris for more than one mile by the previous storms. For 400 feet, the cement covering was crushed in. The storms yesterday caused, it was believed at the water department yesterday, the undoing of all the repair work which had been done, and covered the pipeline with mounds of earth which was washed from the mountain sides.

Chief Engineer Mulholland of the water department, who returned from the valley Saturday evening after repairs of the damage of the former storms had been completed and the water for Los Angeles turned on again, started last night for the scene of the latest damage, accompanied by City

On a hill in the rear of his home at 2276 Beechwood Drive, Hollywood, 14-year-old Eph Karelsen shot a wild coyote with a small rifle late yesterday afternoon.

The coyote was discovered roaming the back yards of the neighborhood by Eph's chum, John Hoffman, who thought it was a fox.

After exhibiting the prize of his marksmanship to the neighbors, Eph called the police to have the animal removed and to claim any bounty that might be offered for the slaying of a coyote.

MYSTERY DEATH EXPLAINED

Five Physicians Agree Obscure Inflammation of Brain Responsible for Mrs. Rodolf's Demise

The mystery of the death of Mrs. Ada Louise Groves Rodolf, apartment-house proprietor, who died Saturday as the result of a peculiar brain malady, was cleared up yesterday when five consulting physicians agreed the fatal illness was caused by inflammation due to an abcess.

This conclusion was reached on the basis of a pathologist's report and the completion of an investigation of the case by Dr. T. H. Glenn, Mrs. Rodolf's family physician, and Dr. Samuel G. Ingham, neurologist.

After completing his investigation, Dr. Gleen issued a death certificate in which he stated that encephalitis caused death. The disease, according to Dr. Glenn, is an inflammation of the brain as contrasted with an infection of any membrane of the brain. It may be caused by an irritation of the nerve sheaths, embolism or an infection in almost any part of the body, he said.

In Mrs. Rodolf's case it was probably caused by an abcess which slowly developed in a weakened blood cell and gave the disease the symptoms of a new malady similar to sleeping sickness, according to Dr. Glenn.

The disease is not contagious, but no remedy has ever been discovered and it is nearly always fatal, Dr. Glenn explained.

A wide interest in the case was created in local medical circles when five consulting physicians were unable to agree in their diagnosis for two days and an autopsy failed to settled the question.

Funeral services will be conducted for Mrs. Rodolf at 11 o'clock this morning in the Pierce Brothers chapel, 720 West Washington street. Interment will be in Inglewood Park Cemetery.

LEWIS PEACE PACT SIGNED

Harmony Agreement Provides For Three Trustees, One of Whom Will be Rutherford

Harmony, that element lacking in the bankruptcy affairs of E. G. Lewis, the promoter, at last made its appearance yesterday in United States District Judge James's court when Joseph L. Lewinson, attorney for Elsie King and minority creditors; A. R. Rutherford, trustee; Walter A. McClure, attorney for Rutherford, and Oscar L. Willett, representing majority creditors, agreed to a peace pact in the form of a stipulation.

TODAYS BIBLE TEXT

If I have withheld the poor from their desire, or have caused the eyes of the widow to fail; or have eaten my morsel myself alone, and the fatherless hath not eaten thereof; if I have seen any perish for want of clothing, or any poor without covering; then let mine arm fall from my shoulder blade, and mine arm be broken from the bone. Job xxxi, 16, 17, 19, 21.

The stipulation contains six items that were stumbling blocks to harmonious conduct of Lewis's highly involved affairs, and are as follows:

(1.) The estate in bankruptcy shall hereafter be administered by three trustees in bankruptcy, of whom A. R. Rutherford shall be one.

(2.) The said three trustees shall be Victor Shaw, Robert M. Clarke and A. R. Rutherford.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

THE illustrious Clarence Darrow made a few alarming discoveries yesterday in Dayton, Tenn.

He discovered that old Judge Raulston is not necessarily weak-kneed because he has spent his life among white people who are courteous.

I wish His Honor had punished the insolence of this smart Aleck until he bellowed for mercy.

ILL-BRED "SMARTNESS"

In a stifling hot courtroom, struggling against unfavorable decisions, it is human and natural that an attorney should lose his temper.

But the reported statements as made to the court by Mr. Darrow do not come in that category. It has been cheap, low insolence.

No matter what the decisions may have been, the attorneys for the defense wrote themselves down as ill-bred when they sneeringly refused to be photographed with the old judge on the bench.

A BOOB TOWN

And continuing, for once I am with the "Boy Orator of the Platte" in his resentment of the conduct of the New York reporters.

As Bryan says, the newspaper men accepted the charming hospitality of this little Tennessee town; then insulted the people by calling them hicks and peasants.

The irony of the situation seems, however, to have escaped Mr. Bryan. If ever there was a hick, boob town, buried and grangrened in its own ignorance—ready to fall for anything sufficiegtly stupid—it is New York . . . a hodge podge of immigrants.

Dayton may be a naive and unsophisticated little town, but at least it has a few native-born Americans living there.

THE FAKE TELEGRAM

The itinerant telegrapher, James M. Small, who said he sent a fake confession over the wire to save Scott through a "sympathy complex" . . .

Nowhere but in America could such an amazing thing have happened.

NOTORIETY-CRAZY

There is a kind of people so crazy for notoriety that they will take almost any chance to get their names in the paper.

Within a week the police of this city have wasted their valuable time and effort trying to find a young lady who shouted over the phone into the desk sergeant's ear that she was being held prisoner by "a terrible woman."

And spent much more time investigating the case of a girl who said she was being persecuted by wicked mashers.

In both cases these girls have airily confessed their stories were merely fiction.

It is clear that there should be some kind of statute to cover cases of willful deception of the police.

PUNCHING THE CLOCK

A bootlegger's bride testified in court yesterday that her husband confessed his crimes to her.

He told her he "wouldn't punch a time clock for any man."

In other words, he was "yellow"—lacking the courage and strength of character to fight his way through to real success.

FALSE FOUNDATION

I am very curious to know what will become of some of the fortunes of these bootleggers; especially do I wonder what will be the attitude of their children when they grow up to realise that their luxuries have come from old crimes.

And it will come to that. Just now bootlegging is complacently snickered at as a slight moral eccentricity—a species of exciting adventure. It will not always be so regarded. The chickens will come home to roost.

LIQUOR LOSES COURT STATUS

Deprived by Judge of Its Title as "Property"

Ownership Prior to Dry Era Must be Established

Sheriff's Demurrer to Plea in Seizure Upheld

Liquor is not property and cannot be brought into court as such unless one can prove that it was in his possession prior to the date the Volstead Act went into effect or that he has a permit from the government entitling him to possession, Judge Crawford of Superior Court ruled yesterday in sustaining a demurrer to a suit brought by Giuseppe Di Matteo for the recovery of 100 gallons of red fermented grapejuice.

AIMED AT SHERIFF

Di Matteo directed his suit at Sheriff Traeger and several deputies whom he said were illegally depriving him of possession of the wine, which he valued at $400. He asked that the Sheriff be compelled to turn it over to him, together with $300 damages.

Deputy County Counsel Fulcher, appearing for Sheriff Traeger, demurred to the action on the ground Di Matteo did not make any assertion showing how he was legally entitled to ownership of the wine. Unless he had the wine prior to prohibition or was entitled to it under the terms of the Volstead Act, he could not legally make a claim to it, as liquor is no longer an article of property to which legal title might be granted, Fulcher argued.

Judge Crawford, in commenting on the case, explained that unless one can prove a legal title to liquor it has no more standing in a court of law than a set of burglar's tools.

The court gave Di Matteo ten days in which to amend his complaint that he might set forth the nature of his claim.

June Delegates Here More Than Fifty Thousand

Led by Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, who came 50,000 strong, Los Angeles entertained nine conventions during June and has five scheduled this month, according to Charles A. Cooke, manager of the convention department of the Chamber of Commerce.

The June conventions brought approximately 55,000 delegates to the city. Besides the conventions, the schedule called for the visit of four trains of delegates to the Christian Endeavor convention at Portland; ten trains of delegates to the Elks' convention at Portland, and twenty-seven delegations en route to and from the Knight Templar convention in Seattle.

The City Council's Finance Committee yesterday afternoon agreed upon a report recommending that the application of the billboard companies for a reduction in their license tax be denied.

AVIATOR DOES COURT STUNT

Parmalee, Out of Jail, Tells Judge He Will Be Good and Wins Extension on Delinquent Alimony

Charles R. Parmalee, former stunt aviator, yesterday completed a five-day jail sentence for contempt of court imposed by Judge McLucas for kidnaping his 6-year-old son in defiance of a court order and reported at once to Superior Judge Summerfield, who had cited him for failure to pay alimony for one year to his former wife, Esther B. Parmalee.

Parmalee told Judge Summerfield he had returned from Mexico to "take his medicine" because he was homesick. He presented a picture far different from that of the dashing aviator who played an international roll in the contest to keep possession of his son, whom the court had awarded to his wife.

Parmalee's plea that he intended to do everything possible to abide by the court's ruling, won from Judge Summerfield an extension of time until September 14 to pay his former wife $300 in back alimony.

Mrs. Parmalee was granted a divorce from Parmalee April 4, 1922. Some time afterward Parmalee kidnaped their son and took him to Mexico. Mrs. Parmalee followed him there and regained possession of the boy by kidnaping him, and then won his custody in a protracted legal battle in which she was aided by the American Consul.

Parmalee since has married again. He said he and his bride will make Los Angeles their home. Judge Summerfield expressed the hope that he is doing well enough financially to raise the back alimony by September 14.

Engineer Van Norman and other officials of the department, and a total of 750 construction men were dispatched from Big Pine and other points. More than 300 left from Los Angeles on a special train. Two steam shovels and other equipment were rushed from Los Angeles on the special train last night. Chief Engineer Mulholland planned to keep the repair work going continuously night and day until the repairs were made.

The city will once more receive its water supply from Fairmont and other reservoirs until the repairs are made. The water department officials said that there is ample water supply for Los Angeles, in spite of the fact that the drain on the reservoirs has been great due to the damage from the storms coming at a time when water consumption is at its highest peak. The series of rain storms has resulted in the most serious damage to the Aqueduct since it was completed twelve years ago.

water for Los Angeles and to date has bought 16,000 acres. Of this total 12,000 acres has been purchased since January 10, last.

Under plans worked out between the board and Owens River Valley representatives, after numerous conferences, unified areas of land in the valley were not to be purchased by the board, so that most of this 10,000 acres could remain permanently under cultivation for the support of the valley towns and for the general development of that section.

tinue as trustee and said petitions and the motion to strike the amended and supplemental petition shall be continued on the calendar for thirty days. And said parties hereby consent that Victor Shaw and Robert M. Clarke shall be appointed receivers ad interim to act jointly with said trustee, and said trustee shall not act without the concurrence of said receivers.

(4.) A creditors' meeting shall be called and held as soon as may be before Earl M. Moss, referee in charge of this bankruptcy proceeding and at said meeting the said Oscar L. Willett shall and will vote all of the claims represented by him as aforesaid, in favor of the administrator of said estate by three trustees and for Hon. Victor Shaw and Hon. Robert M. Clarke as trustees.

(5.) Following said election as aforesaid, said petitions for Elsie King and the intervenors for the removal of said A. R. Rutherford as trustees shall be dismissed on motion of petitioners.

(6.) None of the parties hereto will do, suffer or permit, anything inconsistent with this stipulation.

LAWYER RETAINED

A seventh point which could not be included in the paper was given airing and agreed upon by Lewinson and Willett, attorneys for all the creditors, that Walter McClure, counsel for Rutherford, should be retained as adviser for Rutherford or for all three trustees, or other lawyers could be employed for the new trustees.

Finis to the warfare waged in San Luis Obispo, Atascadero, Santa Barbara and Los Angeles for several months now is believed to hinge solely on the acceptance of trusteeships by Mr. Clarke and Mr. Shaw, both of whom are former judges of high standing in California. Judge James indicated it would require several days for him to determine this question.

The settlement reached yesterday means withdrawal immediately of a petition and supplemental request for the ousting of Rutherford as trustee by Elsie King and minority creditors. At the opening of the hearing on this petition before Judge James on June 24, last, Lewinson hurled charges that Rutherford was working in conjunction with Lewis to keep the estate alive, that he had illegally withdrawn money from the estate for expenses, and that a land scheme proposed by Willett bordered on fraud. A supplemental petition filed a few days ago charged Rutherford with indorsing a motion-picture scheme to be started at Atascadero.

BOTH SIDES GAIN

In court yesterday, Rutherford denied any connection with the plan and declared he had resigned as a director of the film company when he learned later that he had been elected.

From Willett came an acknowledgment of the good work being done by Earl Moss, newly appointed referee to succeed W. Preston Butcher, Jr., of Santa Barbara, though last week he had filed a petition in Federal court for his removal on the ground that transfer of the records would be too costly and delay activities of the estate.

Both representatives of the majority and minority creditors gained points: the former retaining their present strength, the minority, though not gaining control for themselves, but wresting it from the majority as it has heretofore been aligned.

DRIVE OPENED FOR MISSION FUNDS

Formal opening of the drive to raise $200,000 for restoration of the historic Santa Barbara Mission, partially destroyed by earthquake, took place at a luncheon of the campaign committee of the Santa Barbara Mission restoration fund committee in the Alexandria yesterday.

Donations now are receivable and the committee requests that the money be sent to Henry M. Robinson, president of the First National Bank, treasurer of the committee. Money is needed at once because considerable expense must be incurred immediately to preserve what is left, John B. Browne, a committeeman, said. The building, he said, is to be restored from original materials so far as is possible.

Samuel L. Kreider is chairman of the campaign committee. It will establish a chairman in each Southern California county to carry on subscription taking.

At the meeting yesterday were Joseph Scott, chairman of the restoration committee; Father Augustine, father superior of the mission; Milbank Johnson, Mrs. Joseph F. Sartori, Miss Mary Workman, Mrs. Alice Stevens Tipton, Mrs. J. Wells Smith, Mr. Kreider and Mr. Browne.

MAN NABBED IN BOMBING OF TORCHIA

Suspect Under Arrest in Imperial Held for Local Officers

A suspect in the Christmas bombing of the home of Ernest Torchia, Glendale attorney, was arrested in Mexicali late yesterday afternoon and turned over to Deputy Sheriff Archbald of Imperial county.

The man gave his name as Angelo Lorenzo. He was taken to the County Jail at El Centro, where he refused to talk. Officers said they were not sure of his identity but intended to hold him until the arrival of Los Angeles deputy sheriffs.

Mr. Torchia said he did not know an Angelo Lorenzo but imagined that the man was using another name than the one by which he had known him.

The bomb came in a Christmas package to the Torchia office the day before last Christmas. It bore a card reading: "Do not open until Christmas." The next morning Mr. Torchia opened the package at his Christmas tree and was immediately enveloped in a flash. He lingered in a hospital for weeks, his life despaired of. A month ago, however, he returned to his office, one arm gone and his sight injured.

Deputy sheriffs here last night were preparing to leave today for El Centro to return the prisoner. They said they believed the man arrested there had given another name.

For several months, deputy sheriffs assigned to the case have been searching for Angelo Zaupa in connection with the Christmas bomb case. The man in custody at El Centro answers the description of Zaupa, they said.

PARK SITE PURCHASE FAVORED

Council's Finance Group to Recommend Funds for Southwest Tract

The City Council Finance Committee yesterday afternoon agreed to recommend that an appropriation of $35,000 and a loan of $35,000 to the Playground Commission be used toward the purchase for $105,000 of more than fourteen acres of land located between Sixty-first and Sixty-third streets and Western avenue and Normandie avenue for a public playground and recreation fields for the southwestern part of the city.

The appropriation was recommended as the city had taken from the commission land at Exposition Park which had been used for recreational purposes.

Members of the Playground Commission said at yesterday's meeting of the committee that the $35,000 appropriation and the $35,000 loan would enable the commission to purchase the land, the remainder to be paid from the commission's own funds. These will amount to $800,000 this fiscal year as under the new charter the commission is allocated 4 cents on each $1.25 collected in city taxes for playground purposes.

SISTERS SCHOOL WILL HOLD ALUMNAE RALLY

Former students of the Sisters School at 917 South Boyle avenue, will gather for an alumnae reunion in the school auditorium next Sunday. It has been two years since a similar event took place, at which time graduates of the early days of the school, even as far back as 1862, renewed their school-day acquaintances. The six decades since then were well represented at the last reunion. Hundreds of girls and women in Los Angeles and nearby cities have been students of the school, and the Sisters, who have conducted the institution since the days when Los Angeles was a mere "pueblo" surrounding the Old Plaza, extend a cordial invitation to all of these former pupils and their families to attend next Sunday's reunion.

ENACT COURT SCENE IN FRENCH

When Appellant from Milk Judgment Has Trouble Explaining in English, Judge and Lawyers Adopt His Native Tongue, Creating Gay Paree Atmosphere

August Olivera might just as well have been in France yesterday.

And for that matter, so might Superior Judge Guerin and attorneys F. F. Gualano and Frank C. Prescott. The casual observer in Judge Guerin's courtroom, who entered after the proceedings had begun, didn't know where he was or what he was hearing.

Olivera, who was appealing from a $45 judgment rendered against him in favor of the West Dairy Supply Company, was having trouble with the English and finally Atty. Gualano asked that a French interpreter be employed.

"I speak French, myself," Gualano explained.

"So do I," said the court and Atty. Prescott in unison." And the court added: "Then we won't need an interpreter."

The rest of the proceedings were in French, after the attorneys had made the necessary stipulations, and, although Olivera proved more voluble in his native tongue, he was unable to win the appeal, Judge Guerin finally upholding the lower court in its judgment.

ROOKIES LEAVE FOR CAMP

About half that number left on two separate trans from the Southern Pacific station. The balance went by motor car.

Maj. H. L. Suydam, State aide to the Secretary of War, and Col. George H. Chase, C. M. T. C., representative for Los Angeles county, were at the railroad station to see the start. Both officials will visit the encampment later, where more than 1100 men from all parts of the State will be in training for a month. Col. E. Y. Smith, chief of staff, Ninety-first Division, will be in command at Del Monte.

All classes of service from the basic course on up through the red, white and blue periods of C. M. T. C. service will be represented at the camp. Most of the men who left here last night, however, according to Col. Chase, are "rookies." Instruction in different divisions of the Army will be taught, including infantry, cavalry, field artillery, engineering and signal corps.

The camp opens officially for the C. M. T. C. the 21st inst. August 19, Col. Chase predicted last night, "seasoned soldiers" will return to their homes.

About seventy-one members of the C. M. T. C. returned to Los Angeles yesterday from Fort Winfield Scott, where they had been in coast artillery training for the last month.

QUIZ IN TRAIN WRECK TODAY

Board of Inquiry to Seek Cause of Crash Involving Troop Cars and Freight Carrier

A board of inquiry into the causes of the wreck between a troop train, carrying the First Battalion, One Hundred and Sixtieth Infantry, California National Guard, and a freight train, will assemble today at 9 a.m. at Sudden Station, the scene of the wreck, fifty miles north of Santa Barbara.

S. M. Worthington, superintendent of the Coast Division of the Southern Pacific system, will act as chairman of the board, which will include several technical men from the railroad and also some local residents. Evidence will be taken, the train crews and other witnesses being heard. Not only will the causes of the wreck be examined, but a remedy to prevent a recurrence of the tragedy also will be sought.

The body of Engineer A. W. Davis, of the freight train, who was the only person killed, was taken yesterday to his home in San Luis Obispo. An inquest will be conducted there, as he died just across the San Luis Obispo county line while being rushed to a hospital.

Preliminary investigation of the wreck, it was said yesterday, indicated that Davis moved his train from the siding on which it lay for some inexplicable reason. Conductor May, of the freight train, was at a telephone awaiting orders from the dispatcher when the crash came, according to a telegram received from Superintendent Worthington.

MEET VOTES TO OUST DR. DYER

refuse to do so, but in as much as a meeting of the church had already been called for Tuesday night, on the 23th inst., he did not read the call for the special meeting.

"The lights were not turned out while Mr. Fuller was reading. The congregation merely walked out on him."

Dr. Dyer said he would pay no attention to what any small faction of the church did. In discussing the matter further he said that in his opinion the action of the faction in calling the special meeting of the church on twenty-four hours' notice when a regular meeting already had been set, spoke for itself. Any complaints that persons may have had could be presented at such regular meeting, he said.

"And it doesn't look very nice, in my opinion, for any one to ask for a meeting of the church when it was announced that the pastor and at least one hundred members of the church had already arranged to attend the Pilgrimage Play on the very night set in the call for the special meeting.

CAUSES PETTY

"The causes for the dissatisfaction of the small minority are petty, as far as I can learn," said Dr. Dyer. "They are too trivial, almost, to mention. One member, I am told, had his seat changed at a banquet. Another appears to be discontented because he was not re-elected chairman of a church committee. It is merely factional trouble with the discontended in a very small minority. Only four out of thirty officers of the church signed the call for the special meeting.

"The regular and decent way to proceed if members of a Congregational church have any valid objections to their paster is to go to the board of deacons of the church, lay the matter before them, and if the deacons uphold such objections, then they go to the pastor and talk to him. Such has not occurred here."

Dr. Dyer has been with the Wilshire church three and one-half years, since its organization. The new church was opened only about six weeks ago.

Rev. Charles F. Aked, associate pastor of Dr. Dyer, resigned his position about six weeks ago.

"I resigned because I lost confidence in Dr. Dyer, and was unwilling to have my name associated with his in the public mind," said Dr. Aked. He said he gave his reasons in detail in a letter to the congregation, which letter, he said, never was read to the congregation.

SUSPECT CAPTURED IN AUTO THIEF DRIVE

A drive against auto thieves who have been stealing cars parked near the Angelus Temple during services resulted in the arrest last night of Oliver Carpenter on a grand larceny charge, according to the police. Officers Baird and Bunch, who arrested Carpenter, said they saw him enter the car of Mrs. Webster Mitchell and start to drive it away. The police gave chase and captured Carpenter in the automobile, they said.

SUPERIOR JUDGES GO FOR TRIPS

Vacation Period Starts, With Only Urgent Cases to be Heard Now

Summer vacations began yesterday for most of the twenty-eight judges of Los Angeles County Superior Court and from now until September 8 only urgent business will be transacted in the courts.

Several judges already have left on their vacation trips but others remained to finish or decide cases on trial or under consideration.

Most of the civil courts will be closed during the month of August but it was stated the criminal courts and the law and motion and injunction case courts will continue to conduct sessions. The vacation schedule has been arranged so that certain of the judges will remain on the bench to transact the necessary business of the court while others are away.

Several judges from other counties also are serving in the local Superior Court in extra session and will probably remain here for the remainder of the summer.

TEXAN 17 YEARS OLD LICENSED MINISTER

Already a licensed preacher, although but 17 years old, with fifty three sermons to his credit, a college student, and a football player! Such is the remarkable record of Charles Tally, Jr., student-preacher-athlete of Beaumont, who is a freshman at Southwestern University, says a Georgetown (Tex.) dispatch to The Dallas News.

Young Tally at 17 has had a career as varied as that of a man twice his age. Not confining himself strictly to ministerial work and athletics, Tally has also served as a "private" in the citizens' military training camp at Fort Sam Houston. Graduating from Central High, Houston, at 16, young Tally enlisted in the military camp last summer. After two months' training he was awarded a gold medal for being the best drilled soldier-citizen in the regiment.

Tally is the son of the Rev. Charles T. Tally, former presiding elder of the Marlin Methodist Church. While serving in the capacity of presiding elder the Rev. Mr. Tally's last official act was the signing of his son's license to become a minister.

Young Tally is at present Sunday-school superintendent at Georgetown, and a member of the ministerial association of Southwestern University. After being graduated he will leave for Japan, where he will take up his religious duties as missionary.—[Exchange.

SPIRITS IN HEARSE'S WAKE

Izzy and Moe, ever suspicious dry agents, stopped abruptly yesterday as they wandered down MacDougal street, just south of Washington Square and in Greenwich Village. A hearse was parked in front of 13 MacDougal street, a tenement house.

"Spirits," Izzy suggested. "Spirits," Moe responded. They stopped. They waited. In time the driver emerged, wearing high hat, swallow-tail coat and ruddy face. He climbed aboard the hearse and went roistering away at quite an unusual speed.

He had brought forth no body. So Izzy and Moe, always suspicious, went within. In an apartment, they say, they found forty cases of gin and champagne and a thirty-gallon still. They are looking for the owner.—[New York Herald-Tribune.

Success

California is great—majestic—noble—grand—superb.

It expresses quality. It symbolizes character.

We need only to equal California.

If we feel limited, the reason is plain—

We have not lived up to California.

California is always all right. If there is anything wrong it is in us.

If we will match California in quality and character, we (cities and individuals) will be great—and our success abundant.

GIRL CHAMPION MAY LIVE HERE

Holds Three World's Track Records

Helen Filkey and Harold Lloyd

HELEN FILKEY, young Chicago girl, who established three world's records for women in the national track and field championship at Pasadena, may return to Los Angeles to make her home here. "Diana of the cinderpath," as she has been termed, had to shorten her stay in the Southland to fill an athletic engagement in San Francisco, but she and her mother were won over completely to Los Angeles during their short stay here.

Before leaving for the north Miss Filkey and her mother saw their first motion picture in production when Harold Lloyd entertained them at the Hollywood Studios, where he is now engaged in filming his first production for Paramount release.

Lloyd saw Miss Filkey run at Pasadena and was thoroughly impressed by her ability on the cinder-path. The Chicago girl in establishing three world's records at Pasadena, ran 100 yards in 11 2-5s., the 60-yard hurdles in 8 3-10s., and broad-jumped seventeen feet.

POLICE NAB GIRL POSING AS HUSBAND

Companion Expected to be Held as Contributing to Delinquency

Dressed in boy's clothing, Pearl La Duke, 15 years of age, was such a successful masquerader that she was able to register at a downtown hotel with a "wife," deputy sheriffs said yesterday following the arrest of the girl and her asserted companion, Miss Sarah Bowler, a nurse. The girl was lodged in Juvenile Hall and the officers said they expected to charge Miss Bowler with contributing to her delinquency.

Deputies Powell, Walton and Cahill, who made the arrests, said they discovered the La Duke girl, whose real name is Redman, and who is the daughter of J. A. Redman of 1218 East Sixty-ninth street, has been missing from her home since June 24 and during most of that time has lived in a vacant house at 1325 East Sixty-ninth street.

They found that several parties in which another woman had participated were held at the house, the deputies said, and also that the girl and Miss Bowler had registered at a downtown hotel, the girl using boy's clothing and posing as the "husband." The deputies questioned several young men who were asserted to have attended the parties, but announced that none of them would be held.

VICE NET ENMESHES BROTHERS

Elder of Three Accused as Giving Dope to Twins and Using Them in Traffic

A man who is declared by police to have introduced his twin brothers, 16 years of age, to the narcotic habit and used them as aids in his peddling operations was taken prisoner yesterday. He is described as George Stice, 32 years of age, of Fremont street, and was booked on charges of violation of the State poison law in selling and possessing cocaine.

The twins, Arthur and Luther Stice, came here recently from Jonesborough, Ark., the police said they learned, and were given cocaine freely to keep them in their brother's power.

Yesterday a police operative under the guidance of Officers Murphy and Murphy of the narcotic squad, made contact with the two boys, according to the police report, and went with them to the home of their brother, where he purchased $50 worth of cocaine. Officers J. H. Murphy and F. A. Murphy arrested the three brothers, booking the elder at Central police station and sending the twins to Juvenile Hall. Both the youths, the police said, were under the influence of cocaine when arrested.

TONG PLOT HINTED IN KIDNAPING

Rich Long Beach Chinese Believed Held by Faction Seeking His Wealth

Hints of a tong kidnaping to extort money from Tom Shing, 70 years of age, wealthy Chinese of Long Beach, caused the police there yesterday to start a search for the elderly man who has been missing since the 3rd inst.

Shing, who has operated a laundry at Long Beach for more than twenty years, last was seen by his friends when he left his home at 239 Lime avenue, announcing that he was going to Seal Beach to sell fireworks to the Fourth of July crowds.

Because of his known wealth, Shing's continued absence led his friends to believe that he had met with foul play, they told the police, suggesting that he might be held a prisoner by other Chinese who hoped to force him to turn over his money to them.

Board Presents Application for Harbor Dredging

Application has been made by the Harbor Board with the District Army Engineer to dredge the inner harbor, in the northwest slip of the West Basin to a depth of thirty-five feet and in the central part of the East Basin to a depth of ten feet.

Interested persons may inspect the maps and make objections based on navigation interests before that date. Objections based on other than navigation interests cannot be considered.

Border Official Put in Charge of Calexico Post

Elevation of Fred De Jack, who has been assigned to immigration duties on the Mexican border for the last twenty years, to succeed A. R. Neilson, immigrant inspector in charge of Calexico, was announced yesterday by District Director Walter E. Carr of the Bureau of Immigration.

Neilson has been transferred to immigrant inspection duties at Tia Juana.

FRAUD CASE EXTRADITION MEETS SNAG

Picture Needed at Once to Obtain Custody of Roman-Checa

Because the District-Attorney's office has not available beans or funds for sending photographs by wire, extradition of J. E. Roman-Checa, South American promoter from New Orleans has hit a snag.

A telegram was received by Roscoe Denny, clerk in charge of extradition at the District-Attorney's office, yesterday from Investigator Holman, who is in New Orleans to obtain the extradition of Roman-Checa to Los Angeles to answer ten counts of obtaining money under false pretenses and grand larceny. The wire stated that unless a photograph of Roman-Checa is in New Orleans today when Federal Court hears Roman-Checa's petition for a writ of habeas corpus, release of the prisoner is likely.

Even with air mail, it would be impossible to send a picture to New Orleans before the hearing. So Mr. Denny wired Investigator Holman that he was sending Roman-Checa's photograph by mail and suggested that Holman obtain a continuance of the hearing until the photograph arrived.

The photograph is necessary for identification, as the man under arrest denies he is the man wanted here.

Passenger Hurt in Collision of Car and Trolley

One passenger was hurt yesterday when a West Washington street car and an automobile truck collided at Washington street and Manhattan Place. The passenger, Mrs. Sue Carey, 40 years of age, of 2011 South Vineyard avenue, suffered a fractured ankle when she jumped or fell from the window of the street car.

The police did not obtain the name of the truck driver, who, according to the motorman, J. Middlecroft, was on the wrong side of the street.

Mrs. Carey was treated at the Receiving Hospital.

Mother Calls Police to Find Son Gas Victim

Geoffrey Brown of 2706 West Avenue 31 yesterday went to the home of his mother at 3517 Marathon street, entered the bathroom and turned on the gas. Mrs. Brown later smelled the gas and called a policeman, who broke in the door and found her son dead.

The police were told Brown had not been feeling well for some time.

His body was sent to the W. A. Brown mortuary.

MEETING TIME CHANGED

GLEAMING EYES

The spark that kindles in a woman's eye may start a fire that can scorch a continent.

FIND THE WOMAN

Now that they have a device so delicate that it can measure the heat of a woman's blush the problem is to find the woman—who can blush.

THE HANDSOME WAITER

It may be that all things come to him who waits, but the man who has ordered his steak well done is sometimes in the mood to doubt it.

WHAT'S THE USE?

A prominent man registers the emphatic opinion that golf is hurting business. In a case like that it should be very easy to give up the business.

NOT SO FLUSH

Calling a spade a spade is well enough to talk about, but the gink who called a spade flush the other night is said to have dropped $7 by the operation.

JEALOUSY

The latest estimates of the New York Census Bureau give New York City 6,100,000 inhabitants—some of them are Americans. It's quite natural that New York occasionally should try to joke California about native sons, having so few of its own.

THE LEADER'S SHOES

Political writers are disputing whether the leadership once held by Senator La Follette will be taken and filled by the wife or the son of the dead statesman. If the title is conferred upon either it will be wholly for sentimental reasons. As a matter of fact, no one can take up the La Follette tilting where he laid down his lance. He was unique and it is not at all certain that a substitute or successor is desirable.

PLUMP OR SLENDER?

A well-known figure about Los Angeles recently said that the good Lord did not color elephants as he did butterflies. Imagine a 250-pound woman in a purple hat, orange waist with green roses, black skirt and tan shoes! Young, slender girls can wear bright colors, but large people should consider the public's eyesight. Sylph-like creatures should avoid wearing vertical lines, and plump women should never wear horizontal lines.

FALSE PRETENSES

Miscreants have been arrested for selling baking powder to Federal officers under the pretext that it was cocaine. The offenders in this case are held for violating the Harrison narcotic act. It seems that delivering talcum powder for opium is breaking the drug act. If a bootlegger peddles heroin he breaks the Harrison law—and so he does if he delivers baking powder. The baking powder is innocent of itself, but it must not masquerade as a high explosive.

AS TO EVOLUTION

No wonder the Nashvillians, Memphisists and Chattanoodles do not want to be encumbered with evolution. According to one definition, evolution is a progressive process from an indefinite, incoherent homogeneity to a substantial and defined heterogeneity through continuous differentiations and integrations that may be recognised and codified. That makes it lots worse than the measles or mumps and the mountain folk cannot be blamed for placing it on the blacklist.

SHODDY BUILDING

The American Construction Council experts say that an awful lot of shoddy building has been done in America during the last few years. A number of speculators have been throwing houses up just so that they would stand until sold. The materials have been poor and the construction flimsy. They are painted up so that they look attractive to the careless eye, but they will not abide the test of time. The houses built fifty years ago were put together better than those created today. There is not much chance to escape the fact.

THE HARMONIZER

President Coolidge is beginning to shine as an apostle of harmony and concord. He seeks to bring about a friendly amalgamation of the antagonistic elements in his party and in Congress in the hope that a really constructive program can be carried out. If politicians only knew it they would find just as much glory and distinction in pulling together as apart and they would be accomplishing something in the meantime. Instead of seeking leaders to fight the policies of the government there may be conferences to polish down the points of difference. If all statesmen honestly desire the greatest good of the greatest number there is no reason why they should be so far apart. If President Coolidge can become the harmonizer of his party he becomes also the benefactor of his country. None need feel jealous of his activities. His is no quest for personal glory.

TO WHOM SHOULD IT GO?

Every Los Angeles citizen is interested in the fate of the $214,162, set aside by the Budget Committee of the former City Council for salary rises and increases in personal expenditures. The most important point to be considered is not whether salary rises should be refused altogether, but, if granted, to whom should the increase go?

The natural conclusion drawn by every unprejudiced observer is that city money extracted from private citizens should go first to those public servants to whom the private citizen must look first for the protection of his life and liberty. Could a vote of the taxpayers be taken on the expenditure of this $214,162 for increase of pay to city employees, beyond a doubt an overwhelming majority would give first choice to our police force and our firemen.

In comparison with the importance of their services to the community our police and firemen are the poorest paid of our city employees. In twenty-four hours an entirely unpoliced city would be in a state of civil war and a declaration of martial law would be the only way out. In the same period of time a city without fire protection might be almost burned to the ground. But if the Mayor and the Council and the various commissions and all the municipal white-collar job-holders were to suspend operations for a week many citizens would be incommoded—certainly—but the suspension would cause but a minor calamity.

Therefore, it will appear to the majority of our citizens that if the city treasury has a surplus it can distribute in the shape of increased pay to its employees the police and fire departments have the first call. Los Angeles is still sadly underpoliced, in spite of recent additions to the force and an improvement in their remuneration. We have a splendid and efficient fire department. Los Angeles is one of the few large world cities entirely free so far from any widespread and serious conflagration. The work of our firemen deserves corresponding recognition.

Our police and firemen take their lives in their hands every time they answer to the call of duty. Their vocations demand as hard and as exhausting physical and mental training as those of any other body of men on the city pay roll. Should the Mayor or the Council or a specially created committee decide to distribute this $214,162 for increased pay to city employees the claims of the police and fire departments ought not to be ignored.

IS SUCCESS FAILURE?

"The most significant manifestation of our time," writes Mr. Channing Pollock, the highly successful playwright, "is the failure of success." Mr. Pollock says that he is not disgruntled, or a crab, or a nervous wreck, or obsessed with his own importance and the notion that nothing is right in the world but he. He says that he is "a hundred thousand Americans" and that a great many of them are discovering the awful penalties of success. The first and worst of these is that one cannot be one's own man—one is owned and eaten by the public.

"It isn't the people that don't make the grade that find it difficult," he complains; "it's the people that do." And then he goes on to relate from his own experiences a number of things that tend to support his argument. Among these are the innumerable interruptions to which he is subjected while working—interruptions by people whom he cannot afford to "turn down," but who consume so much of his time that he threatens to go and live in a lighthouse, where possibly he might get something finished.

While one cannot accept all of this distracted man's conclusions, there is an element of truth in some of them. It is quite true, for example, that a man in any line of work who has conspicuously succeeded is a shining mark for every bore in town, and he must barricade himself against them as well as against friends who are not bores, but who would violate his privacy with the best of intentions and prevent him from pursuing his own line of thought or action.

Here is the sort of thing that is likely to happen on a holiday in a big business office: A visitor asks the elevator boy, "Is everybody here today?" "No," is the reply, "only the bosses." While everybody else is out having a good time the bosses are pegging away because, with little chance of interruption, they will be able to clear up their desks. Thus are they punished for their success in reaching their high positions.

People have had to revise their ideas of authors. No longer can the writer of a best-seller shut himself away in a garret or other secluded place. There are demands upon his time and person that cannot be denied with impunity. A famous English philosopher of the old days had a sound-proof room built for his study. When it was finished the carpenter said to him: "Here you can write and write, Mr. Carlyle, and nobody'll be the wiser." Mr. Pollock need not fancy that if he lived in a lighthouse he would be immune from harrowing thoughts that he was neglecting those social and business demands which often help as much as anything to make a writer's fame.

And, after all, the author or business man who thinks he has failed in life just because the glare of the spotlight discomforts him is in a morbid way. For there is many a poor, struggling aspirant who would like to be subjected to that kind of failure.

GIRLS WILL BE BOYS

Girlish figures clothed in boyish costumes are seen with greater frequency in these days than ever before. Jane and Dorothy love to come out in white duck trousers and mannish shirts, collars and ties. The first step toward this innovation was the hiking suit, with its free-limbed knickers and golf stockings.

The mannish rig of today may have resulted from a desire on the part of the girls to emulate the white-trousered usherette seen in so many of our theaters. At the seaside an occasional girl, with the full courage of her convictions, is seen in the cool Palm Beach suit formerly monopolized by the male element, which, as it now would appear, has no monopoly of anything when it comes to bodily attire.

The boyish bob, which is getting more and more in vogue every day, helps along the transition from femininity to masculinity and greatly heightens the general effect, as do the swagger cane and flat-heeled shoe which complete the outfit. By and by there will be no more daintily and demurely dressed ingenues, and so far as sex distinction in wearing apparel goes one hardly will be able to tell, at a little distance, which is which.

How do the men like it? Most of them, particularly the younger ones, are indifferent, and some of them profess admiration; but once in a while a sour old cynic is heard to remark, "How do they get by with it? If a man appeared on the street in skirts, long hose and high heels and a woman's hat on his head he'd be arrested." The inference is, of course, that women who dress like men should suffer a similar fate. But in their sweet, self-assured, comely case, who in the world is going to do the arresting?

CRIME

"Over 11,000 murders were committed in the United States last year, or double the number twenty-five years ago. This is a bigger toll than in any civilized country."—[News item.

Chicago has the unenviable notoriety of being the world's crime capital. There are 1300 law-breaking gangs with a membership of 50,000 members in Chicago. The most of these are said to be boys.

The United States has 1,000,000 inhabitants in prison. The penitentiaries are stuffed to suffocation. Leavenworth has twice as many inmates as it was built to accommodate—3000.

Atlanta has to use the lavatories for sleeping quarters. An attempt is being made to parole 1300 of her "trusties" to make room for new recruits.

Uncle Sam spends $3,500,000 annually to support criminal courts and convict lawbreakers.

The reasons assigned for the rising tide of crime are: the backwash of the war, too many laws, aliens, automobiles, bootleg whisky, jazz, sob sisters in criminal courts, yellow journalism, the church's failure to function, wrong system of education, the growing habit of pardoning—and even prohibition.

The Chicago News says that, while the nations are discussing peace and disarmament, Uncle Sam can hardly hear anything on account of all the crime and shooting in this country.

Maybe if we grew a little more hemp—at least enough to go 'round—there would be a more wholesome regard for human life.

FEWER DEAD LETTERS

Good results have followed the campaign of the postal authorities to relieve the work of the Dead Letter Office. Many mail boxes at street corners bear the reminder to the depositor of postal matter that all mail should have the name and address of the sender plainly marked on the outside. It is extraordinary how few people of late years have habitually written or printed return directions on the mail they have sent out. Years ago, when many used the stamped envelopes printed by the government, with blanks for writing in addresses of senders, there was less trouble for postal employees, but these envelopes, probably because of their cheap and common appearance, fell into disuse. But now, heedful of the government's request, many home letter writers have their addresses printed on the face or flap of their envelopes, thus keeping their mail out of the graveyard of letters at Washington.

Thomas W. Lawson boasted that a letter addressed merely with his name and handed to the captain of a Chinese junk on the Yang Tse-Kiang found its way to him at Boston. A letter simply bearing the name of Henry Ford or John D. Rockefeller doubtless would be delivered to the addressee, but most of us are not so well known that the sender of an important letter would care to take such a risk. Mark Twain once sent a letter to Bret Harte, addressing him at a San Francisco hotel and scrawling across the envelope, "To be kept till the cuss comes."

It is the general remark of those people in Los Angeles who often change their addresses that the postal service here is superior to that of many other cities in which they have lived. Considering the enormous number of transients and the moving of residents from place to place in the city, the local postal service certainly shows every sign of efficiency. Few letters ever would go astray if carefully addressed and if full return directions always were given.

THE INSTALLMENT PLAN

The installment idea is invading many lines. Now it appears that one of the great railway systems is about to put on sale tourist tickets to distant points that may be bought on small weekly or monthly payments. It would be a pleasant thing—but bad business—if a man could pay for his ride after he had had it. We can promise the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific a lot of California patronage if they wish to sell tickets to Los Angeles on credit.

DOCTOR'S ORDERS

People have often been deprived of their ration of water. As late as 1845 there were those in Boston who could not take a bath without getting a prescription from the doctor. Possibly the original Bostonese took no chances of getting water on the brain.

LULLABY

Out of the twilight the breezes come straying,
Crimson and gold are the clouds in the West,
Gently the leaf-laden branches are swaying
Rocking the soft little nest;
Far in the forest the shadows are falling,
Out on the road twinkles light after light,
The grosbeak and robin are drowsily calling—
Bidding each other good-night.

Time for wee heads to lie still on the pillow
While the cares of the day are dissolved in a dream,
Soothed by the song of the wind in the willow
That crpons like a murmuring stream.
Out of the heavens the darkness is shaken,
Slowly the stars blossom out over head,
Rest, till the sun in the east bids you waken
Safe in your little white bed.

What if the bat hurries hither and yonder?
Night is the daytime for creatures like him,
What if the owl is arising to wander
Down where the valley is dim?
Rabbits may dance with abandon and joyance
Out in the bushes that border the park,
But night is the time when they're safe from annoyance—
Rabbits can see in the dark!

Babies must rest till the dawn gives its warning,
And the owls and the bats from the wood disappear,
Babies must rest till the coming of morning,
When sunlight and brightness are here.
Slumber serenely while shadows surround you—
Till the bright evening star has grown pale in the west,
Little eyes closed till a sunbeam has found you
Safe in your cosy white nest.

JUST THE RIGHT WORDS

During the fighting in Flanders, says Mr. W. Pett Ridge, the English humorist, a nurse advised a wounded man to send a few cheerful words to his home in the Midlands. He declared that he and his "missus" had never written to each other and that a letter was altogether unnecessary.

"We'll make a start," said the nurse resolutely, taking writing pad and pencil. "Just a line or two to cheer her up. There, I have begun it: 'My darling wife.'"

"Ah," said the man, "that'll make her laugh if anything can!"—[Youth's Companion.

LETTERS TO The Times

The Bryan Method

LOS ANGELES, July 18.—[To the Editor of The Times:] As the newspaper correspondent at the Chicago convention who did not deliver his "Crown of Thorns and Cross of Gold" speech, I charged him with stealing the idea from Hall, crediting the passage that when the Crusaders captured Jerusalem with a crown of gold. He replied: "Shall I crucify upon my brow a crown of gold in the city where our Lord wore a crown of thorns?"

The day before the nomination of a candidate on the Democratic-Free Silver ticket I interviewed Senator Jones of Arkansas, who was the leader of the amalgamated forces. We were seated on a sofa—his back to the door and I was facing the door. He said, in confidence: "We are short of Democratic material and we are afraid to trust that fellow Bryan." Just then a strapping fellow brushed in, stowed up in front of the Senator and then rapidly moved forward, merely saying, "Howdy, Senator?" Jones bowed, nodded his head and his face slightly colored. "Who is that?" I asked. "That is—Bryan," replied the Senator, laughing, dryly. "We put the fellow on the Committee on Resolutions in order to see what is in him. He will speak on the report of the committee."

Bryan's speech was long, tiresome and pointless. The day was very hot and the crowd was impatient for the end. Finally Bryan reached his "peroration" in his borrowed "Crown of Thorns and Cross of Gold." His voice was strong and reached the vast crowd of about 15,000. The expression had no application and was, therefore, meaningless, but it caught the ear of the mob and there were howls and cheers for perhaps half an hour. Then, to crown the folly, the delegates formed in line and, making a "platform" of hands, thus carried Bryan around the vast auditorium amid the increased yells of the frenzied mob. It was a wild, silly scene, undignified and unworthy of men, even though they may be descended from the monkey tribe.

A Suggestion

NEW YORK, July 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I'm writing you in order to make a suggestion. I propose that all the California chambers of commerce get together and plan a commercial, agricultural and architectural exposition to be shown in New York City.

The South had one last year, the Northwest is going to have one this year and I would like to see the Southwest fall in line in the near future. I went to the Architectural Exposition shown recently at the Grand Central Palace and was much interested in Southern California's exhibit.

It is the height of my ambition to go out and see the beauties of wonderful California. I keep in touch with the every-day life of Southern California by reading the Los Angeles Times, especially the Sunday editions.

I think that if the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce was approached on the subject of the southern exposition the idea would prove feasible to them. It would tend to give easterners a better idea of the west coast country.

LAWRENCE J. CALLANAN.

"The 'Drys' Have It."

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] As a man who spent his boyhood and early life from twenty-two to thirty-three years ago in and around Los Angeles, it pains me to read such an editorial as yours of July 14 under the above caption. Just as—upon an even higher plane—it pains and horrifies every thinking person to see a nation of 115,000,000 of otherwise sane people support a law which they appear to hold in complete contempt! Which at least 95 per cent of them (where the males are concerned) break, openly, upon every possible occasion.

Those 95 per cent of American males (I have checked my figures very closely among the hundreds I have conversed with) who decry and rail against prohibition in private; who drink—"as usual"—whenever they have the chance, and who yet, tacitly, support the law—do so support it for the most ignoble and degraded of all human motives, either because they are too supine or emasculated to uphold the liberties which their fathers fought for; because they are dominated by some fanatical or foolish female who orders all their doings, or—worse than all—because they are pawns in the game of the big political and business "bosses," in that happy squabble over the huge fortunes being now accumulated by bootleggers on the one side and by heavily subsidized grafting and dishonest agents of prohibition upon the other.

Dark Before Dawn

HOLLYWOOD, July 13.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The discussion of evolution and religion, interestingly carried forward in The Times today, brings home to me quite vividly the fact that the world is now just emerging from a dark age of immeasurable antiquity and is, indeed, about to "find" itself.

Christianity, so far from being in conflict with this scientific dawn, has itself proved, with whatever technical errors of finite recorders and interpreters and whatever mingling of bias and hypocrisy, a mighty spiritual struggle toward some coherent, workable social science, and the establishing among men of a moral and ethical basis of intercourse—a process toward human perfections.

The Vacant Moon

An Englishman once asked M. Flammarion whether, in his opinion, the moon was inhabited. "Unquestionably no," answered the great man; "if it were inhabited it would long since have been annexed by the British Empire."—[London Outlook.

FILM MAN JAILED FOR FIST FIGHT

R. E. Ladd and Companion Given Ninety and Thirty Days, Respectively

Robert E. Ladd, motion-picture cameraman, must serve ninety days, and Roy Sealock, his companion, thirty days, Police Judge Chambers decreed yesterday after the men had been found guilty of disturbing the peace.

The pair were asserted to have attacked Roy Rinehart and Frank Tustin with their fists following a collision between their automobiles on Sunset Boulevard. After the fight, according to the testimony of the Arial Rinehart sed Tustin started for Central Police Station to lodge a complaint, were followed by Ladd and Sealock and another fight started just outside the police station. Ladd and Sealock jumping into their automobile and escaping when police officers started to interfere. Officers La Valle and Fleming followed them, however, and took them into custody at 2720 Allesandro street, according to the police reports.

Ladd was given the heavier sentence, Judge Chambers said, because the officers testified that he smashed a bottle on the sidewalk just as they placed him under arrest.

FINAL DRIVE UNDERTAKEN FOR LEGION

Corps of Workers Seeks City's Quota of Fund for Children of Veterans

Final efforts to obtain Los Angeles' quota of the American Legion endowment fund were undertaken yesterday when a corps of canvassers went into the field to follow up more than 15,000 letters sent out last week in behalf of the drive by R. W. Fridham, president of the Chamber of Commerce and the Community Chest and W. W. Mines, president of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association.

The local campaign has been in progress during the past four weeks under the direction of a citizen and Legionnaire committee of which J. Dabney Day, president of the Citizens' National bank, is chairman. The drive is part of a movement in progress throughout the nation to obtain a trust fund of $5,000,000 which will provide income to insure care for orphans of World War veterans and disabled ex-service men.

Every State has been asked to obtain a part of the fund, California's assignment being $400,000. Persons in charge of the State campaign have reported that this amount is practically raised with the exception ofLos Angeles' quota. Success of the local drive, they have declared, will insure California a place among the States obtaining honorable mention.

Citizens are urged by officials of the committee in charge of the local drive to send contributions to 315 Van Nuys Building.

Asserted Victim in Kidnap Plot Calls on Police

John Bowen, 70 years of age, believed to have been kidnaped from his home, 507 North Avenue 50, according to reports made to the police Sunday, walked into the Lincoln Heights Police Station yesterday afternoon, expressing surprise that police had been looking for him and his "kidnapers."

Bowen told police he had been sick for several days and had stayed at the beach. He is an ex-officer in the United States Navy.

OPTIMIST ATTEMPTS FREE RIDE IN TAXICAB

SEEKS WRONG ADDRESS FOR LONG TIME THEN BALKS AT PAYMENT

NEW YORK, July 20.—Stanley Molask, 60 years of age, 160 Freeman street, Brooklyn, is nominated by police as an optimist whose standing is far above even that of the chap who ordered a costly dinner at a fashionable hotel on the possibility of finding a pearl in an oyster to pay for the meal.

Molask thought he could ride in taxicabs for nothing!

He went searching in Long Island City for the home of friends whose address he had forgotten. After a long and futile hunt, he ordered Arthur Bisack, the driver, to return to his home so that he might learn the address of the people he sought. Then back to Long Island City, only to find the address was wrong.

"What boots it," quoted Molask, "if I do not find my friend? This is a lovely ride, indeed." And so he ordered the driver to continue circling around streets thinking he might spy his friends.

Presently the driver began to worry about collecting the fare, which by that time was $7.80. He spoke to Molask. Money? Why, there must be something wrong.

Bisack called a policeman and Molask was arrested. He told the officer he had never ridden in a cab before, didn't know he would have to pay and admitted no funds.

Miss Muriel Grant

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 20.—Tired of society and everyday routine, Miss Muriel Grant, 22 years of age, of New York, sailed Saturday, headed for the very heart of Africa for a seven-months' lion and elephant shooting expedition there.

With her will go her father, R. McQueen Grant, a banker; Miss Anna Garman, a friend, and Alfred J. Klein, an experienced hunter in the service of the American Museum of Natural History.

MARY GIVEN SUMMONS IN KIDNAP CASE

Attorney Promises Star Will be Produced When Wanted as Witness

A subpoena for the appearance of Mary Pickford at the trial of Charles Z. Stevens, Claud Arthur Holcomb and Adrian James Woods, charged with a conspiracy to kidnap her, was "semiofficially" served on the film star yesterday. The service consisted of an assurance given Chief Deputy Wright by John G. Mott, Mary's attorney, that Miss Pickford will be produced in court when she is called to the stand. Her appearance was asked by S. S. Hahn, attorney for the defense.

Douglas Fairbanks, Mary's husband, was subpoenaed by the prosecution and will be in court in time to testify against the trio charged with the kidnaping conspiracy, Dep. Dist. Atty. McCartney announced yesterday.

The subpoena for Miss Pickford was issued last Friday, but several attempts to serve her with it personally, as required by law, failed because the deputy intrusted with the process was unable to set anywhere near the famous Mary. Yesterday, however, the subpoena was left with Mary's secretary. This in itself is not sufficient to compel her appearance in court, so Chief Deputy Wright took the matter up with Mr. Mott and obtained his promise to produce Mary when needed.

Everything is in readiness for the trial, attorneys for both sides said yesterday. Final preparations for the trial were completed by the prosecution when Deputy McCartney held a long consultation with Harry Raymond, assistant to George K. Home, formerly chief of detectives, who conducted the investigation preceding the arrests in the case.

Attorney Hahn, who represents Charles Z. Stevens, also announced his readiness to go to trial.

Results to Be Settled

The kindly old party saw two urchins fighting with more gusto than damage to themselves. He hurried up and separated the combatants.

"Now, then," said he, "what's the argument about?"

The warriors glared at each other while a youthful bystander piped up. "Argument, boss? There's no argument! They're fightin'! Tomorrow will be the argument!"—[Exchange.

BOY HELD ON CHARGE OF ARSON

Police Say Youth Admits Setting Fires Because He Liked to See Engines

Every normal boy gets a thrill out of seeing the fire trucks go thundering by, but Donald Frowein, 13 years of age, of 1213 West Eighty-ninth street, got too much kick out of it, according to charges by police.

Donald is said to have admitted to Assistant Chief Deputy Sheriff Townsend yesterday that he set eight fires to his own home and to homes of neighbors because he liked to see the fire trucks. None of the fires did much damage.

A firebug had been suspected until the latest fire in the vicinity of Donald's home Sunday. Part of a Sunday newspaper found at the scene of the newest blaze was traced and the remainder of the paper was found under Donald's bed, according to Deputy Sheriffs Large and Rankin. Confronted with the evidence, Donald admitted guilt, it was said.

Donald is being held and, if the charge is proved true, probably will be placed in custody of juvenile authorities.

Divorcee Weds but Wants Her Back Alimony

When Mrs. Anne Mower became Mrs. Anne Mower Fones, it seemed only reasonable to John Mower, film actor and her former husband, that all alimony bets should be called off. So he quit his payments of $100 a week and delivered himself of a hearty congratulation to the bride.

But Mrs. Mower Fones, who is an actress, does not feel that way about it.

"How about the $1500 you were in arrears," she asked in proceedings before Judge Summerfield.

The case was on Judge Summerfield's calendar yesterday, but at the request of Attorney Daniel M. Hider, counsel for Mrs. Fones, it was continued two weeks.

Mate Preferred Bootlegging to Work, Wife Says

"He said he wouldn't punch a time clock for anyone, he'd rather bootleg, and he did," Mrs. Phoebe Ann De Merce explained in citing her desire for a divorce from Phillip Earl De Merce, before Judge Gates yesterday.

"He was arrested a number of times and lost two cars; too uncertain a life for me," declared Mrs. De Merce.

She was granted a decree.

This NEW way solves woman's oldest hygienic problem in a way centuries of women hoped for

THROUGH the ages, women have suffered a hygienic handicap.

Now it has been largely overcome. There is a new way in personal hygiene.

A way that supplants that uncertainty of the old-time sanitary pad with scientific safety.

Today, women live every day of every year . . . not a moment's charm lost. Dance, motor, wear filmy frocks and gowns in full confidence.

It absorbs 5 times the moisture of the ordinary cotton pad. And that means great protection.

It is as easily disposed of as a piece of tissue—that ends an old-time embarrassment.

It is deodorized. And that prevents danger of offense.

You get it at any department store or drug store, just by saying "Kotex." And that banishes the embarrassment of asking for a "sanitary pad."

8 in every 10 women in the better walks of life have adopted it. Which proves its benefits.

It will mean much to you in health, in daintiness and protection. It proves old ways a needless folly.

KOTEX
DEODORIZED

1 Protection: 5 times as absorbent as cotton pads. Absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture—and is scientifically deodorized.
2 No laundry. Discard as easily as a piece of tissue.
3 Easy to buy, anywhere. You ask for them by name. Many stores keep them ready-wrapped — help yourself, pay the clerk. That is all.

SEARCH FOR RICH OIL LOT OWNER ENDS

Report of Woman's Death in Iowa Gives Valuable Tract to Heirs

A nation-wide search for Mrs. Caroline A. Howard, who bought a lot in the Athens tract in 1918 and has not been heard from since, resulted in the discovery yesterday that Mrs. Howard is dead and her heirs will inherit the property, according to Charles Conner, attorney for the Research Company of California.

Since she purchased the property, oil has been discovered in the vicinity and the property is said to be worth five times its purchase price.

Mrs. Howard's death was recorded in Iowa, and she has not paid the taxes on her local property since she bought it. It is understood to have been purchased by Mrs. Howard from the Howard Park Company at a consideration of approximately $1000.

In his search for the dead woman, Attorney Conner appealed to 350 county clerks through the United States to assist him in finding her.

AIRPLANE INCUBATOR BUSY CONTINUOUSLY

TOTAL OF 552 CRAFT TURNED OUT AT DEPOT IN ONE YEAR

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) July 20. Every time the local Air Intermediate Depot operated through a period of four hours and forty-eight minutes during the fiscal year ending June 30, a new "bird" spread its wings before the balmy breezes that blow above Duncan Field and circled away to take its place among Uncle Sam's air forces.

These man-made birds fly to all parts of the Eighth Corps Area, to fill the needs of air service units. Seldom is a plane shipped by freight. It is cheaper to fly them to their destination.

The output of the air intermediate depot for the past year included 248 DeHavilands, 87 "jennies," 45 MB-3 pursuit ships, 25 SE-5 pursuit planes, three Martin bombers, 19 TW-3's, 7 Voughts, 7 AT-1 training planes, two Sperry messengers, 4 TW-5's, 2 CO-4's, 1 TA-16, 1 TP-1 and 1 GA-1.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Less Fading

Hang the kiddies' colored rompers and dresses out on the line wrong side out, and they will not fade nearly so quickly.

Smoke Stains

To remove smoke stains from bricks in front of the fireplace mix two ounces of soda, one ounce pumice stone, one ounce of salt with water sufficient to make a cream. Rub the bricks well with this composition and let stand for a few minutes. Then brush off with a stiff brush.

Odd Bits

The long thin cucumbers are the best eating.

TO COMBAT INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Health Commission Makes Suggestions to Check Any Spread of Disease

The Board of Health Commissioners and Health Officer Parrish yesterday issued the following statement and recommendations to the public in connection with the infantile paralysis situation:

"Health reports throughout the United States, including California, show an increase in the reported cases of infantile paralysis, and as it spreads more rapidly in the late summer and early fall the City Health Commission, through Dr. George Parrish, City Health Officer, desires to advise the public that the following suggestions as regards children should be carried out.

"5. If any member of your family becomes ill, isolate him in his own room and call your medical adviser.

"6. If your child complains of feeling sick and of muscle pains, keep him quiet and send for your medical adviser.

"Health authorities are agreed that the control of all contagious and communicable diseases is best accomplished by the prompt isolation and quarantine of known cases and those who have come in contact with them. This rule will not be applied to adults in the family since they are not very susceptible to this disease.

"All persons licensed by the State of California to treat the sick are reminded that infantile paralysis is a contagious disease and that suspicious as well as positive cases must be reported to the health office."

Property Man Charged With Diamond Theft

A diamond ring worth $300, the property of Miss Tui Lorraine, a motion-picture actress, was found yesterday in the pocket of Fred F. Summers, a property man, and he was arrested on suspicion of grand larceny, according to a report by the Hollywood police.

Miss Lorraine said she went Friday from her home at 5826 Hollywood Boulevard to a bungalow at 1048 Holly Drive, where she changed into a bathing suit and went with friends to the beach, leaving her ring in the house. When she returned it was gone.

Miss Lorraine, Detective Lieutenants Van Aken and Trosper said, gave them a list of those who had been in and near the bungalow Friday, Summers among them. They found Summers at a Hollywood hotel and arrested him, they said, after discovery of the ring.

PERMISSION SOUGHT FOR ISSUE OF BONDS

WEST COAST THEATERS, INC., PLANS LIQUIDATION OF LIABILITIES

Ramifications of the holdings of West Coast Theaters, Inc., were explained to the Corporation Department yesterday at a hearing called to investigate an application of the theater company for permission to issue $1,500,000 in bonds to liquidate liabilities.

The company originally applied for permission to issue $3,000,000 worth of bonds but this figure has been reduced, counsel said, to $1,500,000, as needs at the present time do not require the larger amount.

David M. Croft, treasurer of the company, explained the intricate details of theater combines with which West Coast Theaters is associated. In all, the company has holdings in 131 theaters throughout the State. Croft said that a number of these are controlled exclusively by the company while in the others a part interest is held. West Coast Theaters, Inc., is buying up the stock in West Coast Theaters of Northern California for a consideration of $1,725,540, the company's application states, and Croft said that this transfer will give the local company control in the West Coast-Langley Circuit. Both these combines operate several theaters in Southern California.

The interest West Coast Theaters, Inc., has in these theaters will be put up as security on the bonds and counsel told the department that but a small portion of the company's arrets are mortgaged. The hearing was continued yesterday until tomorrow at 2 p.m. Frank S. Hutton represented the company at the hearing and Deputy Corporation Commissioner Haas represented the department.

Close to It

The visiting lawyer advanced a proposition that obviously was very doubtful law. The home town judge eyed him narrowly. "Mr. Smith," he said, "do you think that is law?" "No," said the lawyer gracefully, "candor compels me to admit that I do not, but I did not know how it would strike your honor." The judge deliberated a few moments, then gravely said: "That may not be contempt of court, but it is a mighty close shave."—(Exchange.

DERMATITIS VENENATA (Part I)
(Poison Ivy, Etc.)

Have you an inflammation of the skin which looks like poison ivy, and still you are confident that you have not come in contact with it? I'll give you a little lesson today on Dermatitis Venenata and it may solve your problem.

Under the title Dermatitis Venenata are included all of the inflammatory conditions of the skin due to contact with caustics, drugs, plants and other substances almost innumerable. Many of them are more or less irritating to all skins, and in some, the inflammation may be so marked that we have to think these have a peculiar susceptibility, known as an "idiosyncrasy" to the irritants. Among the most common of the drugs are arnica, mustard, cantharides, mercurials, iodin, iodoform, carbolic acid, oil of turpentine, dye stuffs, coal tar products, alkalies, acids, strong soaps, analine and coraline dyes, many of the quack stimulating oils for rheumatism, etc.

The most frequent causes of Dermatitis Venenata are chemicals and certain hair tonics and dyes. In susceptible individuals they may cause an inflammation over the entire body. Workers who have to handle sugars, flours, polishing materials, pastes, tobacco and similar objects, may be subject to a dermatitis from them. Photographers may be troubled by metol, one of the chemicals they use. Mustard gas, which was used so freely during the World War, produced cases that were very resistant to treatment.

In one of my textbooks is a picture of a hand looking as though it had a rough-looking loose gauntlet glove on it. The skin was blistered from a too free application of the tincture of iodin for some purpose. Men who have little patches of skin irritation under the pockets in which they carry their match boxes, may have a match box dermatitis.

Surgeons and nurses whose hands are more or less constantly in contact with strong antiseptic solutions for sterilizing purposes, may have a dermatitis. These cases are usually called surgeons' and nurses' eczema.

During the season, the rhus plants bring the largest number of cases of D. V. to the clinics. These plants are the rhus toxico-dendron (poison ivy;) a climbing plant; rhus vernix, poison oak, a small tree or shrub; poison dogwood; poison sumac and poison elder. When mah jongg first came into high favor there were several cases of D. V. in susceptible persons from the lacquer on the boxes which contained the sets, as these are made of a varnish from the resin of the rhus plants of Japan and China.

Among other plants that may cause eruptions are the nettle, primrose, smartweed, balm of Gilead, and even tomato plants.

Symptoms: The symptoms of D. V. depend upon the individual susceptibility and upon the duration of contact with the offending substance. They may be very mild or they may be exceedingly severe. Among the eruptions may be little hard pimples, nodules of various sizes and swelling and even ulceration. Most cases run a definite course and recover in varying times, without leaving scars usually. In those who are subject to eczema this inflammation may go on to a true eczema, more especially if there are two or three attacks or if there is a persistent occurrence of the irritation. Burning and itching may be troublesome, or not.

By far, the most cases of D. V., especially during the season, are the inflammations due to poison ivy and oak. I'll take that up tomorrow.

Tomorrow: Dermatitis Venenata No. II.

VALHALLA PARK PLAN CHANGE TOLD AT TRIAL

Testimony regarding a change in the original plan of Valhalla Memorial Park and Valhalla Mausoleum Park promoters was offered in Federal Judge McCormick's court yesterday by D. C. Hay, salesman; J. P. Broadhead, sales manager, and James C. Penn, office manager for the Osborne-Fitzpatrick Finance Company. It was at first planned, according to their testimony, that sections would be improved as sold, but upon advice of engineers it was decided to start improvement of the whole tract with no regard to sales. This change was caused, they testified, because the latter plan permitted more economy.

ARMY POST WINS PRAISE OF BINGHAM

Fort MacArthur Has Best Administration in Country, Senator Says

High praise was sounded for Fort MacArthur, comprising the coast defenses of Los Angeles yesterday by Hiram Bingham, United States Senator from Connecticut and a member of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, following an inspection of the post and the Third United States Coast Artillery. Senator Bingham declared Fort MacArthur to be the best administered Army post with which he has come in contact.

He is making a nation-wide tour of Regular Army establishments relative to Army legislation that will come before the next Congress, when it convenes in December.

Senator Bingham was entertained at luncheon yesterday at the California Yacht Club by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and after a short tour of the harbor was conducted on the survey of Fort MacArthur by Maj. Lincoln B. Chambers, commandant, and his staff.

Upon his arrival at Fort MacArthur, the Senator was given the customary seventeen-gun salute as a member of Congress.

Senator Bingham during the World War served in the air service with the rank of lieutenant-colonel, seeing service in France.

Greenville, Ill., July 21.—In discussing the youth of today with his patent leather hair and peon pants, Mr. Horace McLean, an old resident here, says that he can remember that the boys of the early seventies rolled in the mud so that their pals would not be able to detect a new suit.

GROWTH CAUSE TOLD AT BEACH

Santa Monica's Advertising Drive Given Credit

Idealistic Type of Appeal in Campaign Praised

Club Discusses Plans for Continuing Effort.

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, July 20.—Doubling of the population of Santa Monica in the past four years may be due in a sense to the effects of the idealistic advertising campaign of the Greater Santa Monica Club, according to speakers at a luncheon of directors of the club today at the Athletic Club.

Today's luncheon was devoted to hearing expressions of leaders relative to the effects of the advertising campaign and suggestions on how to direct it in the future.

PLEASED BY RESULT

In the four years the campaign has been conducted more than $50,000 has been spent for advertising, it was stated by Fred Gibbs, president of the club. He expressed the opinion that the campaign has been extremely successful.

Dr. Charles Scott of Pacific Palisades, stated that in appealing to ideals rather than to materialistic viewpoints entirely the advertising has attracted a better type of citizens to Santa Monica. The results of the campaign are seen, he said, in the higher moral tone of the entire district.

Alphonso E. Bell, real estate owner, praised the advertising and suggested that the tone of the appeal be made slightly more commercial.

OTHERS SPEAK

Frank Bundy veteran real estate operator of the Bay District, emphasized the good effects of the campaign, declaring inquiries resulting came from distant points as well as near-by cities.

George Sunday, Los Angeles real estate man, said the campaign has been successful but probably could be more so if more of a commercial appeal be instilled.

Others who spoke included Frank Hall of the Los Angeles Athletic Club; B. Y. Taft, Hollywood realtor; M. M. Follensber. Frank H. Bode, L. A. Brunson and Frank Lowe.

VALLEY ROCK CRUSHER ORDINANCE PREPARED

City Attorney Stephens and the Planning Commission today will present to the City Council an ordinance, as requested by Councilman Randall on behalf of property owners, designed to prevent the location of rock crushers and other industries in the San Fernando Valley section of the city, without special permits issued in each case by the Council. The ordinance will be in the nature of an emergency blanket zoning ordinance to remain effective until the Commission prepares the detailed maps and ordinance for the Council, definitely zoning the valley section of the city.

PEDDLER HANGS SELF IN DESPONDENT MOOD

Despondent over his failure to find work, Harry Trezoney, 35 years of age, a fruit peddler, hanged himself last night in a garage at the rear of his home, 2506 1-2 Malabar street, according to Detective Lieutenant Jones of Hollenbeck Heights station. The body was discovered by Trezoney's daughter Sarah, who notified the police. The remains were taken to the W. C. Draper undertaking parlors.

TAKE RUPPE SUIT UNDER SUBMISSION

Opposing Attorneys Fail to Agree on Appraisal of Community Property

The hotly contested divorce suit of Mrs. Doris Ruppe against Louis E. Ruppe, local undertaker, came to an end yesterday with Judge Vicini of Superior Court taking the case under submission.

Judge Vicini took such action after opposing attorneys failed to reach an agreement on how the value of the community property and the earnings of Ruppe's mortuary were to be determined.

Counsel for Mrs. Ruppe asked that the court appoint an appraiser to fix the value of the real property and a public accountant to determine the income of the business for the past three years. Ruppe's counsel objected to any move to appoint an accountant, declaring that he did not feel his client should be made to bear the expense of any such action." He declared that Ruppe had outstanding obligations of approximately $50,000 and that it would be unjust for him to have to bear the expense of auditing the books of his establishment.

Mrs. Ruppe's attorney, however, argued that the business had shown a profit of more than $40,000 last year and that the only way to determine the income was for the court to appoint an accountant.

The case closed with counsel for Mildred Mathews, named co-respondent by Mrs. Ruppe, making a motion that the complaint be dismissed in so far as Miss Mathews was concerned. He based the motion on the ground the testimony given at the trial did not justify the charges made in the complaint. Judge Vicini denied the motion.

Mrs. Ruppe charged her husband and Miss Mathews with being intimate, but both Ruppe and Miss Mathews testified all their meetings were purely of a business nature.

NAVY NEEDS OF COUNTRY TOLD

Shearer, Advocate of Full Sea Power, Gives Data

More Than Billion Termed Necessary for Ships

W. B. Shearer, advocate of a full-strength Navy, who was prominent in the fight to save the battleship Washington, destroyed last year under the limitation of armaments treaty, yesterday made public in a statement prepared for the Associated Press what he characterized as the official Navy Department figures of the estimate of ships necessary to bring the American fleet up to its standard under the 5-5-3 ratio, permitted by the treaty.

Shearer simultaneously declared that his investigations disclosed the American Navy today stands at a ratio of one, compared with five for Great Britain and three for Japan, when it should be five for America, five for Great Britain and three for Japan.

The figures given out here today by Shearer were prepared, he said, by Capt. J. K. Taussig, U.S.N., and were submitted to and approved by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur last December.

MAY REACH CONGRESS

Shearer said: "In support of this program, which has not been made public before, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur last year told the House subcommittee that it would take $1,200,000,000, spent over a period of years, to bring our Navy up to the 5-5-3 ratio. This program, I feel certain, will be submitted to Congress during the coming session."

The conclusion of the report credited to Capt. Taussig says:

"The balanced fleet for the United States Navy requires:

"(1.) Eighteen battleships, all maintained in the highest state of efficiency. This necessitates in the cases of some of them: (a) An increase in the elevation of guns; (b) a change from coal fuel to oil fuel; (c) increased protection against torpedoes and bombs.

"(2.) Sixty modern light cruisers. In order that our strength in this respect may equal that of Great Britain and be superior to that of Japan in the ratio of five to three, there should be authorized a building program of fifty new vessels, ten of which should be laid down each year for the next five years.

"(3.) Two hundred and seventy destroyers (our present number.) As all of these vessels are the same age, and, in consequence, become obsolete at practically the same time a replacement program should be immediately initiated.

PACIFIC BASE URGED

"(4.) Fifteen destroyer leaders. There are no vessels of this type in the fleet. All of them should be provided for at once.

"(5.) One hundred and ten modern, effective submarines. In order to obtain this number a building program of forty-five vessels is necessary. All new submarines should be capable of operating as a part of and with the fleet.

"(6.) Five first-line airplane carriers. There are two under construction. Three additional should be laid down as soon as practicable.

"(7.) Six lighter-than-air ships. As the Los Angeles is only for commercial purposes, provision should be made to augment the Shenandoah by five new dirigibles.

"(8.) Sufficient train vessels to insure the efficient operation of the combatant fleet."

Shearer pointed out that this program took no account of a strong naval base in the Pacific, which, he said, all naval officers were agreed, was essential to the effectiveness of the fleet.

CO-OPERATIVE PLAY PRODUCING PLANNED

NEW COMPANY TO DISPENSE WITH ANGEL AND SELL 5000 MEMBERSHIPS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 20.—Interest has been aroused in theatrical circles by announcement of creation of a new co-operative producing company under the name of The Playgoers. The object is to produce ten plays and instead of seeking an "angel" the aim is to sell 5000 memberships at $100 each, raising a fund of $500,000.

The chief promoter and chairman of the membership committee is Mrs. R. Lavinia Hanton. Mrs. Hanton, a striking blond three years ago sent 48,000 copper cents in a keg to a taxicab company in Greenwich, Ct., in payment for a disputed $480 taxi bill. Mrs. Hanton has acted as Lady Bountiful and took whole families under her wing, providing their rent and sustenance.

Mrs. Oliver Harriman, Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Frank A. Vanderlip, Rt. Rev. Herbert Shipman, Alfred I. Dupont and Archibald Roosevelt were named among the indorsers of The Playgoers movement, but their connection has not been verified.

ULLMAN DEATH TALE BEGUN

Witnesses Called in Trial of Granado and Rincon, Accused as Elizabeth Lake Rancher's Slayers

Taking of testimony in the trial of Willie Adams, also known as Guillermo Granado, and Alfonso Rincon, charged with the murder of T. K. Ullman, reputed wealthy rancher of Elizabeth Lake, is scheduled to begin this morning in Judge Keetch's department of the Superior Court.

The trial was begun yesterday, but both sessions were occupied with selecting a jury. The jury was completed late yesterday afternoon, eight women and four men finally being sworn by Court Clerk McClay.

Adams and Rincon are asserted to have murdered Ullman, who lived alone on his ranch, on May 17, last. According to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Costello, who is prosecuting the case, the man was beaten to death with an iron bar and his body thrown into a well on his ranch.

Adams was captured by deputy sheriffs while he is said to have been fleeing across the desert in a truck declared to have been owned by the slain man. Questioned by the officers, he is said to have admitted knowledge of the slaying, but named Rincon as the actual slayer. Rincon then was said to have made a similar statement implicating Adams.

Costello said yesterday he will ask for the death penalty against both defendants.

Adams is being represented by Deputy Public Defender Padan and Rincon by Attorney H. M. Dalton.

AID SOUGHT IN DEATH THREAT

Wilshire Man Says Efforts Made to Kill Him

Became Ill from Candy, Attacked on Street

Doctor Says Patient Has Only Indigestion

J. F. Novak, safe company representative living at 1236 Wilshire Boulevard, yesterday appealed to police for aid following what he believes to have been two attempts to end his life. Novak was stricken ill yesterday after eating some candy. Earlier in the day he received a note shoved under his bedroom door, which read: "Your time is very short," he declared.

Novak was confined to his apartment when interview by Detective Lieutenant Edwards, who was assigned to the case. Novak said the first attempt to murder him was on the night of the 17th inst., when he was knocked unconscious by an unidentified assailant while walking within a few blocks of his home. The assailant jumped into a touring car and sped away when a pedestrian who had witnessed the attack screamed.

Dr. Leo B. Tavers is caring for Novak. He told Lieut. Edwards that Novak apparently is suffering only from a severe case of indigestion. He said that he did not believe the candy contained poison but stated that he would send it to the city chemist for a test.

Novak was unable to name any suspects. He told Lieut. Edwards that a month ago his wife left him and that since that time he has not heard from her.

VAN NORMAN TO SUBMIT REPORT

Figures to be Laid Before Conference Today

Parley to Aid Department in Street Planning

Improvement Work Doubles Within Two Years

Preparatory to today's conference of Mayor Cryer, City Engineer Van Norman, members of the Board of Public Works and the City Council's Finance Committee, City Engineer Van Norman yesterday completed a report which will be laid before the session showing an increase of 80 per cent in street designs completed during the last six months of the fiscal year which ended June 30 last, or during City Engineer Van Norman's administration, as compared with the first six months of the fiscal year.

The City Engineer's report showed 209 miles street work were designed during the fiscal year which just ended or 63.4 per cent more work than was designed during the previous fiscal year.

The purpose of today's conference is to assist the engineering department in catching up on its long pending street planning so that ordinances can be adopted and contracts awarded for actual construction work. Based on the increased output of the City Engineer's present personnel, it will require the department eighteen months to complete its delayed street-planning work actually now on hand. The City Engineer in his report termed this "a deplorable situation," which he said can only be remedied by increasing the department personnel to a point where the output in miles designed is materially greater than the miles of work petitioned for.

To finance the increase in personnel and salaries recommended by the City Engineer, he suggested that this could be done from the increased earnings of the department, as the more work turned out would result in the engineering department's increased revenues from assessments paid for this engineering work.

The report which the City Engineer will submit to today's conference is of importance to hundreds of property owners who have been waiting for public improvements and also shows the tremendous task of the engineering department in trying to keep pace with the increasing demand for public improvements by property owners. The data of the output of the department were compiled by Director E. G. Evans of the division of personnel and research of the engineering department. The report was as follows:

WORK ON HAND DOUBLED

"The amount of street-improvement work on hand has more than doubled in the past two fiscal years, despite the fact that the number of miles designed (209 miles) during the fiscal year of 1924-1925 was eighty-one miles, or 63.4 per cent more than that designed during the fiscal year of 1923-1924. Of the 209 miles designed during the past fiscal year, 125 miles were designed during the last six months. This is an increase of 80 per cent in output over the first six months of the last fiscal year.

"The number of miles of sanitary sewer work on hand, as of the 1st inst., was 556 miles, or 184 per cent more than the number of miles on hand July 1, 1923, despite the fact that the sewer department designed 85.1 per cent, or 211 more miles of sewer during the fiscal year of 1924-1925 than during the fiscal year of 1923-1924. The number of miles of sanitary sewer received during the past fiscal year was 606 miles, or 42 per cent more than that received during the fiscal year of 1923-1924. Of the 459 miles designed during the past fiscal year 290 miles was designed during the last six months. This is an increase of 72.1 per cent in output over the first six months of the past fiscal year.

"It is gratifying to note from the above figures that the increase of 63 per cent in output of street improvement design and the increase of 85 per cent in sanitary sewer design was accomplished with an increase of designing personnel of only 36 per cent. It should also be gratifying to note the material increase in efficiency and output under your administration during the past six months. This increased output is also reflected in the fact that the total contracts accepted during the past fiscal year were $12,762,000,000, or $4,648,000, or 58 per cent, more than that accepted during the fiscal year of 1923-1924.

"It is also apparent from information now at hand that the department is eighteen months behind in its work. In other words, with the present designing personnel it would take approximately eighteen months to complete the work now on hand. This would mean that the design of all work received subsequent to the 1st, inst., if taken in its regular order, could not be started until approximately January 1, 1927. This deplorable situation can only be remedied by increasing the present personnel to a point where the output in miles designed is materially greater than the number of miles received.

"The efficiency of the designing divisions has, as a whole, been reduced by approximately 40 per cent annual technical turnover. Approximately 50 per cent of this turnover, representing 120 employees, have resigned for more remunerative positions in other public and private corporations.

"In order to give property owners petitioning for street and sewer improvements of various kinds even a reasonable amount of service in connection with the design of the necessary plans, it is imperative that the designing personnel of the engineering department be materially increased and that the present salary scale for these positions, which is materially below that paid by the county and State highway organizations, be increased, in order that we may fairly compete in the technical labor market, and thereby reduce the expensive turnover experienced in the past two years."

CROSSING PLANS WILL BE DISCUSSED

A mass meeting of citizens of the Fourteenth Councilmanic District will be held today at 8 p.m. in Sycamore Grove to discuss plans of the city engineering department relative to a crossing of Figueroa street at Bishop Road and Solano avenue. It is contended by spokesmen of the Fourteenth District Civic League that plans of the city to cross at grade instead of on viaducts would slow up traffic and increase the cost.

NEBRASKANS TESTIFY TO BOND THEFT

Two Important Witnesses May Appear Today Against Accused Trio

Federal Judge Sheppard yesterday adjourned the trial of Rush Meadows, "attorney," Fred Keller and Charles Sweeney, accused of forging and dealing in stolen Liberty bonds, and ordered counsels to stipulate before 10 o'clock this morning on introduction of evidence pertaining to identification of the bonds.

William T. Brockelsby, retired farmer, testified regarding bonds missing when his safety deposit box was stolen from the State Bank of Richlands, Neb., in a robbery on the night of December 8, 1920, and was followed by George A. Shonks, cashier of the robbed bank.

Two important witnesses are expected to take the stand for the government either today or tomorrow. They are Dr. Franklin E. Kerr, Garden Grove orchardist and osteopath, and Dave Learner, co-defendant with Meadows, who was granted a separate trial yesterday when court opened.

Dr. Kerr yesterday admitted that he had been called to the trial in readiness to appear on the stand. Kerr recently was convicted and sentenced to five years in Federal prison for sending poisoned candy through the mails to his former wife, Dr. Luella F. Kerr of Fillmore. His appeal is pending before the Circuit Court of Appeals.

The convicted practitioner is said to have had financial difficulties with Meadows, who was his first attorney following his arrest early in January of this year. The disagreement is said to involve Kerr's $25,000 orchard and farm at Garden Grove, which he said was taken out of his hands at the time he gave bond and was later returned to him heavily encumbered with mortgages and liens.

Meadows also is accused of illegal purchase of $11,000 worth of French cocaine. W. B. Ashe, head of the United States secret service for the southern district of California, and police arrested Meadows and the four other defendants early in May.

THE POT AND THE KETTLE

Senator Borah, always averse to Europe alliances on the part of the United States, said at a Washington dinner party:

"When two European nations begin taunting each other for imperialism, exploitation of aboriginal races, land grabbing and that sort of thing, it always reminds me of the fisherman.

"With a bitter, mocking laugh a chap said to a fisherman who sat fishing on a sun-baked rock:

"'By gosh, friend, your time can not be very valuable to you. I've stood here watching you for two hours, and you haven't had a bite.'

"'My time's worth too much to me,' the fisherman answered, 'to waste two hours of it watchin' a man fish wot ain't ketchin' nothin'.'"—[Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

SOMETHING TO LAUGH OFF

A New York department store recently sold $1,000,000 worth of radio sets in one day and then repeated the feat a week or two later. The sets sold for $100 apiece. When the thrifty peasants in France read about it in La Petit Parisien they leaned across the barnyard fences and remarked to their neighbors: "Well, why should we be in a hurry to pay the war debt to those rich Americans rolling in wealth?" Those 20,000 radio sets sold in two days in one city are probably more than exist in all Europe; which is one reason why 8000 people left for Europe on eight ships in one day, Saturday, May 9, last. Laugh that off!—[McNaught's Monthly.

Victim of Auto Accident May Not Recover

Suffering from a basal skull fracture, E. J. Hildenman, 45 years of age, of 6620 South Hoover street, was in the Receiving Hospital critically injured last night, following an automobile accident at Sixty-seventh and Hoover streets.

Hildenman, according to the police reports, was run down by an automobile driven by Walter Vogel of 623 West Fifty-second street. Vogel was questioned by Detective Lieutenant Shaffer, but was not held. Police Surgeon Dorn treated Hildenman and said that he probably would die.

Picture Leads to Arrest of Woman Suspect

With only a photograph to guide them, Detective Lieutenant Cross and Deputy Sheriff Lucker succeeded last night in recognizing Mrs. Anne Brennen, 23 years of age, of 1440 Wright street, as she left a theater at Seventh and Hill streets in a crowd of theatergoers. They arrested her on suspicion of passing a worthless check. The officers said that Mrs. Brennen has also used the names of Mrs. Betty Thomson and Mrs. B. Hicks and has passed worthless checks to obtain approximately $1000.

USE OF TOBACCO FOR SIXTY YEARS PAST

Sixty years ago the consumption of tobacco in this country was 1.3 pounds per capita per annum. Strange that we should think of those old days as a time when virtually all Americans of the sterner sex were either puffing a pipe, biting off a "chaw" or indulging in snuff. Undeniably we have such a picture of our forebears, and yet in 1920 the national use of tobacco was 6.31 pounds per capita. In the June issue of Hygeia these facts are called to public attention by Dr. James J. Waring, who does not hesitate to assert we are smoking too much.

It is fairly evident that somebody is smoking a great deal, for these, it must be remembered, are per capita statistics—and certain of our people, including the prattling babes, are not yet addicted to the "weed," as reformers call it. If one were to approach the average smoker with the suggestion that perhaps his use of tobacco is a trifle immoderate, the response of this individual would almost certainly be positive. It would be found that he is that fortunate fellow who never is harmed by smoking, and who could quit any time if he wanted to. Dr. Waring wags his head sadly and says, if you must smoke, it is wise to observe the following simple rules:

Do not smoke until 21 years of age. Have a health examination periodically. If you use cigarettes, confine yourself to five a day. Do not inhale. Do not blow smoke through the nose. Use dry tobacco and smoke slowly. Smoke outdoors and never indoors. Always use a cigarette or cigar holder. Smoke only immediately after meals. At least once a year stop smoking for a month or so.

If these rules were heeded the national consumption of tobacco would drop swiftly to the figures of sixty years ago, and perhaps below them, for it is well known that most men—and now we must say women, too—acquire the habit before the twenty-first birthday. The cigarette smoker who restricts himself to five a day is a rara avis, indeed. Few smokers smoke slowly. Cigar and cigarette holders are the exception rather than the rule. In cities, at least, more tobacco is burned indoors than out. Finally, we are unacquainted with that tobacco user who permits his system an annual vacation of a month or two. Dr. Waring would spoil the habit. Why, if he is obeyed, it were as well not to smoke—since it wouldn't be obligatory. In all truth, the person who obeyed his rules could, within a few days or weeks, use it or leave it alone.

Yet each of the rules laid down is predicated on the harmful effects of immoderate smoking. Each is designed to discourage some penalty that Lady Nicotine exacts of her votaries. Each is a warning. It is axiomatic that Americans are unusually extravagant in their devotion to pleasure. A majority of doctors will assure you that, for persons of mature years, moderate smoking has no particular perils. The trouble is that we do not seem to know the meaning of moderation. — [Portland Oregonian.

MANY HEADLINERS

NEW ORPHEUM BILL OFFERS NOVELTY AND CHARM

By Grace Kingsley

There is a little static on the bill at the Orpheum this week—not much, but a little. However, there is enough enjoyment to make up for the dull spots. Charlie Ruggles and Adele Rowland share headline honors among the newcomers. Charlie Ruggles hasn't appeared here in lo, these many moons, so it was a pleasure to welcome him mback in a smart playlet called "Wives, Etc.," by Roy Briant. That title sounds spicy, but the story is merely piquant. It turns out to be about a young man who, when the play opens, had got married the night before when he was drunk, with his wife immediately leaving him, and himself unable to remember whom he was wed to. The action centers around his trying to guess his wife's identity from among a bunch of girls who call on him. Ruggles is an expert comedian, and gets everything possible out of the act.

Adele Rowland is her own dainty, piquant, fascinating self, with her rare and subtle powers of suggesting rather than entering into impersonations, her sweet little crooked smile and her general air of class. Her voice is sweet and true as ever, and she made a lovely stage picture yesterday.

Edward J. Lambert looked like a blah boy when he first began his clowning, though his make-up was good for some laughs from pit and shelf, but when his partner, Fanchone Frankel, made her appearance, the team work much more than doubled his value. Miss Frankel is that rare creature, a real comedienne, easy in her manner, effective, yet willingly feeding her partner.

Al Herman in the jungle boy make-up is back with a few new jokes and some that were treasured in the phonograph when phonographs were in their infancy. But he is such a good showman, you forgive him.

Bert and Betty Wheeler continue to gather in the sweet applause with their fun, and one wonders again if "an apple a day keeps the doctor away," what four apples keep away—if anything. Four—count them—are the number consumed by Bert in his two shows. If he goes to the Hillstreet and gives three shows—oh, well, we can only hope that apples agree with him.

Tuning in on the number one spot are Ted and Al Waldman, who wrest music from saws and harmonicas and other impossible things. They made a big hit yesterday.

Harry Carroll's revue skips along with the full strength of the Orpheum bill helping out.

Stork Note

Word received here by friends of Mildred Harris, who in private life is Mrs. Terry McGovern, is that Miss Harris, who is now in New York, is retiring from pictures temporarily to await the coming of the stork. The small visitor is expected in November, according to report.

Lowell Sherman Next

"The Love Toy," the story by an anonymous author that is taking the country by storm, has been chosen as Lowell Sherman's second vehicle for Warner Brothers. His first, "Satan in Sables," with James Flood directing, was completed last week, and production on "The Love Toy" will start within the next fortnight. This will be Mr. Sherman's last picture before leaving for New York, where he is scheduled to open on Broadway in a new dramatic play. He came directly from a long engagement in Chicago in "High Stakes."

It was his great work in "Satan in Sables" that made the Warners put out every effort to secure "The Love Toy" for him, for it is a story that calls for a really artistic piece of work.

Erle Kenton, a director of many years' standing, who has been recently put under a long-term contract with Warner Brothers, has been assigned to the making of "The Love Toy." Mr. Kenton recently finished directing Monte Blue in a comedy drama called "Red Hot Tires," the picture that won him his contract.

SAM ALLEN MEMBER OF BARRYMORE CREW

Sam Allen is rejoicing in being chosen for place in the crew of John Barrymore's good ship, "Three Brothers," that set sail this week out of the vivid pages of Melville's classic "Moby Dick," as the Sea Beast.

Allen reported for duty at the dock of Warner Brothers' studio yesterday in the uniform of a picturesque sea captain of 1840. The voyage, which follows a previous one with Reed Howes and Dorothy Dwan in "The Bashful Buccaneer" at the California Studios and Catalina Island, will cover several weeks at the Warner Studio, and one of the near-by seaport towns.

NOVELTIES PROVE ATTRACTIVE

The temperature is cool and the enthusiasm warm this week at the Hillstreet Theater. Perhaps the first has added to the second, but at any rate a miniature stampede greets each offering. The bill is not exceptional in any way, although no one has a chance to become bored, for novelty forms the motive power of the entertainment.

Karyl Norman, that man of the dual personality and voice, usurps most of the spotlight and it rightly belongs to him, for his female impersonations are excellent. He is especially clever as the girl of the Paris underworld, but one fears for his safety after viewing his impersonation of the modern flapper. The assembled flappers of the country could quite rightly clamor for justice, for he certainly doesn't "do right by our little Nell."

Then there is Marion Harris, whose little chatty songs, of course, are due for a lot of applause. Marion has a confiding way of singing which is engaging, as well as possessing an attractive voice.

So ludicrous that he borders on burlesque is Pepito the Spanish clown, who does all the laughable grotesque stunts imaginable as well as some clever animal impersonations. The Palm Tree equipped with the usual snapping qualities of a rubber band is almost as funny as Pepito.

Just let anyone play "Moonlight and Roses" in a different way and the most blase of audiences will go wild! Jean Libenati must have sensed this, for his interpretation of that song, with two fingers, on his xylophone created a popular furor yesterday afternoon. He also played the usual run of syncopated melodies.

The McDonald Trio certainly run a versatile bicycle. As a rule, bicycle acts are not tremendously interesting, but this company is really out of the ordinary.

The feature picture is "School for Wives," with Conway Tearle and Sigrid Holmquist, and is just another picture where the title tells nothing at all. In fact, one might merely stop after saying that it is just "another picture." What Conway Tearle is doing in such mediocre surroundings is a matter for amazement.

Whitney Boys' Chorus to Sing at the Forum

The Whitney Boys' Chorus, with between 50 and 100 voices, will be heard in a special program today at the Forum Theater. This event was arranged only yesterday in order to permit the parents or relatives of these boys to hear some of them in group numbers previous to their departure in a few days for Philadelphia, where they will sing before the executive committee in charge of the great world's fair to be held in that city next year.

Members of the group to be heard at the Forum Theater today range in age from ten years to twenty years and are the picked voices from a great organization now being perfected. The plan is to have these boys sing in Philadelphia and then make the final complete arrangements for the larger body, to be an important factor at the fair next year.

PICTURE SENT EAST

RUSSELL GOES NORTH

John Russell, who returned to New York from California after he completed the adaptation of Joseph Conrad's "Lord Jim," which Victor Fleming is to film for Paramount, has gone up to Alexandria Bay and the Thousand Islands to spend the summer in the kind of surroundings that particularly suit an author of adventure stories and film romances. He will return to the Long Island studio in November.

TWO NEW WESTERNS

Universal City has started production on two new westerns. One, starring Edmund Cobb, is titled "The Emergency Man," and is being made under Ernst Laemmle's direction. Jack Mower is starring in "The Crook Buster," under the direction of William Wyler.

CHARLESTON CONTEST AT CINDERELLA ROOF

The third Charleston contest will be danced at the Cinderella Roof tonight with a stageful of famous judges to confer the prizes. ZaSu Pitts, starred in "Pretty Ladies," Frank Farnum, America's champion Charleston dancer, the Stuart Sisters from Ziegfeld Follies and other celebrities from Loew's State's current show will be there to see the local Charleston experts vie for honors.

ZASU PITTS

The Cinderella Roof management will hold a series of Charleston contests every Tuesday night and the first prize winners of all the preliminaries will compete in a huge final contest.

GOULDING SMASHES FILM SPEED RECORDS

The picture wasn't his production of "Sun-Up," recently completed with Pauline Starke and Conrad Nagel in the leading roles, but a trailer which is to be used for advertising purposes.

At 11 o'clock in the morning Harry Rapf, production executive, said to Goulding, "Good morning, Eddie. We want a one-reel picture featuring Norma Shearer and Lew Cody for a trailer. Just make it up as you go along—but have it finished by 6 tonight, because it is to be rushed to San Francisco for a premiere. Let's go!"

And Goulding went. Starting at 12:30, he took Miss Shearer and Mr. Cody to three separate locations, used two sets in the studio, and by 6 o'clock he had completed forty-eight scenes. The picture was cut and titled by 11 a.m. next day, and left for San Francisco early in the afternoon.

Goulding declares his fast work is a result of his scenario training. Before becoming a director for M.-G.-M. he was an adapter and scenarist.

'WEDDING SONG' ENDING GIVEN LOGICAL BASES

Undue importance is being attached to the controversy over happy and unhappy endings for motion pictures, in the opinion of Douglas Doty, scenarist for Leatrice Joy's next starring picture on the De Mille schedule, "The Wedding Song."

"A logical conclusion is what should be sought," declares Doty. "Whether it be happy or unhappy is of minor consideration. In determining whether a given set of circumstances should result in joy or sorrow, let the scenarist hold up a mirror to the life about him and study the laws of cause and effect as illustrated there."

With this theory in mind, Doty and Director Alan Hale have put a fitting finale on "The Wedding Song," in which Robert Ames is to play opposite Leatrice Joy.

NOVEL PUBLISHED

Winifred Eaton Reeve, Universal's eastern scenario editor, has just received notice of the publication of her twenty-third novel. It is called "His Royal Nibs." The book is dedicated to Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal company. Mrs. Reeve is now conferring at Universal City with Edward Montagne, western scenario chief, on the company's production program for the coming season.

BRIGHT IN SPOTS

PASSING SHOW THIS SEASON IS VINTAGE

By Edwin Schallert

Well, anyway — the Passing Show is here once again. Nobody will accuse it of being ultramodern and an expert's opinion would be needed exactly to determine its vintage, but I presume that the courtesy of a greeting should at least be extended to the revue of Messrs. Lee and J. J. Shubert for finding its way westward for yet another season. Their production, at any rate, is dependable in the regularity of its visits. And that—as they say from the Bronx to the Boulevard—is something.

I am afraid that the present edition, which is playing at the Biltmore Theater, is not going to arouse any wild or exciting comments from the more experienced theatergoers, but it must be said in its favor that it possesses a few good bright spots if one has the patience to wait for them.

Of coures, there is always plenty of variety to a Passing Show to sustain a casual interest. There are dances, songs and comedy, all instituted and designed to lighten the evening, particularly for the tired business man. I don't know that the tired business man is any more in evidence in a Passing Show audience than anybody else, but it is a tradition that he is, and the entertainment is fashioned accordingly. Personally, I believe that most tired business men, from a long experience with revues sent from New York, have probably by this time acquired the habit of spending their time elsewhere than in the theater while these shows are in town.

In the present Passing Show it can hardly be said that timeliness has been strongly emphasized. In fact, the company must have traveled considerably before it reached the Coast. One of the principal spectacular features has to do with the wedding of the Princess Mary, and as that noted aristocrat is now a mother, the celebration of her marriage comes rather close to being in the domain of history.

It is good, of course, to see such old friends of the vaudeville stage as El Brendel and Flo Bert. Brendel is there with his Swedish accent, his extra supply of coat buttons, his two pairs of trousers and the dress suit and the shoes that fall to pieces while he dances the minuet. Everybody doubtless knows Brendel and his comedy tricks, and Miss Bert and her impersonations, but they still afford a hilarious moment when introduced in this revue.

Too, George Price's impersonations of Al Jolson, Eddie Cantor and others in the radio-broadcasting act were very clever. They won him a great hand of applause. The comments by himself and Anna Lowenworth from a box in the theater during the burlesque of a French playlet also were amusing.

Other hits were made by the Breen Brothers, with their dancing; Vera Ross and Jan Moore, with their singing, and by Margaret Breen, with her dancing. The Japanese number in the second part of the show also was very effective with John Emerson Haynes, Louise Blakely, Misses Moore, Ross and Breen taking part. William Pringle, particularly, Jack Rice and James Hamilton were among others who kept the performance going with their individual efforts.

The music by Sigmund Romberg and Jean Schwartz is still at times very attractive and especially well played by the orchestra. It evidenced more life and appeal than did the book and the lyrics by Harold Atteridge. That is not Mr. Atteridge's fault, however, because even he probably did not expect it to survive more than a season or so.

One always misses Willie and Eugene Howard in a Passing Show, because the productions in which they appear are generally pretty well up to standard. The present show cannot, unfortunately, be rated that well.

Talented Cabin Introduced for 'The Gold Rush'

Introducing a cabin that breathes, walks, runs, dances, bows and pirouettes!

This is the seemingly impossible mechanical achievement of Charlie Chaplin in what is described as one of the most hilarious scenes in "The Gold Rush," his ten-part comedy-drama of the funny side of life in the Klondike, now at Grauman's Egyptian Theater.

Through stagecraft of a most extraordinary fashion, the audience sees the cabin picked up by an Alaskan blizzard, with Chaplin and Mack Swain sleeping within, blissfully ignorant of what is going on, carried off its foundations and whisked miles across the glistening snows to be lodged on the brink of a precipice.

In its eerie flight the cabin dances over obstructions, twirls with lightning-like rapidity, ambles over gulleys in the snow, and its walls collapse and expand like an animate object breathing, with mirth-provoking precocity.

The efforts of the occupants to escape, when they discover their precarious situation, is hailed by the audience as one of the funniest scenes ever filmed.

Ellis Comedy to be Given by Compton Cast

The Compton Community Players, Samuel H. Mendenhall, producing director, announce their first production, "The Judsons Entertain," by Edith Ellis, popular playwright, who wrote "White Collars," in its second year here, for Thursday and Friday evenings, the 23rd and 24th inst., in the Pathfinders' Club auditorius, 428 East Main street, Compton.

The cast includes Clinton E. Bump, Freda Mae Bower, Mrs. F. E. Abbott, Victor Williams, DeWayne Harrison, Sidney Edmondson, Fred Luedera, Jr., Adeline Pixler, Gladys Dunn, Helen Holland and Helen Jenks.

After considerable experience in both amateur and professional theatrical enterprises, Mendenhall is well prepared to fill the position of producing director. His last professional appearance was in "Beggar on Horseback," at the Majestic Theater. Mendenhall is an alumnus of Stanford University.

Chinese Mohammedan Leader Backbone of Antiforeign Feeling

The Expulsion of Foreigners from China and Revolt in India is the objective of Gen. Ma Liang, Chinese Mohammedan leader, who is undoubtedly responsible to a large extent for the anti-British sentiment in China. Gen. Ma (left above,) once the favorite Mohammedan lieutenant of Li Hung-Chang, is known as the most bitter enemy of the foreigner in China. At right is shown the Mitsui Cotton Mill in Yangtsepoo Road, Shanghai, where the China-wide demonstrations against foreigners originated in a minor dispute between Chinese workers and a Japanese foreman. ## FOUR FORCED TO LEAP INTO SEA AS FISHING BOAT BURNS

News of the burning at sea of the sixty-foot fishing vessel Marguerite and the narrow escape of Capt. Tony Stanovich and his crew of three was brought to Los Angeles Harbor last night by the survivors. The vessel was destroyed Sunday night off the coast of Baja California.

The Marguerite was built as a purse-seiner but had been converted into a tender to the American fishing fleet off the Mexican Coast. A backfire in her engine-room set her ablaze, Capt. Stanovich said. One of the men was asleep forward at the time of the fire and the blaze trapped him. Capt. Stanovich and the two others of the crew had to chop a hole in the deck to rescue him. Hardly had they done so when an explosion in the engine-room wrecked the central part of the vessel and the four men had to jump overboard for safety.

They had cut a skiff adrift earlier and to this they swam. The sea, fortunately, was calm, and they drifted about for five hours after the Marguerite sank till they were picked up by a Mexican revenue cutter which took them into Ensenada. None of them was hurt.

The Marguerite was owned by the Van Camp Sea Food Company and was worth $30,000. She had $8000 worth of fish and $5000 worth of supplies aboard making the total loss about $33,000.

Membership of British Unions in Huge Slump

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, July 20. — The annual report of the General Federation of Trade Unions shows a total membership of 830,316, the smallest recorded since 1912. The decrease last year was 89,734. The receipts, $288,650, show a decrease of $16,105 from the previous year.

W. A. Appleton, secretary of the federation, discussing the situation, said:

"The greatest of the losses arise from amalgamations and loss of membership in the unions themselves, and some arise from the poverty of unions who through unemployment find their contributions smaller. In some cases they find themselves handicapped through war-time commitments to expenditures which after war-time incomes cannot meet."

CITY'S ACTIVITY HAS STEADY GAIN

Industrial Work Here Shows Constant Increase

Warehouses, Factories and Shops Are Big Items

The steady growth of Los Angeles as an industrial city is shown by the continued increase, year after year, of industrial construction, declared E. Earl Glass, executive secretary of the Southern California Chapter, Associated General Contractors of America, who points to a recent report of the building department, issued by J. J. Backus, chief building inspector, which shows that $35,534,163 has been spent between June 30, 1921, and June 30, 1925, for industrial construction.

The report shows that during the fiscal year 1921-22, 427 building permits with a valuation of $5,214,490 were issued for factories, motion-picture studio buildings, industrial buildings, work shops and warehouses. The following year the number of permits increased to 603 and the valuation to $10,598,872, which was approximately a 100 per cent gain during twelve months.

GAIN MADE IN 1923

The fiscal year 1923-24 shows a gain in permits with a total of 839 and a valuation of $10,482,404. While the number of permits for the fiscal year closing June 30, 1924, fell to 568 and the valuation to $8,752,864 the average cost per structure increased about 25 per cent, which is assurance of a more substantial class of buildings.

During the four periods permits have been issued for 291 factory buildings, aggregating $7,789,436. The past fiscal year registering seventy-five permits valued at $3,552,690, which is the greatest valuation for this class of structure in the history of the city. The year of 1924 was second with about only $250,000 less.

MANY STUDIOS BUILT

Eighty-six motion-picture studio buildings representing an expenditure of $1,074,650 have been erected during the four-year period. While this figure does not represent the total expenditure by this industry, due to the fact that considerable improvement has been made outside of the city limits, it reflects the steady growth in this industry.

Warehouses erected during the period June 30, 1921, and June 30, 1925, reflect an expenditure of $11,817,466 with 662 building permits being issued. The largest volume for this class structure was last year with $4,289,997 valuation. There were 128 permits issued. Industrial buildings, according to the report, show the greatest valuation with $12,521,065 for the four-year period, 886 permits being issued. Shop buildings, 615 in number, show a valuation of $2,563,916.

LARGEST FACTORY

One of the largest factory buildings, which was started during the past year, is the National Biscuit Company limit-heighth baking plant at Industrial and Mateo streets which is being erected by the Pozzo Construction Company at a cost in excess of $1,500,000. This modern plant will have been completed before January 1, next, according to the contractors.

WAREHOUSE PLANNED

C. E. Finkenbinder is preparing plans for the erection of a four-story reinforced concrete and brick warehouse for Elmer E. Frost & Co., at 1824 East Fifteenth street. The structure will be 165x273 feet in dimension and is estimated to cost $250,000.

CITY-WIDE HUNT ON FOR ABSENT GIRL

Mother Receives Message from Stranger and Calls for Police Aid

A city-wide search was being made last night by police for Ruth Rist, 16-year-old daughter of Mrs. R. R. Rist, 6248 Fountain avenue, who is said to have run away from her home two days ago.

A man giving the name of Delane, last night called Mrs. Rist on the telephone and said he had received a telephone call from another man who said he had been in communication with the girl and that she wanted Delane to come to her at once as she was "in terrible trouble."

Delane said he was talking from a telephone booth downtown. He told the mother he did not know that her daughter was missing and that he would call his informant and seek to learn more, calling the mother again later. Mrs. Rist immediately notified police, stating she did not know Delane.

Canoga Lands Enjoy Use of City Utilities

Los Angeles Public Utility Service is supplied at prevailing city rates to Canoga estates, according to Harold G. Ferguson, head of the syndicate which owns and is developing Canoga.

"There is no pioneering to do at Canoga," said Ferguson. "The purchaser of an estate here gets every facility of the city and he pays no more than his city neighbor for the service.

"Canoga is supplied with water under the Los Angeles aqueduct. With an abundance of water it is possible to create an estate of which one can be justly proud within a very few months. The soil is excellent at Canoga.

"In addition to the two fine wide boulevards which connect Canoga with Hollywood and Los Angeles there is a fast Pacific Electric bus line affording rapid and frequent transportation to and from the city.

Brick School Will be Built Near Tulare

Arrival of Ties is Foreshadow of New Station

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MONROVIA, July 21.—Ties for new trackage in the Santa Fe yards here, looking toward erection of a new Santa Fe station, arrived yesterday, it was announced by L. A. Fox, local agent.

Bids on construction of the new depot are now being received, it was stated, and work is expected to start in the near future.

YEAR'S MINE OUTPUT HAS HUGE GAIN

Increase of $15,000,000 in Minerals Over 1924 Revealed by Survey

Minerals with a total value of $358,745,000 were produced in California during 1924, this total representing a gain of $15,000,000 over the previous year, statistics provided the research department of the Los Angeles Pressed Brick Company by the State Mining Bureau and released last week reveal.

There now are more than fifty mineral substances in California's commercial list, the report shows, the total value of crushed rock, sand and gravel aggregating $17,000,000, while brick and hollow building tile products reached a total of $10,200,000 for the year.

The year's increase in the total value is attributed in part to petroleum, which, although 33,000,000 barrels below the previous year in quantity, the higher price per barrel more than made up for the loss.

Oil led the minerals with a total of $250,000,000, the value of other products following: Cement, $23,320,000; natural gas, $16,250,000; gold, $12,375,000; copper, $6,879,000; miscellaneous industrial materials, $6,000,000; salines, $5,000,000; silver, $2,225,000; other structural materials, $2,000,000.

Trustees Order Street Paving in San Gabriel

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SAN GABRIEL, July 21.—An important street improvement was launched here this week when the City Trustees ordered a resolution of intention prepared for the paving of Broadway from San Gabriel Boulevard to Santa Anita street. The specifications will provide for Class-A oil macadam four and one-half inches in thickness. Steps will also probably be taken to require the installation of all gas and water services to the curb before the paving is laid.

The paving of Broadway, it is pointed out, will be an important step in the development of both the city and the surrounding territory, as it will form a better connecting link for a much-needed central boulevard, taking care of traffic which will come through San Gabriel over Ramona street in a diagonal line from Valley Boulevard.

Lindsay High School Altered Considerably

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LINDSAY, July 21.—A completely renovated and altered building will greet students of the Lindsay High School when they return to their studies in September. Carpenters have been at work for some time making changes.

A room on the south end of the hall on the first floor, which was formerly a boy's cloak room and later made into a teachers' office, has been refitted as a teachers' rest room. The teachers' former rest room and the girl's cloak room have been converted into a much-needed class room.

The biggest change is taking place upstairs at the north end of the building, where the library, the old study hall, is being joined with the two class rooms directly east of it. This will make a large study hall which will accommodate all of the students each period who have a study hour.

Insurance Bill is Law on July Twenty-fourth

Assembly Bill 205, passed at the last session of the Legislature and signed by the Governor, provides that it is a misdemeanor for an employer to fail to carry insurance or otherwise to secure compensation for injured employees, as provided by Section 29 of the Workmen's Compensation, Insurance and Safety Act of the State of California.

Upon conviction the employer is subject to a fine of not more than $500, or by imprisonment for not more than six months, or by both.

This law becomes effective the 34th inst., and thereafter anyone hiring employees subject to the compensation law in this State must carry workmen's compensation insurance or secure from the commission a certificate of consent to self-insure or be subject to the penalty above stated.

The commission is authorized to require the employer to furnish a written statement at any time showing the name of his insurance carrier, and failure of the employer to furnish such written statement after a period of ten days constitutes presumptive evidence that the employer has not complied with the law.

PHONE ANSWERED AGE-OLD PRAYER

LINE TO SUMMIT OF ST. BERNARD PASS HELPS ALPINE TRAVELERS

A lonely telephone, high up in the Alps, on top of the great St. Bernard Pass, at the ancient "hospice," and presided over by a tall, old monk, stands guard for the hardy travelers who attempt to cross the range by the Pass, rather than to make the trip through the tunnel below.

In the June issue of the Cosmopolitan, Ernest Poole writes of "The Lady with the Icy Kiss"—the Glacier Bride of the Guides—and tells how the telephone, the monks and the famous dogs of St. Bernard have made the Pass safe. The wire leading from the telephone at the "hospice" goes to an inn some ten miles lower down the Pass, and in times of storm when a traveler leaves the inn, word is telephoned up to the "hospice" and one of the monks goes down with the dogs to reach the traveler before he is overcome.

"But are there no lives still lost in winter?" inquired a young American.

"No — not a life in many years." The tall old man was silent a moment. Then in a reverent tone he said, "for over 1000 years, my son, we have prayed for the safety of travelers here. And He has answered our prayers at last."

"The smart young American asked, "Or was it the telephone?"

"The old mountain-climber turned and looked at the Yankee with quiet eyes. "Yes, my son—that is how God answered our prayers.——— [Telephone Press.

IRELAND'S IDLE MEN

Free State and Ulster Have 94,000 Jobless

Both in the Free State and northern Ireland says the Statist of London, the unemployment problem is serious, at least 40,000 being out of work in the former and 54,000 in the latter. The industrial north, which has, of course, a much smaller population, is thus in a worse position than the Free States, where agriculture, in spite of its depression, contrives to afford a not unsatisfactory volume of employment. In the Free State the Shannon scheme will, however, absorb a considerable number of unemployed. The Land Commission, too, will have the spending of £200,000, chiefly in the poorer areas. There is a sum of £100,000 available for the improvement of farmers' lands, and on drainage schemes £25,000 will be expended. Money will also be spent as a result of the housing grants and the decision to subsidize a beet factory Measures of this description will go far to meet the situation, but, of course, another unfavorable harvest may result in new demands on the exchequer.

OIL UPSETS CITY

Little Town Near Iola Is Having "Growing Pains"

A Kansas town that formerly regarded its fortune as beef on the hoof now gathers its riches in oil and a man that will look at a beef critter doesn't live on the townsite of Madison, northwest of Iola. A. A. Barnard, its Mayor, said today.

With a normal population of 1000 and 2500 now depending upon it for food and in many instances shelter, Madison is hard pressed for a solution of its parking and housing problem. Main street in Madison is only two blocks long.

Motor trucks going to the oil field in fleets halt in Madison to "tie up" for the night or for supplies. Traffic congestion recently became so acute that movement through Madison's main artery was practically impossible and the town called upon J. W. McCarthy, deputy State fire marshal working out of Iola, for help.

Development of the Madison field by the Empire, Skelly and Phillips companies has brought riches to many who a short time ago were dead broke. Derricks now are reaching into town with the discovery of an oiler estimated at 500 barrels on the John Kipper land on the edge of Madison.

Late arrivals who got to Madison sleep in chairs or walk the streets.—[Iola (Kan.) Correspondent, Kansas City Times.

LUMBER MART TREND UPWARD

Price Advances Predicted by Authorities

Consumption in Six Months Exceeds Output

Seven Hundred Rural Yards Low in Stock

The whole trend of the lumber market appears to be upward, according to reports coming to the American Lumberman, Chicago, from mill regions and distributing centers. There are many mentions of price increases, as quotations have reached a low and unprofitable level. A study of the statistical position of the principal softwoods would indicate that this movement must continue, as authorities estimate that consumption of lumber during the first half of this year has exceeded the production by fully 10 per cent.

Where accurate figures are available they point to a further growth in strength. The most recent to hand for the Ninth Federal Reserve District, which includes Montana, the Dakotas, Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin, are for May and show that there was 62 per cent more lumber sold at retail than in May last year, 10 per cent more than in April of this year, while stocks were 2 per cent less than in April—these reports coming from almost 700 rural yards.

Shipments from all the principal softwood mills of the United States during the first half of the year have fully equaled their production. During the week ended June 24 the southern pine mills again shipped more than they produced and had orders for more than 5 per cent above their output. On the one hand, dry stocks and certain items are getting scarce, while requests for quick shipment are more numerous and more urgent.

The west-coast fir mills during the four weeks of June shipped, respectively, 7, 5, 10 and 8 per cent more lumber than they manufactured, so that stocks are becoming depleted. The shutdown will not be as extensive as at first planned, as the producers are more optimistic. Atlantic Coast bookings at recently prevailing levels are no longer attractive, as overseas trade is expected to begin takings of large amounts in sixty days at the outside.

The California movement has been lighter than last year, but consumption has been heavy and has reduced stocks, so that in view of the continued building activity and large crop returns indicated there should be fine trade this fall with that market. The general trend of fir prices is toward greater firmness.

Southern hardwood mills are finding operations so unprofitable that an increasing number are closing down, though the movement is large and demand continues good. Building trades demand has been exceptionally large, especially for oak flooring. Demand for the northern hardwoods usually begins to exceed production around August 1, and as that relation it attained, prices may be expected to strengthen.

BUILDING OF COLD PLANT IS STARTED

Modern Refrigerating Being Built by Pasadena Ice Company

Construction work was started this week by the Pasadena Ice Company on a reinforced concrete cold storage building on their property on South Broadway, Pasadena. Hamm and Grant, Inc., architects and engineers, prepared the plans for the building and are supervising its erection for the Pasadena Ice Company.

The plant now being constructed is to be a two-story building, 88 by 156 feet of flat-slab, reinforced concrete design, with provision made for the addition of four more stories in the future. Special attention has been given in the design to resistance to earthquake shocks. It is said that the cold storage plant when completed will be one of the most modern on the Pacific Coast.

A special feature will be the installation of a system of refrigeration and ventilation, which completely removes all carbon dioxide and other undesirable gases given off by materials in the storage rooms and provides a continuous cold fresh air supply. Another novel feature will be a large burglar and fire-proof cold storage vault for furs, rugs and valuable fabrics.

All storage rooms will be completely insulated with cork board insulation. The refrigeration will be furnished from the present plant of the Pasadena Ice Company. The insulation and refrigeration work will be installed by the York Products Corporation of Los Angeles. The total cost of the two-story building now under construction will be approximately $135,000.

Organize New Improvement Association

Organized to look after affairs of a public nature pertaining to the Berkeley Square School District development in Beverly Hills, the Beverly Square Improvement Association has chosen Louis S. Grant as its president and C. L. Florence secretary.

The new Berkeley Hall school buildings, located in the tract, are assuming shape and the administration building will be completed in the near future. The auditorium building, largest of the group, is progressing rapidly.

To complete the units in time for the fall term, five buildings now used at Berkeley Hall, Los Angeles, will be removed temporarily to Beverly Hills, with two residences for teachers' quarters. The school will open the third week of September.

WHERE WAR BOLT MAY HIT FIRST

Ancient Fort Looms as Strife Center

[North American Newspaper Alliance Photo]

Watch Tower Guarding Main Entrance to Peking

THE FAMOUS Watch Tower, guarding the main entrance to Peking, is said to be the most picturesque fortress in the world. Americans and Britons may be forced to mount machine guns and hold it, according to the defense program reported in dispatches from the Chinese capital.

This quaint old fortress commands the main gateway into the chief city of China. Should open war develop one of the existing turmoil, the first real battle is likely to be fought around the Watch Tower.

Modern rapid-fire rifles may whistle their songs of death through these grinning portholes made for ancient archers and slingshot marksmen.

The Watch Tower saw Marco Polo walk in to visit the emperor Kublai Khan, seven centuries ago. It has witnessed the passing of Mongol, Ming and Manchu dynasties and the coming of radio and the airplane.

UNIFORMITY IN BUILDING LAW LOOMS

Wall Board Maker Declares Western States Will Adopt Consistent Legislation

A prediction that Western States will soon have uniform laws relating to the use of wall backings in stucco construction is made by John W. Ford, Jr., president of the Bishopric Manufacturing Company, manufacturers of various wall-builder's products.

"San Francisco has already amended its building ordinance," said Mr. Ford, "to make possible a wider and more intelligent use of this popular form of construction. Since 1906, the San Francisco law prevented the use of any patented wall backing. One-inch lumber sheathing had to be used as the backing for stucco walls. Recently, however, after observing the wide and successful use of stucco over composition backings in Los Angeles, the San Francisco Board of Supervisors amended the city's building law to permit the use of our product.

"While the law in San Francisco has heretofore been too severe, in the opinion of practically all builders and contractors, in other cities it has been too lax. In Los Angeles, for instance, the cause of stucco construction has suffered somewhat because the ordinance allows the use of wall backings that sometimes do not give satisfactory results.

"There has already been considerable agitation along this line, and I believe that within a short time there will be a greater uniformity of laws relating to stucco construction. A desire has been expressed among many builders to have a State law which will steer a middle course, cutting out the inferior products, and at the same time making possible a wider use of those products which have proved themselves."

SAVING OF TWO LEADS TO ARREST

Driven Sends Beer-Laden Truck Over Curb to Avoid Woman and Babe

NEW YORK, July 20.—A heavy truck rolled down Union avenue, at One Hundred and Sixty-third street, Bronx. The way apparently was clear at the corner and the driver did not stop his machine. Suddenly a woman pushing a baby carriage stepped from the sidewalk in the path of the truck.

Liebowitz smiled. "Been doing it for years, and they don't make 'em better," he said. "But that was too close. The woman stepped right in front of the wheels."

The driver began backing the truck into the street, continuing chatting with the policeman. Then Nussbaum, who had been sniffing, asked what was loaded on the truck.

"Only lemons," answered the driver. But then a couple of barrels fell to the street. Policeman Nussbaum investigated, at once suspicious. The stuff was beer—seventy-five barrels of it. Liebowitz, who lives at 279 Graham avenue, Brooklyn, was arrested.

"Now I go to jail for saving two lives," he commented.

Two Brick Shops Ready for Use in Thirty-five Working Days

Completion of two brick shop buildings, each two stories in height, in thirty-five working days, is the record established by the Mann Building Company, member of the Southern California Chapter, Associated General Contractors of America. The two buildings were for the Taft Realty Company on Serrano avenue, near Santa Monica Boulevard, according to the contractors.

The buildings, representing an investment of about $35,000 each, are the first of a series of Flemish type structures to be erected on Film Row—a new street to be opened between Serrano avenue and Western avenue, by the Taft Realty Company, and marks the initial start on a $1,000,000 development program providing for the construction of an entire street in replica of a typical Flemish village.

The two buildings just completed were of brick, two stories in height, with high tiled roofs and distinctly Flemish type of architecture. One of the buildings contains three stores on the ground floor and two apartments above and the other contains stores on the first floor with studio above.

The structure will occupy a site 140 by 60 feet, will be of brick and stucco, and will cost $40,000.

Edward Schmidt of Burton & Co., Wilshire realty firm, who negotiated the deal, says that virtually all of the space in the proposed building has been leased.

SOUTHLAND OUTRIVALS SPAIN TYPE

None So Intensely Spanish as California Homes, Maker of Tile Declares

There is nothing in Spain so intensely Spanish as the Spanish houses of California, according to W. R. Fawcett, secretary of Pacific Clay Products, who has made a deep study of this particular type of architecture, as developed both here and in the mother country.

"The characteristics of the Spanish-type house have been expanded and embellished in the hands of American architects. Here in Southern California the Spanish type of dwelling has reached its highest point of beauty and attractiveness, and although many improvements have been made, the origin of the Spanish house of California is unmistakable.

"It was the Andalusian house of Spain that was first transplanted to America. The heart of the Andalusian house is the patio, or court. This invariably is paved with gayly-colored brick, usually red. The roofs of the original Andalusian houses were invariably of tile, with banks of Pomeranian red or ultramarine blue. The facade was generally varied with door hoods of brick, with grills for
